DO NOT LOOK FOR UNION OF CITIES

PROMINENT CITIZENS REGARD IDEA AS IMPRACTICABLE.

While It Is Admitted That Consolidation Urged by A. B. Stickney Would Be of Benefit, the Scheme Is Looked Upon as Not at All Likely to Be

While it is admitted by many that, once accomplished, the political union of Minneapolis and St. Paul would be of great and lasting benefit, Minneapolis citizens do not consider as at all practical A. B. Stickney's suggestion that it would be advisable for the two cities to become united under one central municipal government. The scheme seems to be looked upon in Minneapolis as a plan that may some day come to a practical realization but not for many tical realization, but not for many years, and not until the two cities are tical purposes St. Paul and Minneapolis may be considered twenty-five miles apart. The uniting of the two cities has been talked of for years, and it, will be many more years, I believe, before any effort will be made to carry any such plan into execution."

"The question has been brought up off and on for twenty years," said W. G. Nye, secretary of the public affairs committee of the Commercial club. "Commercially, it would no doubt be of great advantage for the two cities to be known thruout the country as one. They would then be recognized as one commercial center equal in imas one commercial center equal in im-portance to St. Louis, and surpassed by not over half a dozen commercial cen-ters in the United States.

"If see no necessity, hewever," said Mr. Nye with some sarcasm and a smile, "for an early controversy over smile, "for an early controvers, the selection of a name for the combined city."

John A. Schlener represents not a small class which is strongly opposed to the furthering of any scheme for the uniting of Minneapolis with St. Paul. "I don't believe in it from and I never did believe in it from the time it was first broached," he said. "There is not a condition of affairs today exis not a condition of affairs today existing which demands anything of the sort. I am of the opinion that the disadvantages and difficulties which would arise from a combination of the two cities would outweigh what little advantages the combination might bring forth. I believe that to a certain degree, the fact that the two cities tain degree, the fact that the two cities have ever been distinctly separate has been a source of competition and rivalry in the interests of the two, which has worked to the distinctive advantage of each municipality. There is also another factor that should be kept in mind; the experience of other cities which have become associated under one municipal head government is that such a combination has been a cause of increased cost of government and ac-cordingly increased taxataion. This was true especially in the formation of Greater New York."

"Let's Co-operate," Says Mayor.

"As to the legal proposition of unit-ing the two cities," said Mayor D. P. Jones, "that is a subject on which I am not familiar, but which is a very important consideration. The question must be decided as to whether two cities in different counties can come under one central government without much delay and probably special state legislation.

"But outside of this legal aspect of the proposition, I would say there should be a growing demand for a working agreement and co-operation between the twin cities for the further advancement and upbuilding of both cities. Let co-operation be substituted for competition; for the bet-terment of business interests; for the good of the people and for the moral uplift of the cities. "In this way Minneapolis and St.

Paul may secure the benefits of united efforts to build up a common center, even the they are not united under one government."

SWITCHMAN IS KILLED

David Palmer, a switchman for the Minneapolis & St. Louis railroad, was fatally injured in the yards yesterday and died at St. Mary's hospital shortly afterward.

Palmer was under an engine attaching a coupling when another engine backed down, striking the engine he was under with great force. It was shoved several feet along the track and Palmer was horribly mangled. Friends took him from under the wheels and he took him from under the wheels and he was hurried in the patrol wagon to the hospital, where he died from loss of blood at 5 p.m.

Palmer lived with his mother at 645 Madison street NE. He was 20 years old and had been in the railroad business only a short time.

Establishment of Plants in Every State in Union Is Urged, Speaker Declaring that Concrete Will Soon Leave Behind Iron and Lumber Industries-Minneapolis in 1907.

