East Side Pioneers Celebrate Golden Wedding Anniversary

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE A. MORSE.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Morse of 206 Central avenue celebrated the golden anniversary of their wedding Friday at their home. During the afternoon the members of Harmony chapter, No. 8, O. E. S., surprised Mrs. Morse by a thimble bee in her honor. Mrs. W. H. Kirk, worthy matron of the chapter, presented the bride with a gift from the chapter and read an original poem on the occasion. A group of friends and relatives attended a celebration of the anniversary in the evening. The couple received a number of other gifts among them being one from Mrs. Morse's sewing circle, which was presented by Mrs. C. H. Howard.

Mr. Morse is the oldest news dealer in the city. He was graduated from the Edward Little institute of Auburn, Me., in 1853 and went later to Lewis-ton, Me., where he helped to start the No. 1 Hill mill. Two years later he married Miss Lydia H. Pratt of Wells, Me.

In 1864 he came to Minneapolis and settled on the East Side, opening a news stand on Main street, then the business thoroughfare of St. Anthony. To this store "Old Man" Shepard brought the St. Paul Press—this was before the Press had consolidated with the Pioneer and before Burke O'Brien's time—in fact, before Minneapolis had a daily newspaper.

He joined the Cataract lodge early after its inception and with Mrs. Morse is a charter member of Harmony chapter No. 8, O. E. S. For thirty years he has been in his present location, and of an afternoon it is interesting to drop into his shop and notice his patrons pass in and out, for men prominent throughout the state often stop to have a social visit with their old friend and exchange reminiscences of early days.

Mr. and Mrs. Morse have one son, Fred B. Morse of 417 University avenue SE, and also a grandchild.
