SWEDEN TO QUELL SEDITIONARY SPEECH

STRINGENT LAWS FOR SUPPRESSING ANTI-MILITARY AGITATION.

Trothjem Will Be Swamped and Tourists Are Arriving Already in Anticipation of the Coronation—Defeat of the Universal Suffrage Bill Will Cause a Crisis in Sweden.

The Swedish government has submitted amendments to the existing laws, with a view of combating the growth of the anti-military sentiment and punishing those engaged in the movement. Public encouragement to riots and disturbances is to be punished with fines and imprisonment up to four years. The ranking officer at all places where troops are stationed is to have the authority to refuse permission to soldiers to attend gatherings at which there is likely to be remarks advising the conscripts to disregard the conscription, and encouraging hatred against the army. Such utterances are treasonable, detrimental to discipline and will have a tendency to ruin the efficiency of the army in the event of active service.

BUST OF HENRIK IBSEN

Modeled by the Late Jakob Fjelds in Norway in 1885.

When in Molde, Norway, in 1885, the late Henrik Ibsen sat for a bust to Jakob Fjelds, the well-known Minneapolis sculptor, who was spending the summer at Molde and vicinity. Dr. Ibsen and Fjelds became acquainted in Rome in 1881, when Fjelds was studying art in that city and where the great dramatist lived for a time. When he met again in the summer of 1885 the former acquaintance was renewed and Dr. Ibsen readily consented to have his features reproduced in clay. The bust was completed in twelve sittings.

As a portrait the bust was highly commended for its strong likeness. Age, the use of spectacles and the loss of his teeth, had greatly changed his appearance, but the bust was a most characteristic likeness as Ibsen appeared twenty years ago.

A copy of the bust was presented to the art gallery in Bergen. The original will be brought to America this summer by Dr. Herman Fjelds of Abercrombie, N. D., who expects to present it to the Minneapolis Public Library.

HEGIRA TO TRONDHJEM

Old Town Will Swarm With Foreign Tourists.

Altho the coronation of King Haakon and Queen Maud is almost a month away, Trondhjem is already growing in population. Doubtless the majority of the advance guard are enterprising dealers who expect to do some business during coronation week, but a large number have announced themselves as sightseers, pure and simple, and their intention of remaining until after the ceremony.

Even in April the hotels were fairly swamped with inquiries for accommodations and it is evident that the city will be unable to care for the great army and provide much comfort. Happily a great many parties will come by chartered boat or on excursion boats, which will lay in the harbor while the festivities are on.

Inquiries have come in large numbers from England and Denmark, but also in considerable numbers from Germany, France and Italy. Even Sweden will be represented, one party of 100 having already secured quarters.

One of the Wilson line boats will be devoted entirely to a large party of English tourists.

LIGHTS FOR FISHES

Conger Eels in the Little Belt to Have Electric Lamps.

The Graphic.

According to the Biological society of Copenhagen, an interesting and novel experiment is shortly to be made in the northern portion of the narrow straits known as the "Little Belt."

Electric lamps are to be fixed at the bottom of the sea on excursion boats, venting the conger eels from making their way out into the open sea, to the great detriment of the coast fishing industry. Among the peculiarities of the eel is a marked fear of light—so much so, indeed, that the conger eel will not migrate to the open sea when the moon is at the full.

This idiosyncrasy is to be turned to good account by the Danish fishermen, who, by illuminating the northern egress of the straits by means of groups of powerful electric lamps, hope to control this point of exit and confine the congers within the limit of the Great Belt.

GREAT FAIR AT NORRKOPING

A Swedish-American Day Will Be One of Its Features.

of the innovations will be a Swedish-American day, which has been set for June 30. The initiative in this movement was taken by the Swedish-American society of Stockholm, in cooperation with the Swedish-American society of Gothenburg. These organizations will have charge of the arrangements for the parade and other observances of the day. The parade will include the members of the two societies, and visiting Americans, allegorical floats and decorated wagons and, besides making a tour of the exposition grounds, will also parade thru the principal streets of Norrkoping.

Returning to the exposition there will be an interesting program of addresses, chorals and instrumental music, games and athletic sports, closing in the evening with a banquet. Americans who happen to be in Sweden on June 30 will find it worth their while to be in Norrkoping.

Crisis in Sweden.

A crisis is imminent in Sweden as a result of the unfavorable action of the riksdag on the universal suffrage bill. All hope of securing a large enough majority in the second chamber to offset the vote in the first chamber was dissipated when the vote was taken. The bill was passed by a vote of 134 to 94, but inasmuch as the first chamber defeated the measure by a vote of 126 to 18, the joint vote will be against the bill unless there has been a decided change of heart in the upper house.

Only two courses are left to Premier Staaf, either to resign the ministry or dissolve the second chamber and call for the election of a new parliament, and with it begin another campaign for suffrage reforms.

Norwegian Fruit to Minnesota.

Norway is sending fruit trees and berry bushes to Minnesota. Mikael Aasot's horticultural school at Porsgrund recently shipped 100 fruit trees, mostly apple, and a large number of berry bushes to a nursery in Minnesota. The school in the past has sent several similar consignments to America and has received very encouraging reports from the success in transplanting Norwegian fruits to American soil.

Speculators Outgeneral Government.

