CHOKED AND ROBBED ON BRIDGE SQUARE

Joseph Ganswrek was held up, choked and robbed under the glare of an electric light on Bridge square early last evening. Ambrose Brooks was arrested with the crime. Four eyewitnesses declare that Brooks is the man who did the job, and they will all testify against him.

Ganswrek had been drinking in several saloons, and as he came out of one of them he stepped up to him and, grasping him about the neck, took his watch and money, amounting to $25. The robber then ran into an alley, but Sergeant Tom Russell and another officer saw him and arrested him a few minutes later. The watch and money are said to have been found on his person.

His case was continued in police court and will probably come before the grand jury tomorrow.

WILL CAPITOL EVER BE DONE?

COMMISSION SEEMS DISPOSED TO HANG ON FOREVER.

Two Years Allowed by Horton Bill Will Be Used, and Will Carry the Commission into Another Legislative Session—Permanent Commission the Ultimate Aim—Governor May Fill Vacancies.

Is the state capitol finished, and, if not, will it ever be?

This question has been asked by a good many people since the publication of the report of the public examiner on the capitol commission. To all appearances the capitol is finished now, and if the commission is tired of its burden it can turn the building over to the governor at any time. The Horton act passed a year ago said in part: "The board of state capitol commissioners are hereby authorized, in addition to the powers heretofore given them, to properly care for, operate and maintain the new capitol building and to prepare, adorn and care for the grounds surrounding the same, until such time as said building may be fully completed, not exceeding two years from the passage of this act."

Two years from the passage of this act, or at such earlier date as it may be completed, the new capitol building shall be turned over to the governor.

The law does not say who shall be the judges as to when the building is complete, and it is apparently left to the commission. It is well known that the commission, or at any rate Channing Seabury, favors a permanent commission to care for the building. If the commission hangs on for two years from the passage of the act, it will hold until the last of March, 1907.

Another legislature will then be in full swing, and there will be plenty of opportunity to lobby through another legislature the permanent commission. That, in the opinion of observers, is what the commission intends to do.

Technically, the building is not finished, but for all practical purposes it is as near done as it ever will be. The construction work is done except for a few stone steps at one end and a few odds and ends of equipment. Some work remains to be done on the grounds. Any capable superintendent could see to the execution of such work. The remaining paintings and statuary engaged do not need a commission to accept them when finished. However, the commission is in the saddle, and it is going to oust it. Some think Governor Johnson could assume control at any time, but he is not going to test his right to such action. He seems well satisfied to be free from the responsibility and the patronage of the building, and is leaving the commission strictly alone.

Seabury Bill Resting Easy.

There is a good deal of speculation, too, over the famous bill for Channing Seabury, which was held up by the governor last summer. The bill for the same way by the public examiner, $690 was not approved because of many items declared by the governor not to be proper charges. Similar items in previous bills were criticized in the same way by the public examiner, but the last bill was not before him. Mr. Seabury has never asked for a hearing on the bill, and he is not likely to do so. He is letting the proposition alone. Apparently he does not intend to take the matter up with the present governor, but has hopes of more liberal treatment from his successor or from the legislature.

There are two vacancies on the commission which the governor has not filled, on the theory that the work is so heavily done that no commissioners would have anything to do. He may decide, however, if the commission intends to hang on for a full year longer, to put two of his own appointees in to keep track of things. The vacancies are caused by the death of H. W. Lamberth of Winona and by the removal of Colonel C. H. Graves of Duluth, now United States minister to Sweden.

BUILDING IN JANUARY BROKE ALL RECORDS

Minneapolis made a splendid record in building operations during the month of January, breaking all previous records for that month.

The figures for the month are 199 permits for buildings to cost $432,705. The previous high mark for the first month of the year was that of 1888, when the permit aggregate was $380,115. Other high marks were January, 1889, with permits aggregating $237,000, and January, 1891, with $263,630. A year ago the figures were 188 permits and the cost $163,510.

The month began strong and ended strong, the last permit issued being that of the Northwestern exchange company for a four-story addition to the exchange building at Fifth street and Third avenue S. This will be built in the form of an "L" on two sides of the block, and will have a frontage of thirty-two feet on Fifth street and twenty feet on Third avenue. It will be of brick and reinforced concrete fireproof thruout and will cost $51,000.

Other notable buildings are: A four-story building at Fifth street and Third avenue S, cost $100,000; a two-story building at Fifth street and Third avenue S, cost $75,000; a two-story building at Fifth street and Third avenue S, cost $75,000; a two-story building at Fifth street and Third avenue S, cost $75,000.

W. H. JACOBY IS CALLED TO REST

PIONEER MINNEAPOLITAN DIES IN LOS ANGELES.

He Came to Minneapolis Forty Years Ago and Established a Photograph Gallery on Bridge Square—Spent Twenty-eight Summers at Lake Park, Minnetonka—Will Be Brought Here.

W. H. JACOBY, Pioneer Minneapolitan Who Died on Wednesday.

W. H. Jacoby, a pioneer citizen of Minneapolis, manager of the Jacoby Novelty company, died at 1 p.m. Wednesday at his temporary home in Los Angeles. He had been ill for several weeks and was seriously sick when he left Minneapolis in August. C. L. Jacoby, his son, started for California at 10:20 a.m. yesterday, and it was impossible to reach him by telephone last night. No arrangements will be made for the funeral until some reply is received from him. Mrs. Jacoby was with her husband in Los Angeles and a married daughter, Mrs. Russell, resides there.

William H. Jacoby was born in Massillon, Ohio, sixty-four years ago. He came to Minneapolis about forty years ago and began the business of photography on Bridge Square, and the lower corner of Second street and Nicollet avenue. Five years later Mr. Jacoby built the store at 252 Nicollet, which at that time was about the first structure west of Washington avenue. He still owned this building and was one of the business tenants.

About ten years ago Mr. Jacoby went into the novelty business with his son, after having retired some time previous from active work as a photographer. Besides being a pioneer builder in Minneapolis, Mr. Jacoby was one of the first to secure a lot and build a cottage at Lake Park, now Tonka Bay, Lake Minnetonka. He spent twenty-eight summers there with his family and was the lake's last summer before he went west. Mr. Jacoby had spent two winters in California and last season in Cuba in search of health. Mr. Jacoby was a brother-in-law of Frank O. Stafford, Robinson, who was recently arrested as he stepped from a steamer at New York, after a visit to gay Paree, will be brought to Minneapolis to be tried by Vaughan.

Vaughan was arrested in Denver Tuesday by Postoffice Inspector Gregg. The authorities have been aware of his whereabouts for some time but deferred making an arrest until they had Robinson.

Vaughan and Robinson are alleged to have conducted a fake commission business in Minneapolis from Jan. 1 to April 10, 1905.

Literature and newspaper advertising was scattered broadcast thru the country and Robinson was the silent partner. A "big deal" was on and anyone would be permitted to join with "the great Vaughan" in reaping a 50 per cent profit from the fluctuations of the market. On April 10 the market took a spurt and Vaughan sent out a hoarder, Robinson, saying that he was ready to use any money which might be sent in. Then Vaughan, Robinson and about $70,000 of hard cash left.

The swindle was elaborate. Circulars were used extensively and the confidence men printed a trade journal of their own in Chicago. The circulars sent out showed pictures of local operators as those of the company, and alleged letters of recommendation from W. J. Bryan, the late General Joseph Wheeler and other public men were used with great effect.
