TRAIN NEARLY HITS AUTO

Man Has Narrow Escape—Complains of Unguarded Crossing.

Complaint has been made to Mayor D. P. Jones of the unguarded condition of the Great Northern crossing at the east end of the Tenth avenue bridge. A well known man was crossing the bridge in his automobile, keeping careful watch for the flagman, as he could not see trains approaching. The flagman, on account of the big powerhouse, which completely hides the tracks from view. Not seeing the flagman he drove his machine along at a good clip. Just before he reached the crossing a fast passenger train rushed toward him, and it was only by the narrow chance that a serious accident was averted.

Upon making inquiries for the flagman he discovered that this useful official went home at 8 p.m., and that after that hour the crossing, which is one of the most dangerous in the city, is left unguarded.

The communication will be referred to the city council, which is the only authority to order watchmen at crossings.

WALL STREET FUSS CUTS NO ICE HERE

STOCKBROKERS' TROUBLES AFFECT ONLY THE EAST.

S. T. Johnson of Minnesota National Bank, Returns from New York Full of Confidence and with Unbounded Faith in West—Eastern Speculators Throw Financial Fits.

"Keep cool and the west will experience no financial troubles, whatever may happen in Wall street."

This is the advice which S. T. Johnson, vice-president of the Minnesota National bank, would see impressed on the minds of the people. He has just returned from a trip thru the east. In Boston, New York and Philadelphia he found gloom. Conditions are such that the eastern financiers hardly know what to do under the circumstances.

Stocks are way up, the people are not buying; if prices are reduced the banks will call the loans on which the stocks are collateral. The situation is almost ludicrous to the west. Mr. Johnson reminds the public that the west owes the east little, and the east owes the west little, so that the west is independent and is looking on the situation only as a spectator. For this reason Minneapolis and other western money centers have little to fear, whatever may ensue in the Wall street region.

West Is Independent.

"More than ever before," said Mr. Johnson, "do I appreciate the fact that financially the west is to a great extent independent of the east. The stock manipulations may come and go, but the west is not dependent on the east. We know of it only thru the newspapers. Never again will the failure of any one, or many of them, cause a 'Black Friday,' with its eclipse of the sun and all the trouble and evils subsequent thereto."

"We look to our broad fields and factories for our sun of prosperity. It does not rise and set in New York, as it used to."

Conditions in New York are chaotic. The Stock exchange war that has for months been raging with such unabated vigor is still going on. It is a war of the giants. It was expected that the small fry would come in and invest, then the big ones could unload, and the little ones, when squeezed, would be able to uphold prices, would be frozen out. Prices, of course, drop, and the big operators again buy at the bottom.

Little Ones Stay Out.

"This looked good to them; but, sad to relate, the little ones did not buy, so the big ones are paying big interest and are obliged to maintain the high prices. How long they can maintain this position is a problem. It may crash and the prices go to glinders at any time. If it does, the 'captains of finance' will be themselves buried in the ruins of their own cob houses and not the dear public, which they set the trap to catch."

With the life insurance companies under fire and pending legislation looking to their removal from Wall street, deposits are being hoarded. The fall paid, prices inflated and the west too busy to send its money to the Wall street sinkhole, a condition is created with many possibilities of disaster for the capitalists.

"How thankful the west should be that we are able to occupy, and do occupy, the position of spectators only. We can and do do so. We are not our country, building industries, manufacturing, planting and harvesting. No one but a pessimist can find any menace in the situation so far as we are concerned."

QUARRYMAN IS INJURED IN POWDER EXPLOSION

Jacob Hermanson, a quarryman living at South Washaba and George streets S. St. Paul, received what will probably be a fatal injury, as a result of an explosion of a can of powder yesterday. Hermanson was working in a quarry at Delos street and Livingstone avenue. After lighting the fuse for a blast he threw the match away and it fell in a can of powder. His clothes were set on fire by the explosion and he fell unconscious directly over the blasting charge. His fellow workers saw the danger of his situation and dragged him away just in time to avoid the explosion of the blast.

BATTERY A CELEBRATES.

Battery A, First regiment of light artillery, Minnesota National Guard, celebrated its twenty-fifth anniversary with an elaborate military and social program at the new St. Paul city hall last night. Following an inspection by the federal inspecting officer, Colonel William Gerlach, United States army retired, there was an exhibition of the crossing of the line, and a speechmaking, which in turn gave way for dancing.

CRESTHAVEN WILL BE SUBDIVIDED

NOTED LAKE ESTATE NOW ON THE MARKET.

