VEILED WOMAN TO SEE WAINWRIGHT

BUT MYSTERIOUS CALLER FAILS TO GAIN ADMITTANCE.

Futile Appeal to Jailers Is Followed by Tears and Wrath and Scornful Arraignment of Policemen, but to No Avail—Wainwright Excited when Told of Incident.

Mystery mingled with excitement pervaded police headquarters today when a woman, heavily veiled, demanded permission to see Thomas J. Wainwright, who is in a cell in Central station waiting trial on a charge of looting Dr. J. N. Pinault's residence at 1206 Mount Curve avenue.

She was not the woman whom Wainwright showered with presents, says those who saw her, but she urgently wanted to see the prisoner and she soon turned from tears to wrath when the permission was refused.

Mealey wanted to know her mission before admitting her, and he began asking questions. In reply she said she did not know Wainwright, but wanted to see him on a matter of business. She was direct in her demands, and possibly arrangements could be made for an interview.

At this she began to weep, but a moment later, when told that an officer would be sent to the mayor's office to interview her, she became angry and vented scornful remarks about policemen in general. But Mealey was firm and the woman went out of the office declaring she would appeal to the mayor.

Who Was She? As soon as she had left there was an argument among the officers as to who she was. Most of them thought she was a relative who has heard of his trouble and wanted to offer him financial aid. Others thought she was merely an acquaintance.

Wainwright appeared excited when told that a woman had called to see him, but he asked no questions and later said he could not imagine who she was. He is apparently in no need of money, as he has decided to plead guilty. He received $20 by telegraph from Boston last night. The order, which was made in the office of Peter Neilson, clerk of municipal court, gave no clue to the sender, but it is presumed that it is from his brother who lives in Boston.

EASTER CHORUS WILL CHEER SICK PEOPLE

If the weather turns out favorable tomorrow morning, one of the most remarkable Easter services ever held in the city will take place. It will be an outdoor service for the benefit of the inmates of the Swedish and City hospitals and fully 1,000 singers are expected to join in the exercises.

The services are planned by the Christian Society, which has sent an invitation to all the churches in South Minneapolis, requesting them to unite in making the meeting a success.

The opening exercises will be held at 6 a. m. at the Swedish tabernacle, where a praise and prayer meeting will be held under the auspices of the society. All those attending are requested to bring copies of "Songs of Praise" with them as the service will consist largely of the singing of Easter hymns from this book. There will be several speakers.

At the close of the services in the tabernacle the multitude will proceed in procession to the Swedish hospital, three blocks away, and will there hold a song service in the open air. After singing a few numbers the gathering will re-form and proceed to the city hospital for another service.

President Edwin Norberg of the Christian Volunteer society said today that he has received most encouraging replies from the various churches invited and predicts that fully 1,000 singers will participate in this service if the weather permits outdoor exercises.

Funeral services for Koenig were held at the Stillwater cemetery Thursday afternoon. The remains were sent to that city by T. Conolly, undertaker, at 2 o'clock, and were immediately taken to the cemetery chapel. The remains were accompanied by the family.

Receipts from the state institutions for March, amounting to $11,024.23, were turned into the treasury today by the board of control. The largest amount, $5,573.96, was turned in by the school for the feeble minded at Faribault.

HOME FOR AGED JEWISH PEOPLE

JEWIS OF MINNEAPOLIS TO HOLD MASS MEETING.

Haven for the Aged, the Infirm and the Needy of Their Race Is Planned, and Permanent Organization Will Be Effected at Temple Shalom Tomorrow.

Tomorrow afternoon a mass meeting of the Jewish people of the city will be held at Temple Shalom, Fifth avenue S. and Tenth street, to discuss plans for establishing a home for aged, infirm and needy Jews and a free dispensary for the poor. The movement is not undertaken by any faction of the Jews of Minneapolis, but is a united movement of all the Jewish people of the city.

For some time plans for the home have been under consideration. There has been a temporary organization and tentative plans for such an institution have been drawn up. At the meeting tomorrow the formal organization is to be effected and committees will be appointed to draw up all the features of the proposed organization. The movement will be organized under the name of the Jewish Home and Free Dispensary society.

