Thomas J. Coleman, the private detective recently sentenced to Stillwater for extortion, found a lady's pocketbook yesterday on Nicollet avenue. The purse contained a large sum of money and some valuable papers. Mr. Coleman wants the owner to call at his residence, 726 Fifth street S., and claim the purse.

HOT RECEPTION IN STORE FOR CROOKS

NO VACATION IN THE COUNTY ATTORNEY'S OFFICE.

Grand Jury Subject to Call at Any Time, and Al J. Smith and the Police Aching to Get a Chance at Powers That Prey During G. A. R. Encampment.

If the plans of County Attorney Al J. Smith do not miscarry, Minneapolis will be anything but a safe spot for criminals who are expected to flock into the city for the national encampment of the G. A. R.

At the prosecutor's suggestion, the grand jury has adjourned to meet again Aug. 8, or shortly before the beginning of the encampment. For the first time in years there will be a grand jury subject to call at any time during the encampment the inquisitors will hold regular sessions and will act as a cordial reception committee to all violators of the law.

There will be no vacation in this office this summer,” said Mr. Smith today. “I am going to be in my office right through, and we will co-operate with the police department. The record of every crook will be investigated, and if he has ever been convicted we will plead previous conviction and will endeavor to give him the limit under the habitual-criminal act that provides for a penalty double that which a man with a clean record would get. We mean business, and between the police, the county attorney's office and the grand jury the lawbreakers will have anything but smooth sailing.”

The grand jury yesterday afternoon reported to Judge H. D. Dickinson and returned several indictments. Five men were arraigned today and four entered pleas of guilty. Martin C. Snelfohn, accused of improper treatment of a young girl, was the only one to plead not guilty.

The others were William McCormick, indicted on the charge of taking a horse and buggy from one liveryman and selling it to another; John Henry, accused of forgery in the second degree; and Frank Harrison and John Swafford, who stole several suits of clothes from 106 Hennepin avenue. All of those who admitted their guilt were remanded for sentence.

LINDEN HILLS IS TORN BY 'TRAGEDY'

WILD YARN OF A BOY DECAPITATED GAINS WIDE CREDENCE.

Everybody Talking to Everybody Else About the Cruel Street Railway Company and the Child Victim of a Fast Car—But No One Knows Who or When.

“And the child was actually decapitated,” said the iceman.
“They hushed it up,” said the maid servant.
“And there wasn't any funeral, and the parents won't say a thing about it,” said the woman of the house, who had heard the tale from the mouth of a Sensational gossip started by a mother's warning and spreading like wildfire about Linden Hills for a week past.

Everybody in the district their liberty for the entire summer vacation.

About a week ago the residents were shocked to learn that a small boy had been decapitated by a Minnetonka trolley car and that the body had been stealthily sent away for burial before an investigation could be started; that the boy's father, a resident of Linden Hills; that he had staid out of doors later than usual, and wandering on the tracks had fallen in front of one of the speeding cars.

Everyone became indignant. Many persons wanted the street railway company dealt with immediately, and if criminal proceedings could not be begun they at least wanted the authorities to compel the company to run the cars at a snail's pace, while running along the shore of Lake Harriet and to the city limits.

Every resident of the district took it on himself to learn as much as he could concerning the accident. Soon no one could venture out of his house without some one questioning him about the death of the boy. One man heard that Dr. C. E. Booth and Dr. F. L. Adair had been called in connection with the case, but on investigation learned that they had only listened to the grocers and meat dealers who heard of it and told it to their customers. Some of the more original and enterprising car conductors, only to learn that they “knew of the boy's death, but had forgotten where they heard it.”

While the gossip was going the rounds the children were compelled to play in the front yard and a venture to the street meant a session in the woodshed.

Finally the story reached every house but the man and woman, a victim of the accident still remained a mystery. At last one woman dispelled the mystery merely by remarking in a casual way that she had told her little boy some time ago in order to keep him from playing on the tracks. The boy thought it a good story to tell his playmates and so the yarn started.

It is not known whether the child who played in the front yard and a venture to the street meant a session in the woodshed.

DE LA BARRE FOR FLOUR BY RIVER

ENGINEER DECLARES FOR MISSISSIPPI ROUTE FOR FREIGHT.

Agent for St. Anthony Falls Waterpower Company Lauds Movement for Cheaper Outlet for Product of the Big Mills, with New Markets in the South. William de la Barre, engineer, agent and treasurer for the St. Anthony Falls Waterpower company and the Minneapolis Mill company, is among those who see in the Mississippi river freight route the gulf the future strength of the Minneapolis milling industry.