D. N. Harper of Detroit, Mich, speaking today at the convention of the Northwestern Cement Products association, urged the establishment of a Portland cement plant in every state in the union. His subject was "The Future of the Concrete Industry." "Portland cement," he said, "is the basis of this industry. Without it, it would be nothing. We should have, first, a good quality of cement, and, second, at accessible points, so that the railroads will not get all the cost of it. The afternoon and closing session was taken up with two important addresses, in which J. G. Houghton, building inspector for Minneapolis, talked of "Concrete Blocks," and J. O. McClenahan of New York city explained an allied subject, that of "Manufactured Stone."

City Bacteriologist Already Has Bodies of Four Animals Believed to Have Beeen Afflicted with Hydrophobia, and Another Scare Today Will Give Him Another Specimen.

Police and health department offi-Police and health department officials are becoming greatly alarmed over the apparent spread of hydrophobia in all parts of the city, and Mayor Jones may be asked to enforce the ordinance which authorizes him to order all dogs muzzled in times of danger.

Dr. Frank Corbett, city bacteriologist, already has the bodies of four dogs supposed to have been afflicted with hydrophobia, and another maddog scare today will give him another specimen.

At noon today a detachment of of-ficers was sent to 725 Eleventh avenue N to kill a dog that had gone mad and snapped viciously at pedestrians and at other dogs. The dog was first seen children returning home from school. He was then running madly about the streeet with his head close to the ground and was snapping at everything e came near. The children ran home and none of them was injured. Several men had narrower escapes and they notified the police. Several dogs that followed the afflicted one were bitten and the poafflicted one were bitten and the police are now searching for them.

Two afflicted dogs were killed by the police yesterday. One was shot by Patrolman Charles Frane in Northeast Minneapolis. This dog was of the same type as the one who bit the six men on First avenue S a few days ago and he was killed only after a hard chase. It is known to have attacked a man whose name is unknown to the police, but was beaten off and to the police, but was beaten off and the man was uninjured. Nearly a dozen dogs had encounters with the af-flicted one and were bitten. Patrolman Wylie of the North Side station was also called out on a mad dog scare yesterday afternoon. A dog unknown to any of the persons who saw him, ran amuck near Bryant and Sixteenth avenues N. There were few persons on the street at the time and tho some dogs were said to have been bitten they could not be found. The officer shot the animal.

All three of these dogs were taken n charge by the health department and tests are being made to learn if they are afflicted with the terrible disease. Policemen have been instructed to keep a careful watch on all dogs acting in a suspicious manner. No action will probably be taken until the tests now being made are completed. Is it is found that hydrophobia exists every dog in the city will probably be

BRICKLAYERS AND MASONS' IN-TERNATIONAL UNION KEEPS OFFENDING DELEGATES OUT

Contrary to their expectation, the New York unions suspended for viola-tion of the laws of the Bricklayers and Masons' International union, which is in convention at Normanna hall, were not reinstated today. Instead of seating the seventeen New York delegates who have been waiting outside for nearly two weeks, the convention voted proofing contracts. The naw of the international provides that the contractor may let one contract for the bricklaying and another for the instalation of concrete boxes and other forms of fireproofing. The New Yorkers have insisted upon all the work being done under one contractor and have charged bribery and corruption on the part of the fireproof concerns, reaching into the ranks of the interna-

Their objection to the separate contract is that it gives the bricklayer a job in the summer on outside construction, but throws him when winter sets in and inside work begins. They fought the separate contract rule when it was adopted two years ago and have since openly violated it. The present convention has slightly modified the law so as to conform somewhat to the New York demand, but has refused to grant any terms save unconditional surrender any terms save unconditional surrender to the rebels.

The Chicago contest has been quietly settled by seating the delegation having written credentials. Committee reports have been read and adopted rapidly. Most of them pertained to routine internal affairs, and called forth no debate. The committee or subordinate unions has reported that 450 nate unions has reported that 450 new unions were organized in 1905.

Four committees still have to report but the officers hope that the business of the convention, including the election of officers, will be concluded by Saturday night. Tonight the visiting delegates will be guests of locals No. 2 and 5 at a dance at the Masonic Temple.
