

DYSPEPSIA-PROOF
 How Any Meal Can Be Thoroughly Enjoyed by Any Stomach.

Men, as a rule, are first discovered by their enemies. Their antagonists turn on the searchlight, and the proof of merit will lie in being able to stand the flash.

It was only in this way that Mr. White ever knew that dyspepsia was one of Mr. Black's worst enemies. Sitting face to face at a two-by-four table he handed his afflicted friend the bill of fare.

Oyster Cocktail. Stuffed Olives. Boston Clam Chowder. Strained Gumbo. Sirloin Steak with Mushrooms. Roast Beef with Onion. Boiled Ox Tongue with Sauerkraut. Lobster à la Newburg. Baked Pork and Beans. Combination Crab Salad. Hot Mine Pie. Pineapple Fritters.

Mr. White ordered a "little of each." Mr. Black ordered cracker and a glass of milk. "I had such a big breakfast this morning," he said, "that I'll just take a bite to keep you company." But Mr. White could not be deceived. "I am afraid you can't stand the glass," he said. "Why don't you say you have dyspepsia and be done with it? You'll always have that hungry look anyhow as long as you have dyspepsia. Now listen. My stomach was in just the same condition as yours at one time. But now I can eat anything at any time. For instance, this clam chowder or sirloin steak or even the lobster would just give me no trouble at all. You don't realize how this dyspepsia business is robbing you of your spirit, of your energy and ability to think quickly. I can't help but notice you haven't the cheer and sociability you had three months ago. Now I'll tell you what to do," and thereat the cheerful Mr. White took a vial from his pocket and extracted a white tablet. "There, there is a tablet that contains an ingredient, one grain of which digests 3,000 grains of food. For even the worst dyspeptic it's the only thing that really gives relief to my stomach. It relieves the stomach of nearly all the work it has to do, digests everything in the stomach and stimulates the gastric juice. I can't get along without them. They are Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. You can get them anywhere on earth for 50c a package."

Yes, it is true, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets do not stop heartburn, nausea, indigestion, dyspepsia of the worst type, sour stomach, bloaty feeling and all eruptions and irritation, and freshen and invigorate the stomach. They cheer you up, and make you get all the good there is in your food. You will forget you ever had a stomach to worry you.

SCANDALOUS DOINGS AT A TRIANGLE CLUB FIRE.

While Members Dropped You-Look-Good-to-Father-Hands to Put Out Fire, Black Sheep of the Club Swiped a Big Jackpot—Suspicion Widely Scattered.

There is sorrow in the Triangle club of the North Side.

The Triangle club is a philanthropic organization, a company of young men banded together for the elevation of the ante and the feeding of the cat.

To the uninitiated it might be explained that societies of this kind are sometimes known as two-cell fraternities and the members are generally alluded to as porcelainers.

Sunday afternoon the Triangle club was holding its regular session and the play had approached one of those points where not a man who had a bean in the pot dared to turn his head to suit. He feared that his fraternity brothers might steal his collar button, the buttons of his vest or all the chips he had in the ante, or in front of him. There was also great fear that the dealer might be holding off the bottom of the deck or spreadeagle the disards.

All Held Corkscrews.

Every angle of the triangle held openers and the pot had just been sweetened. One of the members remarked that he was holding off the corner of the man on the left, took on the heap, and the fourth man remarked, as he stood pat, something about the questionable policy of sending a child to mill.

Then the man with the edge dropped a few red ones in the center of the table in plain view around with a fine rise on the second man. It got beyond the limit of the chips and the Triangles began to peel microbe-infested green goo out of vest pockets and it began to look as tho that pot would be the greatest in the history of the club.

A Smoker's Precaution.

The dealer lit a cigar and, not daring to turn his head with all that money on the table, flipped the match over his head.

Around again went the valuation of the hands with an occasional hoist of the payment due for the next man. Finally the dealer glanced off the corner of his eye at the couch on which reposed the overcoats of the financiers. The couch was blazing up merrily.

The man who saw the blaze owned one $125 fur-lined overcoat which was sleeping on the couch. He yelled "Fire!" and grabbed for his garment. The others, seeing overcoats on the same couch. Every man jumped and grabbed a coat.

Heroic work resulted in the quenching of the flames but at the cost of seven quarts of beer—the whole supply—and St. Paul ten miles away. Then thoughts turned to that fat jackpot the ownership of which was undecided.

All thought of the pot at the same time and turned to the field of play. The chips were there, but the $42.54 which had been in the center of the table in coin and bills had evaporated like a $10 bill at the gas office.

Not a man said a word. They looked at each other. Every man except one believed the other a thief. The man who had the money looked

STIRS UP COUNCIL
 C. A. Nimocks Recalls Illegal Tampering with Revolving Fund.

