

SOCIETY seems to have few interests and to divide between brides and bridegrooms. Not even these bright spring days diminish the ardor of the bride devotees; they simply move their card tables from the drawing room to the veranda and keep on playing. While it is true that the brides are not being entertained as extensively as last year when there were two or three affairs for every day, still the friends of the popular girl do not allow her to marry without some pre-nuptial parties. So showers, trousseaus and presents rather monopolize conversation.

The presents, by the way, are taking a most delightfully practical form. One of the pretty June brides has already been told that she is to receive a big touring car in which she and her bridegroom will go away for a long and profitable trip. One of the girls who has married an out-of-town man has returned from her honeymoon, and when she reached her home she found a smart turnout of the popular girl do not allow her to marry without some pre-nuptial parties. So showers, trousseaus and presents rather monopolize conversation.

be erected below Radnor hall. The new building is to cost $125,000. Only $12,000 had been raised, so a repetition of the Elizabethan fete, which was such a tremendous success six years ago, was decided upon. It was a greater success even than when first given.

No other grounds could have furnished a finer setting for the spectacle. Once thru Pembroke arch the visitors were transported to medieval days. Everywhere were oxen, skipping lambs and their attendants, shepherdesses, trumpet blowers, heralds and other characters, including King Lear, Trianon and Queen Elizabeth, offering merry greetings. The performances continued all day.

The processions formed before entering the grounds thru Pembroke arch. First came the twelve heralds, in gold and white, carrying the Pembroke coat-of-arms, the Lord and Lady of May, Robin Hood and Maid Marian and their attendants, the merry men, the Maypole, drawn by oxen, and followed by the other performers in a gay procession. The program included "Robin Hood," "Pyramus and Thisbe," "The Revesby Sword Play," "The Morris Dancers," "The Danes of the Myk Maids" and many other features. They took place on the grounds and in the college building.

The Maypoles were wound in front of Merican, and the masques were given before Queen Elizabeth and her court in the cloister of the new library, which was opened for the first time for the reception of the queen. Among the patronesses, who were society leaders from New York, Boston, Baltimore, and Philadelphia, was Mrs. Howard Mansfield of New York, so well known in Minneapolis society as a frequent visitor of her relatives, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Northrup.

Miss Katherine Modisette has chosen Miss Kate Moulton to be her maid of honor at her marriage to Edwin Dodge, which takes place June 20, in St. Mark's pro-cathedral.

Cards have been received from Manchester, N. H., announcing the marriage of Miss Submit Toward Clarke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Cogswell Clarke, and Rev. Murray Dewant of Boston. Mr. Dewant formerly resided in Minneapolis. He is a university man, a member of the Alpha Delta Phi fraternity.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. McDonald announce the engagement of their daughter Mabel Harriet, to John Enoch Oren.

Mrs. John Washburn returned Friday morning from a several weeks' visit in the east. Mrs. Washburn was among the guests at the Elizabethan May Day fete, given last Monday at Bryn Mawr college. Three of the popular Minneapolis girls are students at Bryn Mawr, Misses Margaret Washburn, Mary Rand and Fannie Passmore, so that an account of the fete will be of particular interest to their Minneapolis friends. Mrs. Washburn was one of the 5,000 spectators who witnessed the affair under the most charming conditions. The picturesque grounds were clothed in spring's daintiest green, the sky was of azure blue and a golden sun warmed nature's scenery with its bright glow. Of course, the Minneapolis girls were among the best of the performers. Mrs. Washburn was one of the graceful dancers around the May pole. All wore the becoming costumes of the Elizabethan period, half of the young women taking the part of boy dancers. Miss Passmore was Hyman, his majesty, the god of marriage, and Miss Mary Rand had a conspicuous place among the group of girls, taking part in the Masque of P.

The preparations for the great May Day fete kept the college girls busy for weeks. The proceeds of the building at Bryn Mawr college, which is to Miss Celia Haskell, the daughter of Mrs. Haskell of Third avenue S., will study at Mrs. Hayes' school in Lausanne, Switzerland. Fish will leave Tuesday evening for Pottstown, Pa., to be a guest at the graduating festivities at Hill school, where her sons are, Edwin Fish is to be graduated this year, and Keith Merrill is another of the Minneapolis boys whose preparatory course will be finished this spring. The graduating class at Hill school is always privileged to entertain very delightfully before the close of the school term, and it will give a large ball Friday evening. As the boys are to entertain an equal number of young women from Friday to Monday, many of the mothers will be present to act as chaperones, and Mrs. Fish will be the chaperone of the two young women who are the guests of Edwin Fish and Keith Merrill. This house party is one of the jolliest affairs at the school, and as it continues for almost four days, it gives ample opportunity for endless little informal affairs, such as dancing parties, dinners, automobile rides and excursions.

The two Minneapolis boys are very popular and have both taken leading parts in the athletic doings of their college. Merrill is captain of the baseball team, which in itself is an honor and distinction, without any further athletic accomplishment. He will go to Yale next year. Merrill Keith is one of the stars of the track team and has won several medals. He has chosen Harvard university to continue his studies, and will enter next fall.

