Crop of Winter Wheat.

It is stated that some of the farmers in the districts that were inundated last fall to such an extent that the grain could not be sown are now figuring on the possibility of securing a crop of winter wheat from the fields that were thus ruined. The grain yielded very poorly last year, and the farmers are now holding a great deal of straw that was cut and held a great deal of snow. The farmers rely on the straw to protect the ground from freezing and holding the snow till late in the season and thus permitting the grain to grow. They say that if this proves to be the case, the old fields will have disappeared before it is time to harvest this crop of winter wheat, so that cutting can easily be done.

PEAT FACTORY AT ST. PETER Fuel Company Secures Options on Land for Proposed Plant.

ST. PETER, MINN.—Agents of the United States Fuel company have secured options on the land for a peat factory in this city. It was originally intended to build near the city, but the land was so low and the water so high that the deposit at Spring Lake, which lies within a thousand yards of the city, was found to be more profitable. The company has secured a price on its peat and yesterday its terms were accepted by the peat men. The peat is to be used for fuel in cash for an option to run until April 1. Arrangements have been made to have a cutting post erected on the peat bog, and the test of the peat, and the future of the industry, will depend on the results of the test. The property is owned by the St. Peter Peat Company, which is a subsidiary of the United States Fuel Company.

Special to The Journal.

St. Peter, Minn., Feb. 22.—In a vain attempt to clamber over an ice reef at Swan Lake, the 12-year-old son of J. C. Zins, a merchant of Nicollet village, fell thru a fissure in the ice and was drowned. The unfortunate boy, with a younger brother, had spent several days with an uncle living near the lake, and as they were returning home, a passing farmer invited them to ride with him to Nicollet. The smaller boy accepted, but his brother declined, and continued his walk across the frozen surface of the lake. Not reaching home in the evening, his parents became thoroughly frightened and yesterday morning they gave the alarm. Searching parties were at once organized, but it was not until about 10 o'clock that the boy's body was found in a cramped position, evidence of repeated efforts to climb out upon the ice in the struggle which probably continued for hours. Coroner Merritt was called to Nicollet but thought an inquest unnecessary. The boy's parents are prostrated by the tragedy.
