

WHAT ALCOHOL BILL WILL MEAN

Facts About Law Now Assured and What It Will Do for the Public.

By W. W. Jermans. Washington, June 9.—Since the movement for free, denatured alcohol began, members of congress, particularly from the northwest, have been besieged by the details of the bill which has now become a law.

There is nothing in the new law which adds to the cost of manufacturing alcohol. The tax is wiped out, and an appropriation is made to enable the government to pay the entire expense of administration and supervision.

The regulations of the commissioner will provide for the licensing of distilleries with a daily capacity of not more than 250 gallons of commercial alcohol.

The law provides for denaturing in its separate and distinct phases, which simply means that the distillery can have a separate room completely shut off from the distillery proper.

"There is nothing in the law," said Representative Marshall, "embarrassing to the manufacturer, beyond the cost of constructing a room or building, which, of course, need not be extensive."

"Distilleries could be established at numerous points in Minnesota, North and South Dakota, which would easily compete with the distilleries of Illinois and Indiana, as well as the molasses distilleries of the far east and the Gulf coast."

"The greatest benefit to the producer will be as a price regulator. There will be no more fluctuations in Kansas and no more potatoes in vast quantities allowed to rot in the ground."

Unquestionably the supply of alcohol for use in the Atlantic and southern states will come largely from domestic and imported molasses. In the hardest competition the western man who makes alcohol from corn, potatoes or sugar beets will have to meet with the alcohol produced from molasses.

will operate in favor of the western man. Secretary Wilson said to Mr. Marshall that in his opinion the south would depend upon the refuse molasses and cassava plant, and the north, on corn and stock potato now raised in Germany.

It is agreed by all that the success of the proposition will depend on the business being done on a very small margin, relying upon the volume of the business to render it profitable.

Manufacturers of agricultural implements all over the United States have been greatly interested in this work. The harvester manufacturing companies particularly have been planning to make internal combustion engines, that will run on the high price of gasoline.

FOES IN TRUST, TOO, STANDARD OIL'S CRY

Independents Employ Its Tactics, Alleges Octopus, 'Smoked Out' in Ohio.

Chicago, June 9.—The Standard Oil company has demanded a hearing before the interstate commerce commission and its story will be told in Cleveland June 14.

The demand of the Standard Oil company came somewhat as a surprise. In general it is understood that evidence will be adduced to show that the independent companies which have been complaining of Standard Oil methods are also in a trust agreement, and that they employ the same methods of overcoming competition that are employed by the Standard Oil company.

The attorney general of the state of Ohio is making to drive Standard Oil from the state is said to be responsible for the eagerness with which the company is seeking a hearing in Cleveland.