The Barnum-Killie wedding was another typical college affair, for both Miss Kellie and Mr. Barnum have been students at the university, and number among the friends a host of sorority and fraternity members. So it was really very appropriate that one of the university girls should receive the bride's bouquet. Miss Florence Hoffin caught the bunch of flowers, which by rights marks her for the next bride. Among the wedding guests were Mrs. Frank S. Bissell of Maple Lake, Minn., and Mrs. Frank Fernald of Livingston, Mont. Miss Kellie was one of the bridesmaids at the wedding of these two sisters, and they came to Minneapolis purposely to attend her wedding. They looked charming in their wedding gowns, which they wore just two months ago, and the significance of the day was made all the more interesting by their presence.

The annual party of the Upsilon chapter of the Kappa Alpha Theta last week at the Town and Country club, Mrs. Bissell and Mrs. Fernald were also present.

Minneapolis society indulges in regular visits to the Minikahda club every Saturday evening for the informal dinner dances are proving to be strong attractions. F. W. Plant entertained at a dinner party of fourteen last evening. Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Mackay had eight guests at dinner; Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Case and Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Rand also entertained groups of eight guests, who remained for the dance. Mr. and Mrs. George F. Orde, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund G. Walton and a host of other club members entertained at smaller parties at the club.

Mrs. and Mrs. C. R. Lamb gave a dinner of fourteen covers Friday evening at the Minikahda club. Dinner was followed by bridge.

Mrs. William P. Hallowell of First avenue entertained at a progressive dinner Friday evening for a group of fourteen guests. Mr. and Mrs. Hallowell moved to Lake Minnetonka yesterday to spend the season.

Mrs. Nathan H. Chase of Dupont avenue S. will entertain at a luncheon next Saturday at Glen Morris, the Christmas lake home of the family of Mrs. Chase. Mrs. Frank Page of Springfield, Mass., will be the honor guest. Mrs. Page is visiting her parents, Dr. and Wendell H. Heighon of Des Moines, Iowa, was a guest in Minneapolis last week for a few days, visiting Mrs. Jennie De Wolf Catherwood on Oak Grove street. Mr. Heighon is a musician, an amateur, he insists, but he plays the 'cello in a most delightful and musically manner. He played Sunday evening at the Auditorium, and those who heard him were enthusiastic over his beautiful tones and simplicity. Mrs. Catherwood invited some of the musicians to meet him informally one afternoon at her home. Mr. Heighon came to Minneapolis in the interests of a new venture, a western musical paper, which will be hailed with delight by musicians everywhere in the middle west. The west is rather ignored or neglected in the eastern journals, and a musical periodical which would give due recognition to western concerts and musicians would be sure to be appreciated. Mr. Heighon is well fitted to serve as editor of such a paper. He is a great friend, by the way, of Mr. and Mrs. Carlo Fischer. Mrs. Fischer came home from Cincinnati about ten days ago and was here in time to enjoy Mr. Heighon's visit. Mr. Fischer will join her at the close of the Cincinnati musical festival, in which he is playing.

The South high school alumni will give their annual reception to the seniors Wednesday evening, May 16, in the Auditorium annex.

The South high school basketball team entertained at a dancing party Friday evening. The arrangements were very successfully carried out by a committee of which Carl Ott was chairman, and earned the hearty approval of the young dancers. Professor and Mrs. Ozias chaperoned the 120 young people. A program of twenty numbers was danced. On the team are L. Raul, A. Fredericksen, S. McElmeel, P. Solem, E. Hanson, Carl W. J. Ott, Arthur Chase, Edward Hanson, C. Boener, W. Ethall, R. Douglas.

A wedding that will bring a bride to Minneapolis took place Monday afternoon at Graystone, Minn., at the home of the bride's parents, when Miss Olive Miller and Rogers C. Dahlheim of this city were married. Only a group of near friends and relatives were present at the service, which was read by Rev. Dr. Alder. The bride wore white silk and over white tulle with trimmings of duchesse lace. Her long veil was of tulle and she carried lilies of the valley. Mr. and Mrs. Dahlheim will be at home in Minneapolis on their return from an eastern trip. Among the wedding guests was the bride's sister, Mrs. John Thomas Ochran of Queen Anne hill, Seattle.

The wedding of Miss Frances M. Harrison and Thomas B. Blossom took place last evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Harrison, at Morton, Minn. The bride wore a pretty princess gown of white lace over silk. Mr. Blossom will take his bride on an eastern trip and when they come to Minneapolis they will be at home at 330 E. Seventeenth street.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Fairweather, 4347 Washington avenue N., was the scene of a pretty wedding Wednesday, April 25, when Miss Louise Cairns was made the bride of Owen Ellingson. The ceremony was performed by Rev. James Trimble of St. Matthew's Episcopal church. Miss Florence Bretz played the wedding march and an accompaniment to the service. The house was decorated with plants and flowers. Several relatives and friends were present to witness the ceremony. The young couple will be at home at 3010 Oliver avenue N.