It is as a practical man and not as a theorist that Mr. de la Barre approaches this subject. His experience and familiarity with the Mississippi and his travels abroad thru countries where water highways are regarded as of prime importance, make his opinion on this subject of particular value. In a communication to the Northwestern Miller, current issue, Mr. de la Barre says:

“I have read with great and genuine interest your editorial on navigation on the Mississippi river. It is a timely, sensible, logical and fine exposition of what might be done in the way of shipping and transporting flour and grain from Minneapolis to foreign ports by way of the Mississippi waterway.”

“During the hearing, last September, at the old customs house in St. Paul, Captain Wyman testified before the commission of government engineers appointed by the secretary of war to examine into the condition and operation of the United States government reservoirs at the headwaters of the Mississippi river and their effect upon navigation, that he would undertake to carry a load of 10,000 barrels of flour from Minneapolis to New Orleans for one-third of the cost of rail transportation to New York, and that the time occupied would not often exceed ten days. He also said that a three and one-half feet gauge was at St. Paul, would be sufficient to enable him to bring his boats or barges up river. For return freight he would bring coal from the Ohio river.”

“To anyone who has had an opportunity to witness the immense traffic on the rivers Elbe, Rhine, Weser, Danube and other streams in Germany it has seem beyond comprehension that this great and enterprising nation of ours has not made more advance in this direction, and that our merchants and shippers are daily paying exorbitant tribute to the railroads when there are such splendid opportunities to have river navigation with lower freight rates for all, and where capital could find remunerative investment and labor manifold new employment.”

“Please keep up your discussion of this problem and your pen will serve to start an agitation which may result in bounteous benefit to the milling and many other interests. Let us have navigation on the upper Mississippi river to help the milling fraternity.”

Will You Pay

Twenty cents for a good tenant to occupy that vacant room? If so, telephone The Journal, No. 9, and state all the conveniences and accommodations the roomer may have. You will rent it and to a desirable tenant. A lady telephoned congratulations to The Journal for renting her room so quickly and to such a desirable tenant. She said that she had neglected advertising it until she was informed that The Journal accepted “ads” over the phone and she would have had her room rented long before. As it was not convenient for her to call at the office with the ad, she had neglected advertising it until she was informed that The Journal accepted “ads” over the phone, and the rate was just the same as if brought into the office.

This plan of taking ads by phone is very convenient for you. Try it the next time you have a “want.” The service is unexcelled.

ST. JEAN BAPTISTE'S DAY WILL BE CELEBRATED

Sunday, June 24, will be St. Jean Baptiste day, the great French Canadian holiday. It will be celebrated in Minneapolis with unusually elaborate ceremonies by the various French societies which will unite in a series of appropriate events.

In the morning there will be a grand parade of the societies starting at 9 o'clock from the hall of the Society St. Jean Baptiste, Fourth street and Central avenue. Headed by a full military band, the procession will traverse the principal streets of the city, reaching the church of Notre Dame des Lourdes, where there will be solemn high mass and a special sermon by Rev. St. Julien of St. Louis parish, St. Paul.

Sunday evening there will be a literary and musical entertainment at St. Boniface hall, Seventh and University avenues. The celebration will conclude with a picnic at Minnehaha, where there will be outdoor sports and contests and appropriate speeches. The societies participating in the two days observance are: St. Jean Baptiste, St. Joseph's, Hennepin court, C. O. F., Nicollet court, C. O. F., and Champlin camp, W. O. W., representing the men's organizations and the women's societies, Notre Dame court, W. C. O. F., L'Etouil du Nord court, W. C. O. F., Cercle Ste. Anne, auxiliary to Society St. Jean Baptiste, and Lafayette grove, W. O. W. circle.

MOVEMENT IS GROWING

Great Missionary Work Will Be Undertaken in State This Year.

Plans for the evangelization of the state of Minnesota were discussed today by the Minnesota Christian Missionary society, in session at Growth church, St. Paul.

Reports were read showing the growth of the missionary movement in the state last year. It was decided to attempt missionary work the coming year in every part of the state where the Christian church exists in any form.

Four new pastors will be introduced to the convention this evening, A. J. Wilson, Plainville; F. H. Lindemeyer, Willow Creek; K. Byron, Garden City; Rochester Irwin, Rochester.

NAVAL VETERANS COMING

SAILORS IN WAR OF REBELLION WILL HOLD REUNION IN MINNEAPOLIS ENCAMPMENT WEEK.

Of no less interest than the army veterans who are to gather in Minneapolis in August for the Grand Army encampment will be the naval veterans who play an equally important part in the war of the rebellion. The naval veterans will hold their annual gathering here with the Grand Army organization, of which they are a part.