Speculators are taking advantage of the Swedish government's plans for securing control of the country's water-powers to purchase everything in sight with the hope of selling out at a big profit. Syndicates have purchased large interests in Krangels and Hemse falls. The government proposes an appropriation of 5,000,000 kroner for the use of the railways in changing from steam to electric power on certain lines.

Minister Vogt Finds Favor.

The appointment by Norway of B. Vogt, as minister to Sweden is as satisfactory as any that could be made, and while the position is both delicate and responsible, it is believed that Mr. Vogt will be equal to the task. Svenska Dagbladet, one of the most influential papers in Sweden, speaks very kindly of the new minister, and welcomes his appointment as one who understands the Swedes much better than the majority of his countrymen. In his boyhood days he attended school in Sweden, and later was a student at Uppsala. His conduct as a member of the Karlstad commission is also approved.

Strike in Copenhagen.

The extensive work of raising a large number of old buildings in Copenhagen has been interrupted by a strike of the laborers. About 600 men have refused to continue until their wages have been raised from 35 to 45 ore per hour. They base their demand on the ground that the work is dangerous to life and health.

Where Andree Was Lost.

Professor A. G. Nathorst, the Swedish arctic explorer, in a book on the ill-fated Andree expedition, seeks to prove that the balloon party was lost in the open sea a few miles from the coast of the Kola peninsula. He has reached this conclusion from a careful study of the places where relics of the expedition have been found in connection with the air and ocean currents.

Flour Output Reduced.

The Swedish millers, at a recent meeting in Stockholm, voted to reduce their output during the coming year by 20 per cent, or close their mills for a period of ten weeks. The employees will be hit hard by this unexpected decision, the explanation of their action, the millers say, there has been an overproduction in the past and the business is not on a satisfactory basis in consequence.

Ski Tournament in May.

Eidsanger, Norway, had a unique ski tournament on May 8. Altho the spring flowers were out, the boys were playing football and the ladies turned out in summer attire, there was still enough snow on a hillside to permit ski running. The contestants were in their shirt sleeves and some wore straw hats.

Naval Station at Marstrand.

It is generally accepted that the naval station which Sweden will establish on the west coast will be located at Marstrand. This is indicated by the government's request for an appropriation for barracks, a training school for 200 boys and a training ship, all to be located at Marstrand.

WELL-CAST LASSO SAVED BABY LIVES

Mounted Policeman Throws Runaway Horse on Edge of a Group of Children.

New York, May 26.—It was an old trick with the lariat he had learned on the western plains that enabled Thomas Martin, mounted policeman, to save a score of more children yesterday afternoon from being trampled under the hoofs of a crazy horse close by the public school at Bryant and Thimont avenues. He was dragged from his own locker a coil of rope and threw it over his shoulder, and the rope cut the horse's head, and sent it driving two wagons, dashed to Boston road. He thundered in zigzag course down the road and into One Hundred and Seventy-ninth street. Martin could see a crowd of children a couple of blocks ahead. The crazy horse was then within seventy-five yards of the children. The policeman was twenty yards behind. He rose in his stirrups, circled the lasso once around his head and sent it driving thru the air.

The loop fell over the neck of the runaway. Martin pulled his horse up on his haunches. The runaway was thrown, but his fall pulled the policeman to the street. His wrist was gashed so deeply that he had to have surgical attention.

PENINSULA NOT TIED TO ANY CANDIDATE

Northern Counties Likely to Scatter in Selecting a United States Senator.

Special to The Journal.

Newberry, Mich., May 26.—The upper peninsula is much interested in the senatorial situation. As yet, however, the sentiment has not crystallized in favor of any particular man as the successor to General Alger, nor is it at all likely that the votes of all the legislators north of the straits will be cast for the same candidate.

Just now the politicians are feeling around to get their bearings, and this is the case with the newspapers, which with two exceptions are still on the fence. The exceptions are the Menominee Herald-Leader and the Sault Ste. Marie News, which have come out in favor of William Alden Smith as the logical candidate of the republican party. But it is by no means certain that Menominee will line up for the Grand Rapids congressman, and it is much to be doubted that Chippewa county, in which the Soo is located, will be found shouting for him; in fact, it is believed there are already other candidates out for the toga who will have a better chance there.

McMillan is pretty well thought of in some districts of the peninsula, his "gum-shoing" tour of last summer having proved of much benefit to his candidacy; but Hill and others mentioned are also looked upon satisfactorily, and there is, too, a feeling that it might be well to send Governor Warner to the senate.

But two peninsula counties will nominate officers this year under the new primary election law—Menominee and Schoolcraft. Only in these counties did Wires were down on the telegraph line near Victoria Falls the other day. A herd of giraffes had got their necks entangled in the wires at Trundlia and pulled down a mile of them.

OUR CREDIT PLAN A BOON TO SALARIED PEOPLE

There are countless young men and women who will marry shortly and the great majority of them will unquestionably marry on a salary. All these are invited to investigate our credit system and talk over the subject of a home of their own rather than start in boarding, as seems to be the rule. With an easy installment credit at their command their new life assumes a happy aspect at the outset. The importance of this point cannot be too strongly emphasized. The outfits you choose from are selected from the greatest furniture factories in the world, and there is such a great range of styles and combinations here that any taste may be satisfied. This is the Home of the Outfit, and a single visit will reveal to you that