The movers in the work are enthusiastic. The home will be for members of their race only, but the dispensary will be free for all, irrespective of race or creed. In other large cities where there is a large Jewish population, fine homes are maintained where the aged and needy are cared for. Already about $800 has been secured or promised, and with the completion of the organization several generous donations sufficient to make up the first $1,000 will be received from interested persons.

"It will probably be necessary for us to begin in a small way," said Rabbi S. N. Deinard of the Shalom Synagogue today. "All our people are interested. We will be as we are able, possibly in rented quarters, and work for better things. The home will be for members of our race only, the aged and infirm, and the dispensary will be for all and all will be welcome. We hope to see a great interest taken in the movement by everybody. In other cities are homes and dispensaries doing a great and good work, and our race in Minneapolis will not do less."

The meeting tomorrow will be at 2:30 p. m. Representatives of the various Jewish organizations and churches will be present and all who are interested are invited.

NEW BUTTER EXCHANGE REGARDED AS A JOKE

Minneapolis produce and commission men are smiling over the announcement that the St. Paul Commercial club has appointed a committee to formulate plans for making St. Paul a butter city by the establishment of a butter exchange, where the butter of the state may be shipped and distributed to the hungry, butterless world.

Another smiting occasion by the announcement that St. Paul was the logical point for the exchange, as dairymen disposing of butter in St. Paul could visit the stockyards at South St. Paul and secure such cows as they require. The idea of dairymen buying beef cows in South St. Paul for dairy purposes is regarded as a real joke.

Minneapolis has had the bulge on the butter business of the state for many years, say local produce men. Three times the amount of butter sold in St. Paul is handled here, amounting to about $5,000,000 a year. The Minneapolis butter market is known and recognized all over the country, and while only a feature of the Minneapolis produce business, it is most important. Many of the largest creameries and dairies of the state have their butter here for years and would not leave the superior connections possible here.

WEDDING BELLS TO RING

EDITOR SHEPHERD HAS TROUBLE WITH LICENSE CLERK, BUT EMERGES FROM THE ORDEAL TRIUMPHANT.

Gerald L. Shepherd, publisher of the North Side Chronicle, was refused a marriage license in the clerk of court's office this morning, because he was written in the Swedish hospital, where he was not of age. The refusal caused a panic. The would-be bridegroom indignantly protesting that he had reached his majority over a year ago, but that no protestations were insisted upon.

"Why you fellows know I'm over 21!" declared the much-worried young man, appealing to a group of deputy clerks who had gathered about the marriage license counter to find out the cause of the excitement. "I supposed you were," said "Bud" Nash, "but that doesn't go here. Gerald, you've got to get some proof since we received that letter." And the others likewise turned an icy ear on the distraught seeker after marital bliss.

Several friends were called up, but they all stated that they were unable to swear to the young man's age and, almost in desperation, he finally suggested that he get the birth records. "If you've got them about the year you were born over twenty-one years ago, you can have the license," said the inexorable clerk and Shepherd bolted for the door when he espied W. B. Saunders, the clerk, working in the rear of the office.

"Here you, Bill, come here!" He called as he rushed down the room. "You know how old I am, don't you, Bill?" "Why you're 22," replied the polite rescuer of young love in distress. "There! I knew I'd find someone who would stand by me," triumphantly declared the bridegroom. After some argument the word of Saunders was accepted and the license was issued, much to the relief and gratification of Shepherd.

The wedding with Miss Francis Durham as the bride will take place tonight.

BURGLAR BREAKS POLICE CORDON

ATTEMPT TO CATCH THIEF ON KITCHEN ROOF FAILS.

Man Descends in Response to Order of Police Squad, Dashes Thru Line, Leaps a Fence and Disappears—Officers Find No Trace of Fugitive.

A determined and agile burglar last night ran thru the lines of a squad of mounted policemen from the fifth precinct, who stood with drawn revolvers to catch him as he descended from the roof of H. S. Birch's residence, 508 West Lake street, after trying to break in a window.

Chagrined by the easy escape of the thief, the officers ran wildly thru the alleys trying to get him into a corner, but he disappeared as he by magic, and the policemen returned empty-handed to their beats.

Neighbors living next door to the Birch residence saw the man on the roof of the kitchen about 10:30 p. m. They watched him for some time, and finally saw him crouch under the window of a sleeping room.

