KERR CASE MAKES RAPID PROGRESS

FIVE JURORS ARE SECURED IN FORENOON SESSION.

Attorneys for State and Defendant Agree Less Testy in Examining Talesman than in Former Insurance Cases.—Taking of Testimony Expected to Be Commenced Tomorrow Morning.

KERR JURORS SECURED TODAY

John H. De Smit, manufacturer, 4943 Tenth—Seventh avenue S. Virvay E. Clifford, retired, 2709 Irving avenue S. Albert M. Larson, car operator, 208 Central avenue. Clyde H. Corbett, clerk, 712 Hennepin avenue. James B. Duffy, assistant manager auto company, 3103 Dupont avenue S. Jonas Carlson, meat dealer, 1627 Washington street NE.

Judge W. A. Kerr, formerly a director and counsel for the local life insurance company, is on trial before Judge F. C. Brooks for the alleged embezzlement of $10,000.

Jurors are much easier to secure than in the other insurance cases. Only ten of the new venire were examined this morning, but out of that number five were found to be acceptable and are now in the custody of Sheriff Dreger, where they will remain until they have delivered a verdict.

James B. Duffy, appearing for the defendant, and John F. Dahl, for the state's attorney, seem easier to suit than they were in the Bechtel or the Force trials, and men who have read about the insurance cases are accepted if they appear intelligent and swear they have no actual knowledge or belief of the defendant's guilt or innocence.

If the present pace is kept up a complete panel will be secured today and the taking of evidence begun tomorrow morning.

FOUR INJURED IN AN AUTO CRASH

CHARLES CIRKLER'S MACHINE PLUNGES DOWN EMBANKMENT.

Accident Was Caused by Attempt to Dodge a Careless Chauffeur Who Disappeared Before He Could Be Identified.—Broken Bones the Worst Injuries.

Charles Cirkler, 726 East Thirteenth street and three members of his family were painfully injured in an automobile accident on the Wayzata road yesterday afternoon. Their automobile went down a high embankment, turned turtle and pinned them all to the ground.

Mr. Cirkler with his wife and mother, Mrs. Collins, and his sister, Miss Ferguson, were spinning along Superior boulevard near the Wayzata road when they spied another machine standing still in the road ahead. Mr. Cirkler sounded his horn, but the chauffeur on the other auto paid no attention to it. Mr. Cirkler started to go around when the other machine was suddenly started. Mr. Cirkler turned still farther to the side and his machine went over the embankment, which is nearly thirty feet high.

Rolling and sliding, the machine went down the incline, finally striking a small tree and turning completely over on top of the occupants.

Several persons saw the accident, and hurried to the scene. Mrs. Cirkler had fainted and she was badly injured, apparently lifeless. Mr. Cirkler's arm was broken just below the elbow, and Mrs. Coffin's arm was broken above the wrist. Miss Ferguson was badly injured. Dr. A. A. Law was passing along the boulevard at the time and at once gave his attention to the injured persons. Mrs. Cirkler was revived and she was found to be injured but not badly. The fractured arms of the others were set and they were later able to go to their homes.

The man whose auto caused the smash was not known by one of the injured persons and no left before he was questioned.

TALK RATES FOR LIGHT

CONFERENCES OF GENERAL ELECTRIC COMPANY AND CITY COUNCIL DISCUSS NEW FRANCHISE ORDINANCE.

Another franchise ordinance conference was held today between officials of the Minneapolis General Electric company and representatives of the city. The company was represented by Henry G. Bradlee of Boston and A. W. Leonard, local manager, and the council by Aldermen A. E. Merrill and Platt B. Walker of the special committee on electric rates.

The aldermen are insistent upon some provision for a periodical regulation of rates which will permit the city council to fix maximum charges. The aldermen believe that the only method of insuring reasonable rates to the users of electric light and power.

PIONEERS LOCATE HISTORIC SPOTS

POND BROTHERS' AND STEVENS' MISSION SITES FOUND.

Committee from Hennepin County Pioneers' Association Go as Guests of Journal to Calhoun and Harriet Where They Will Definitely Fix Locations of Early Day Buildings.

Their foundations have long since crumbled into the forest mould and men who reared them have gone to their reward, the sites of the famous Pond Brothers' and Stevens' mission buildings were located today by a joint committee of the Hennepin County Pioneers' association and the park board which visited Lakes Calhoun and Harriet in one of The Journal's automobiles as the guests of The Journal.