The naval veterans as a co-ordinate body of the A. R. will participate in the veterans' parade on Wednesday, Aug. 15. Only army and navy veterans and the Association of Civil War Nurses are allowed to participate in this parade, which will be held at the city hall headquarters on Wednesday evening. This gathering will be in charge of Commodore J. F. R. Foss of Minneapolis, a former commander of the national naval veterans' organization.

Every effort will be made to make the Minneapolis gathering of the naval veterans a memorable occasion. It is hoped that every veteran in the service during the civil war will be represented and that shipmates who have been separated for years may be reunited to live over again the stirring days of their youth.

An invitation to the Minneapolis encampment is being sent to all naval veterans thru the national organizations. The officers of the association are: William Simmons, commander, 124 Warren street, Philadelphia, Pa.; John W. Don, lieutenant commander, Morocco, Ind.; John Black, corresponding secretary, Cincinnati, Ohio; William H. Comstock, fleet paymaster, Denver, Colo.; William I. Perry, chief of staff, St. Petrus street, Philadelphia, Pa.; Charles S. D.; William H. Savage, chairman legislation committee, Los Angeles, Cal.

STATE WILL SUE JUSTICE

Cass County Officer Is Accused of Unjudicial Conduct.

The state game and fish commission is considering bringing suits, one civil and one criminal action, against a justice of the peace of Cass county. On June 10 a game warden swore out warrants for the arrest of two men for illegal fishing in Gull Lake.

Some time later the men were arraigned at Walker before Judge Wright. A story then came out to the effect that a justice of the peace had induced each to make a compromise with the other before him of illegal fishing and that the justice imposed and collected fines of $25 and $50.

The men claimed they could not be punished twice for the same offense and were discharged by Judge Wright. Action probably will now be brought against the justice for collection from him of the fines, and a criminal proceeding for interfering with the wheels of justice.

ORATORS ARE PRIZE MEN

Young Men of Proved Ability Will Contest for Honors.

The national intercollegiate prohibition contest, which will take place Thursday evening at the university armory, will be the second of the kind ever held in the west.

J. P. Hagerman of Los Angeles, the champion all-round athlete of the Pacific coast, and E. S. Minchin of Whittier college, California, are the contestants of the western.

C. A. Henning of the University of Michigan defeated the noted Japanese orator of that school, Mr. Inui, the winner of the Northern league contest, of which the University of Minnesota is a member.

A. L. Burkett of Taylor university, Indiana, and two first-class orators from the best colleges of Kansas, A. L. Ryan of Baker college and W. D. Norbeck of Ottawa college the entering list, all of whom have won local, university, state and interstate honors.

A thousand orators have been delivered as preparation for this contest, while the speakers represent the colleges of eighteen states.

SOLDIER DROWNS IN RIVER

Snelling Artillery Man Meets Death in Peculiar Manner.

John C. Messner, private in the Tenth Fort Snelling, was drowned in the Minnesota river Tuesday after having been kicked by a horse which he had driven into the river.

Messner was in charge of several horses and had driven them into the water to drink. As he stood in mid-stream, one of the animals kicked him in the abdomen. He was knocked breathless and fell over into the water. He was drowned before he could be reached by his friends. The body was recovered.

OUTSIDE THE PARK

E. F. McDonald, inmate of the soldiers' home, objects to a published statement that he was held for trial in police court on a charge of peddling in Minnehaha park.

He says he was peddling in Minnehaha park, outside the park, where, the courts decided a year ago, he had a right to sell. He was arrested in the park a year ago on the same charge and says that the courts decided that Minnehaha park is not a part of the regular park property. His case is still pending in police court.

Finis Coronat Opus

The agents of the STATE MUTUAL LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY OF WORCESTER, MASS., have claimed for many years that Massachusetts insurance management and the Massachusetts insurance law were superior to conditions in other states.

The insurance developments during the past year have tested this claim by turning the lime-light of severe criticism on insurance companies. The STATE MUTUAL report for 1905 gives the result. Read it:

Business written	$16,942,832
A gain over 1904 of	1,484,148
during the sixty years of the company's history
Business in force Dec. 31, 1905	114,482,961
Payments to policyholders during 1905. Death claims, dividends, endowments, etc.	2,728,374
Total expenses, including taxes, only	991,080
Home office expenses, including entire official staff and clerical force	77,061
Total income during 1905	5,552,445
A gain over 1904 of	339,816

The preceding figures show two things: That the insuring public is turning to this old-fashioned company; and that the results explain the preference. “THE END CROWNS THE WORK.” One incident mentioned in the report is of special interest; namely, that one policyholder died only four days after his policy was issued—and, of course, it was promptly paid.

If you need insurance, take it now and take it in the STATE MUTUAL. Full information by any of the Company's agents.