He remained there some time, and when all the lights in the house were out began to work at the window, which was raised about four inches. Then the neighbors telephoned for the police, and in a few minutes a squad of Captain Getchell's braves arrived. They looked for the man still crouching on the roof. A guard was placed about the house and one of the officers then ordered:

"Come down and surrender or you're a dead man." At the word, every officer whipped out his revolver and stood ready to do speedy justice if the burglar should start things.

The man came down, but did not surrender. As his feet touched the ground he bounded thru the line of officers like a flash and vaulted a high fence as easily as a trained athlete. The brave policemen looked at one another in amazement and then started in pursuit, but their efforts were useless.

THIS COLUMN FOR JIM KEY MERCY BANDS

PRIZE ESSAY CONTEST AND JIM KEY

The wonderful horse, Jim Key, is the central figure in the humanitarian work which his owner, A. R. Rogers, hopes to accomplish. But the horse's benefit exhibitions, which are held every year, are only a small part of the work.

Jim Key Band of Mercy are now forming in the public schools. Any child in the city may join and the organization will number thousands. To maintain the enthusiasm and give it direction, The Journal, in co-operation with Mr. Rogers, has arranged a prize essay contest for pupils in the fourth, eighth and high schools. They are asked to write brief essays, based on their own observations, showing how animals respond to kindness and patience. The contest should be plainly written on one side of the paper only, and should not exceed 300 words.

Each paper should bear the name, address, school and patronage of the writer, and, of course, all must be original and neat. Spelling will also be a factor in the consideration. If you have done or seen any act of kindness to an animal, just write the story simply and send it to "Uncle Bert," care of The Minneapolis Journal. This is the name by which Mr. Rogers is known to some 700,000 benevolent members of the United States, and he keeps closely in touch with the writers.

Prizes are awarded each week for the papers from each grade each week. The prizes are, $1.75 for the first, $1.50 for the second, $1.25 for the third, and 50 cents for the fourth. From now on, for a month, the best of these papers will be published every day, in the fourteenth grade. The contest will be running under the Jim Key Band of Mercy column which is a regular feature of The Journal. SEND IN YOUR ESSAYS AT ONCE.

Protect Their Pets.

During the last two weeks the children have learned to realize that the humane society and the Jim Key Bands of Mercy have the legal power to protect animals from abuse and some of the children are regarding these organizations as better than the policeman. An officer of the humane society overheard the following "riff" between two little girls on Third avenue, which illustrates their faith.

The children were playing on opposite sides of the street, one with her dog and the other with a big gray cat. Presently Master Dog espied Miss Pussy and made a dash across the street for her.

Pussy's back went up and she bravely turned and faced the dog, ready to defend herself. Her little mistress picked up a stick and hurried to her rescue. The little girl across the street called out:

"Don't you touch my dog!" "I will if you don't call him away from my cat!" pussy's owner replied.

"If you hurt my dog I'll tell the humane society on you." "If you don't take your dog home, I'll tell the Jim Key Band of Mercy on you," screamed the other child. Her mother heard the trouble by this time and went out and pacified both the children and their pets.

Great Men Love Animals.

The boy who is kind to animals usually makes a kind gentleman and just man and one who is loved by every one. Nearly all the great men of history have shown this love for animals and their lives have been made happier by the love of some dog, horse or other domestic animal.

Abraham Lincoln, whom all Americans love and revere, was never too busy to do some kind act for the dumb creatures. It is told of him that once when traveling thru the country on horseback with a party of famous men, he found a little bird, too young to fly, which had fallen out of the nest. The mother bird, in great distress, was flying around trying to get her baby back again. Mr. Lincoln said, "You can ride on; I'll overtake you soon, but I am going to help that mother bird out. He got off the horse, tenderly picked up the bird, and placed it in the nest.

SUMMER RATES CAN'T BE CHANGED

MINNEAPOLIS PROTESTS HAVE NO EFFECT ON SITUATION.

Western Passenger Association Officials Say Rates to Colorado Points Are Lower than to Minnesota Resorts Because Regular Business This Way Is Too Good to Trifle With.

Agitation in Minneapolis over the Western Passenger association's discrimination against northwestern summer resorts in favor of Colorado has reached the association members in Chicago.