After a careful survey of the ground the Pond building was located at Thirty-fifth street and Calhoun boulevard. This historic structure was erected in 184 by Revs. Samuel W. and Gordon Pond, who felt called to carry the gospel to the Sioux Indians. It stood only for a few years. Then an incursion of the Chippewas, over hostile to the Sioux, threw the converts into a panic, and to protect those who had embraced Christianity under their ministrations the missionaries tore down their only shelter and converted the lumber into a formidable stockade. The threatening aspect of this rude fortress deterred the Chippewas from making the threatened attack.

House Never Rebuilt. When the danger was over the need of an independent mission was also past. The missionaries of the American board, under Rev. J. Stevens, had erected a mission house at Lake Harriet and the Pond house was never rebuilt. For this reason it was particularly desirable to locate the site, but much exploration the place was finally settled upon.

Less difficulty attended the location of the original site of the Stevens house. Eli Pettijohn, one of the committee, tore down the building preparatory to its removal to Oak Grove, on the Minnesota river, in 1841, and while locating its former location of a mile from Lake Harriet and just below the stone bridge south of the Lake Harriet pavilion.

The party which made this tour of exploration was well fitted to locate the spots sought. For the pioneers' association, Eli Pettijohn, who came to Minnesota in 1841, Edwin Clark, who came in 1857, Mrs. W. J. Deming, daughter of S. W. Pond, Sr., and W. J. Deane, made up the party. C. M. Spring and F. H. Nutter represented the park board.

WILL ASK FOR FOOD BUILDING AT FAIR

E. K. Slater, state food commissioner, will ask the state fair committee to arrange for a building on the fair grounds exclusively for the display of food products.

"There is already a dairy building," said Mr. Slater today, "but the food question is one of such importance and one in which the public now takes such great interest, that I think there should be a special building for food products. It would be greatly appreciated by the concerns dealing in foods, and I believe would be fully as much appreciated by the general public."

Now it is marked "13.1 feet," just 0.9 feet below the flood line.

WILL HOLD AUTOPSY

Coroner to Inquire Into Death of Edgar Hall at Excelsior.

An autopsy will probably be held on the remains of Edgar E. Hall, the young man who died just after going down the river in the Excelsior bathhouse Saturday afternoon. Coroner Kistler is not sure whether death was caused by drowning or by fright brought about by the fall into the water.

Fire caused a loss of $500 to the stock of G. E. Raymond, 120 Temple court street, St. Paul, yesterday afternoon. The firemen only used a chemical, much of the stock was sealed with water from automatic sprinklers.

The coroner of Anoka county will take charge of the body.

TIMBER TRESPASS LAW UP IN SUPREME COURT

Arguments were heard today in the supreme court on a demurrer to the complaint in the case of the state against the Hennepin Carriage company and John F. Irwin. The case tests the constitutionality of the timber trespass laws.

The case was brought by the attorney general in St. Louis court for treble damages, amounting to $50,000, for cutting pine on state lands without a permit. In the demurrer to the complaint, which was argued in the district court at Duluth, the defendants claim as one of their principal arguments that the law's unconstitutionality, that it provides for two punishments; treble damages and a fine and imprisonment. It is claimed that if the law is not unconstitutional the remedy is by indictment and not by civil suit.

GIFTS Wedding gifts should carry with them the respectful regard of the donor toward the recipient. This is best expressed in the appropriateness of the article. Articles of MERIT are the only wedding gifts persons expect to give. Lack of beautiful assortments often causes the selection of articles of questionable merit. If the gift is bought of Hudson it must have merit—Hudson quality is a characteristic of every article of merchandise in our store. Our assortments at every price satisfy.

The Knabe-Angelus embodies all the artistic qualities of the celebrated Knabe piano and that greatest of piano players, the Angelus. It places the music and the world, every lover of music the means of enjoying the most beautiful music known to the world, played in a truly artistic manner, even by one who is not a musician. The Knabe-Angelus is the ordinary piano players play, but with that same delicate touching and shading which the great piano virtuoso holds his audience spellbound. Those new expressive touches, the Knabe-Angelus, the phrasing lever and the control of accent in bass and treble separately, enables one to produce all these effects, effects which are utterly impossible on any other piano manufactured. This wonderful device for playing the piano is placed in the interior of the piano case, in both the Knabe and Emerson pianos. We will take your old piano in exchange and balance can be paid monthly if desired. FOSTER & WALDO 36 5th St. S. Cor. Nicollet