Inquiry is again being made over the failure of the city council to take some action with regard to the illegal payment of a large sum out of the revolving fund in 1890 and 1891. It is alleged that the city authorities in 1890 took $10,000 from the revolving fund to pay an installment of interest on the municipal bonds. The next year $16,160 was used for the same purpose, making a total of $26,160.

The matter has been recalled to the attention of the city council by C. A. Nimocks, with the request that steps be taken to restore to the revolving fund the money illegally taken and credited to the interest fund. The communication was referred to the committee on ways and means and as far as the records show, no report was ever made.

EYES ON THE WEST
 Eastern Men Begin to Take Notice of What is Going On.

E. W. Decker, vice-president of the Northwestern National bank, has returned from a trip among the banks of New York and the east. He was impressed with the great, growing wealth of the country as reflected in the savings banks deposits. In Chicago last week commercial bank deposits showed broken records.

"The one thing that perhaps was impressed on my mind during the trip," said Mr. Decker today, "was the increasing importance eastern men are giving to the development in the north-west, southwest and Pacific west."

"It is pretty generally conceded that during the next ten or fifteen years the great development of the country is going to be in those sections, with Chicago becoming more and more of a commercial center."

"Generally speaking, I found business in increased volume with prospects good for the coming year."

"A good, fair, steady demand for money exists at satisfactory rates, ranging from 1 1/2 to 1 per cent more than the ruling rates a year ago."

Divorce Stayed Off BY TENDER BALLAD

IDA EMMERSON, Who Kissed and Made Up with Husband After Writing a Soul-Baring Song.

Ida Emerson, the stage beauty, who wears some stunning gowns and sings delightfully in "New York Town" at the Bijou this week, figured in a romance of domestic life that attracted considerable attention at Chicago recently.

She is the wife of Joe Howard, the song writer whose compositions are much in favor just now. When Mort H. Singer took the management of the La Salle theater he engaged Howard to write the music for productions to be made this season.

It was while he was thus engaged that a serious difference arose with his actress wife, and she began suit for divorce. Howard's heart was bowed down and he composed a pathetic ballad, entitled "Sometimes." The sometimes referred to some actual "times" that figured in their courtship, and when it was sung at the rehearsal Miss Emerson recognized the significance of the verses.

The song brought about an immediate reconciliation, and not only that, but it brought Howard good luck, for the musical comedy "The Umpire," in which it was incorporated, as well as the song itself, proved to be immensely popular.

Sarah Bernhardt's Genius Is Varied and Many Sided

Who Will Be at the Auditorium Feb. 22, 23 and 24.

Bernhardt's genius is many sided and the ceaseless activity of her life has contained enough incidents to fill an ordinary history.

"I am approached," she once wrote to Albert Milland, of the "Ligero," with wanting to do everything—acting, painting and sculpture. But I gain money by it, and it amuses me—two reasons, either of which is surely sufficient."

She even tried her hand at authorship. In 1888 she wrote a play, "L'Aveu," which was produced at the Odéon and met with some success. At least one book is credited to her pen. In 1878 she made a serial voyage in company with Georges Clairin, the painter, at first in a captive balloon, but later at the mercy of the winds.

Toward the end of the year she described the adventure in a little book, "Vere les Nuages," which Clairin illustrated, and it had a success due mainly to its oddity and wit.

Such incidents lead us easily from the public life of the woman to her private one. It is astonishing how little is known of Madame Bernhardt's personality.

An incident, related by an American visitor in Paris, is typical of the woman. Bearing letters to Madame Bernhardt, he presented them to a person at the actress' residence, and was graciously received, tho the apartment was in great disorder, movers being engaged in dismantling her studio as if she were about to set up her household goods in some distant land.

Madame Bernhardt apologized for the disturbance, explaining in the most matter-of-course way that they were sheriff's men seizing her goods at the behest of some importunate creditor.

A few minutes later, her son Maurice having remarked that he was giving a dinner to a party of friends that evening, she insisted on arranging the menu, finally telephoning to the restaurateur a command for a feast that was Lucullan in its richness.

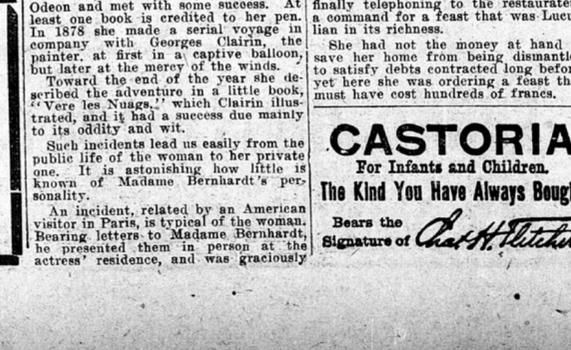

She had not the money at hand to save her home from being dismantled to satisfy debts contracted long before, yet here she was ordering a feast that must have cost hundreds of francs.