The passenger traffic officials own that they have received the usual lot of complaints, with the bulk of them from the twin cities.

"The gist of these complaints," says a Chicago dispatch, "is that the rates to Colorado and some places in Wisconsin and along the east shore of Lake Michigan are lower than those made to Minneapolis."

"While railroad officials are always willing to hear and consider complaints from places that believe they are discriminated against, they declare that such rates are out of the question inasmuch as Chicago and the twin cities is so large that exceptionally low rates would be so greatly abused as to make them not only impracticable, but impossible.

Earnings Would Suffer. A passenger traffic official, who discussed the complaint today, said that if the railroads leading from Chicago to the twin cities were to make as low rates to the Minnesota resorts as are made to Colorado points, or even to places in northern Wisconsin and Michigan, they would suffer great loss on other lines of business. With such rates in effect, a man whose business called him to St. Paul or Minneapolis, instead of purchasing the ordinary tickets, would buy summer excursion tickets and the railroad would suffer a corresponding decrease in earnings."

There may be some truth in this view of the case," said a twin city railroad man today, "but the fact remains that the association misled the business men of the twin cities in stating that the rates were to be the same as last year. While the minimum rate for the round trip from Chicago to Minneapolis and St. Paul is the same, the thru rates have been advanced about 25 per cent over the rates made last year."

COUNCIL TACKLES BICYCLE PATHS COMMITTEE NAMED TO EXAMINE AND REPORT. Wheelmen Press for Repairs on Neglected Tracks and Property Owners Demand Their Abandonment—Conflicting Interests Likely to Give Solons No Peace by Day or Night.

NEW ORDINANCE AIMED AT VICIOUS SALOONS Alderman John Ryan of the first ward has come to the aid of the bicycle riders. At last night's council meeting he moved that a special committee of one alderman from each ward be appointed to look after the bicycle paths, which are now in a sadly neglected condition.

At the request of the police department, Alderman E. W. Clark at the council meeting last evening, introduced an ordinance amending the present law for the sale of liquor, so as to provide that applicants for licenses shall show before the committee on licenses that the place designated by them is not in a building known as a resort for immoral women and does not even adjoin such a resort. This bit of legislation has not been prompted by any local developments, but is called for in the revised code, and the authorities have no alternative. Should the proposed measure be enforced to the letter, scores of saloons will be driven out of business, at many adjoining places of the kind described. Such conditions have not prejudiced the granting of saloon licenses when the applicants have conducted orderly places. The ordinance will give the police department another club in dealing with the liquor traffic.

St. Paul Business Property Is the Best Investment on Earth. We have been saying this in our advertisements for the past eighteen months, BUT NOW INVESTORS are saying it in COLD CASH. During the past four weeks we have made some handsome sales of business property. Most of which have gone to outside investors. Three weeks ago we sold a nice corner to one of our investors for a little less than thirty thousand dollars and this week we sold it for him at over Eight Thousand Dollars advance. A Fifty Thousand Dollar piece of Business Property was sold by our office last week at an advance of over Ten Thousand Dollars of what it cost four weeks before.

You Say This Looks Like a Boom! Emphatically No! This only demonstrates what we have been saying right along, that prices have become and are ridiculously low, and the investors are beginning to get their eyes open. The second purchaser on the last above mentioned transaction will make more than the man who sold it at a $10,000 profit, as he has been offered on lease 6 per cent net at a valuation that shows more than a $10,000 profit.

Our Special Offer This Week Is A $70,000 piece of IMPROVED property inside the loop which is paying 7 per cent net on the investment and will pay 7 1/2 per cent net on within three years.

Are You Making This Mistake? The records of the Probate Court at Philadelphia disclose a remarkable fact: Of nearly twenty-three thousand persons dying in one year, nineteen thousand left no property whatever, while the remaining estates averaged very low, the majority ranging from all men nearly or quite insolvent except those carrying sufficient good life insurance. Men generally know this and therefore the query arises, Why do so small a proportion, even of men who are financially able, secure the needed protection? The answer turns upon the most universal weakness of human nature, procrastination. Those who die uninsured or underinsured intended to protect their families but put it off. If the reader of this notice makes a like failure it will probably be due solely to delay.