Eleven Acres of Choice Water Frontage Adjoining Cottagewood, with Valuable Improvements, Will Be Cut Up into Small Parcels and Sold—Is Famous Show Place.

Cresthaven, the Donaldson estate at Lake Minnetonka, has been divided and will be sold in parcels. The extreme point, on which the main house stands, will be sold intact to one person. Other portions of the property will be sold in 100-foot lots, three facing Carson's bay and three the main lake. The stone wall separating the estate from Cottagewood will be moved towards the point to set apart the five-acre estate which will remain. The plating has simply extended Cottagewood 300 feet towards the point.

Edmund G. Walton has charge of the distribution and disposition of the lots, and with a specialist's knowledge of landscape gardening, has so arranged the plating that none of the beauty of this famous old homestead will be lost. The shrubbery, fruit trees, boathouses and other improvements which have been added from time to time to the property will add to the value of the separate lots.

Cresthaven comprises eleven acres of property. It was established many years ago by Captain Moore of Kansas City, who put up all the buildings and other improvements. William Donaldson bought the place in 1892, and remodelled and added to the house. The estate and its improvements have been kept up carefully and Cresthaven has always been one of the show places of the north shore. The last two seasons it has been leased.

On this writ of habeas corpus he was released, and after argument he was released.

HANNAH LUND AGAIN

Another Application Filed for Her Pardon.

Not discouraged by repeated rejections, Hannah Lund of "baby face" fame has filed another application for pardon. ## STRONG INDIAN STORY

Former Minneapolis Man Will Contribute to The Journal's Magazine Next Sunday.

"Back to the Blanket," by Edward R. Johnstone, in The Journal's Sunday Magazine, tells the story of an Indian girl, Nellie Two-Bears. Hers is the tragedy of the Indian problem. Nellie's father was chief of one of the largest tribes near the Sioux country. He secured desirable in every way to educate and civilize the girl, and yet when it was all done and Nellie was a lady, refined, attractive, tastefully dressed and all that, she applied to the Indian agent at Standing Rock against being sent back to live with her own father and own people. After eleven years of schooling it had dawned upon the girl, as upon her father and all others interested, that there was no place in the world for her save with her own people. This compelled her to return to the life which was her birthright. Her father and Two-Bears reverted to type, and finally disappeared from sight with a disreputable Indian husband fleeing from vengeance.

SUNSHINE OPENS NEW CROP SEASON

SEEDING WILL BE UNDER WAY BY NEXT MONDAY.

The sunshine of yesterday and today turned the attention of Minneapolis to the coming crop season, and agricultural prospects are now being discussed in the jobbing centers and on 'change. It is felt that the country has everything favorable before it, for the winter brought its abundant snowfall and full share of cold weather, and there is no lack of moisture as to the country merchants had a good year in 1905, and with another favorable season there will be a money surplus in the northwest larger than ever before. Merchants report that the feature of spring trade this year was the larger proportion of high-class merchandise bought for the country. In Minnesota, and especially in South Dakota, the country retailers are all looking for good crops again and good business.

It is early yet for anything definite, but already the men who travel for the jobbing houses and for grain firms of the Chamber of Commerce are beginning to make reports on the outlook. Seeding will be under way at several important North and South Dakota points by Monday next, and from that time on reports will follow quickly.

Season Later Than 1905.

The season is late compared with last year, but there is little of practical value in that comparison. Extraordinary conditions then prevailed, wild birds going north and seeding was under way in many localities by March 25. No such early start in seeding has been known, in the memory of old inhabitants. This year the season is really early, when the ordinary seasons are averaged. The date on which the Dakotas, seeding may be said generally to begin.

J. D. Dalrymple of the big Dalrymple farm, in North Dakota, passed thru Minneapolis en route north. Farm work, Mr. Dalrymple says, is well along in the valley 'spring' when it is about for a start at the average time, or possibly some four or five days later.

Dakotas Ahead.

The first work will not be done in Minnesota. The western part of North Dakota and the more sandy counties of South Dakota will be first in with seeding reports, and the Minnesota points will follow. The Red river valley always has the moisture problem to reckon with and is often late. This year the valley 'spring' is ahead of the rest, and after argument he was released.

COAL PRICE TO STAY UP?

April Near but No Signs of Spring Reduction Are Seen.

Notwithstanding the approach of April 1, the usual time for the annual reduced spring price of coal is not a possibility, has been heard from company headquarters as to what the price will be. Also the 50-cent reduction may be announced before Sunday, it is apparent that if a strike is imminent upon that date, that no price reduction circulars will be issued, which will mean that anthracite will remain at $8.75 a ton to the consumer.
