DROWNS IN A CISTERN

Southern Minnesota Woman Takes Her Life While Insane.

WINONA, MINN.—Mrs. Minnie Mienert drowned herself in a elstern in the town of Pleasant Hill, on Monday, and Coroner E. S. Muir decided that it was a case of suicide, due to temporary mental aberration. Mrs. Mienert was 58, and left a husband and two stepsons. Investigation showed the deed to have been carefully planned.

Under the authority conferred upon him by the new code, Judge Snow is planning a rearrangement of court terms in the district. He has practically decided to advance the spring term in Winona county from the first Monday in May to the second Monday in April, which would give a month instead of two weeks for this term before the spring term in Wabasha county. Some changes in Wabasha and for this term before the spring term in Wa-basha county. Some changes in Wabasha and Olmsted counties may also be made.

Great Western Engineer Put in Charge of Double Tracking.

RED WING, MINN.—G. H. Herrold, division engineer of the Great Western between Red Wing and Osage, has left for Chicago, having been promoted to a more responsible position. He will have charge of the double tracking between Chicago and Oelwein, where the best engineering skill is required.

Martin Bates has contracted with a firm in Comanche, Iowa, to sell his great pearl. Bates got $5,000 down, is to receive $10,000 more and then an indefinite sum based on the selling price. The pearl will not in any event be sold for less than $20,000.

Harry Rich, a student at Yale, and Douald. The pearl will not in any event be sold in that $20,000.

Harry Rich, a student at Yale, and Donald Steldon attending Williams college, have left Williams, Mass., to walk home, unless they weary of tramping before reaching Red Wing.

Reports are coming in from places where the earthquake shocks were felt. They agree that the first shock lasted about six seconds, causing a swaying motion. Then there were two shorter abrupt shocks.

HALLOCK, MINN.—At a meeting of the Hallock Creamery association it was decided to build a $4,000 creamery this fall. Joel G. Winkjer of the state dairy and food commission and William Robertson, superintendent of the state experimental farm at Crookston, devered addresses.

Even the commonplace turtle receives kindness from the members of the Band of Mercy. The writer of the fol-lowing story tells how she helped one of these little creatures.

Saved the Turtle.

One day as I was walking along the street I spied a poor little turtle that was in pain. It looked like it had been stepped on, because its tongue was somewhat crushed. I picked the little creature up and took it home where laid it in the shade on the grass ar put a large pan of water by it, so that if it wanted to swim it could. I gave it something to eat and went away to see what it would do. Then I came back but it was still in the same place. I watched it every day and in a few days it had disappeared and I never knew what became of it, but I always have felt as the I had done a kind act have felt as the I had done a kind act to a poor little helpless turtle.

Canby, Minn., June 26.—John Sloan of Free-land has always had a high opinion of the fertility of the soil of his farm, but that it grew bables he did not know. Naturally then he was startled when his young son rushed into the room where he was eating his lonely supper, his wife being absent on a visit, and cried: "Papa, we've got a little baby. Found it under a boxelder down in the cow pasture."

The boy and a young friend were taking a short cut home thru the grove when they found the infant, about fifty feet from the main road. It was apparently not over two days old, and was strong of lung and somewhat off color as regards complexion, and is now engaged in upsetting the usual calm and dignity which prevail in the Sloan household. the Sloan household.

The grove where the child was discovered is but little frequented, and had it not been for the boys' desire to take a short cut the child might have perished.

Grand Rapids, Minn., June 26.—In the sensa-tional Inscho arson case the defendant was found not guilty, notwithstanding the remarkably strong case made out by the state. strong case made out by the state.

Rumors with reference to the conduct of the jury were rife all day Sunday, and on Monday bore fruit in contempt proceedings instituted against Joha McVeigh. It is charged that McVeigh approached a juror at the afternoon recess of Friday. The hearing in the contempt proceedings on the order to show cause will take place this evening.

In the case of the state against McDonald on a charge of assault in the first degree unusual steps were taken by the court this morning in ordering that the four jurors already selected be placed in confinement until the trial is finished. In this connection Judge McClenahan dismissed all jurors who have been serving on the regular panel. The remaining jurors in the McDonald case will be selected from special ventres. McDonald is a notorious character engaged i the saloon business at Swan River. He shot a lumberjack named Martin last December, and is not only to be tried at the present term on this charge, but also on a charge of blind-pigging. Sheriff Hoolihan, acting under a search warrant issued under the 1905 law, selzed Mc. Donald's stock of liquors at the time of his arrest, and the entire consignment, together with the barroom outfit, is now stowed away in the courthouse cellars.

Big Hotel Fired.

The building set on fire, as testified in the Inscho case, was a hotel at Deer River, a large Inscho case, was a hotel at Deer River, a large seventy-room frame structure. The state produced a witness named Crafts who swore that on the night preceding the fire he had been paid $50 to apply the torch to the building. Crafts was given the money by the defendant and furnished bottles of oil, a pair of rubbers, an old cap, a swamphook and a revolver which was to be used if necessary. He was told by the defendant, Inscho, that Warren Everton and Georges Ruby together with other salcon men the defendant, Inscho, that Warren Everton and George Ruby, together with other saloon men at Deer River, and Frank Inscho, a brother of the defendant and a gambler, had contributed to pay someone who would burn the building. The Northern hotel had been very prosperous under the management of Jerome Kelleher as proprietor, and there had been much business jealousy aroused on the part of the persons named as co-operating with the defendant.

Other witnesses for the state included Dell Guyett, a private of the marines, and who was brought on from the Washington barracks to Guyett, a private of the marines, and who was brought on from the Washington barracks to testify. He swore that he had been promised money if he would fire the building. The defendant, Inscho, admitted to Guyett that he (the defendant) had tried to set the fire, but had failed. The conversation with Guyett took place after the fire. Guyett's instructions were to bore two holes in the exterior wall of the building and about eight feet apart, the one above the other. Oil was to be poured into both holes, the top hole plugged so as to give a holes, the top hole plugged so as to give a proper draft and the stub of a candle to be inserted in the lower hole. More Corroborative Evidence.

the testimony of Robert Clark, a blacksmith at Deer River, who had sold the defendant the swamphook and who had been cautioned by the defendant to remain silent if anything happened within a day or two.

The defense was an alibi, sworn to by some of the men who had been named by Inscho in talking with Crafts as being interested in seeing the hotel burned. This defense was met on rebuttal by evidence by Albert Hachey, the village marshal at Deer River, who testified that the defendant said to him that he was in bed at the time of the fire, the alibi of the defendant being that he was in Everton's saloon.

Hachey also swore that an effort was made ant being that he was in Everton's saloon.

Hachey also swore that an effort was made to get him to change his testimony, and that at the time of the interview Frank Inscho said to him: "If Ed is convicted he will squawk, and seven or eight more of us will go to the pen."

A very vigorous charge was delivered by Judge
McClenahan. It being stated that perjury had

The criminal work of the term include charges of embezzlement against C. C. Miller

June 26.—High water in the Minnesota river continues to damage corn lands and pastures along the bottoms, and the frequent rains keep the river from receding. lands and pastures along the bottoms, and the frequent rains keep the river from receding. Near New Ulm conditions are worse than for many years. All the bridge approaches are submerged, and farmers living in Nicollet county are unable to enter the city. Two gasolene, launches have been chartered by the merchants to ferry passengers across the stream, but in spite of this the loss of trade has been heavy. Residents of that town are convinced that the inundation, which is more serious opposite their city than at points lower down the stream, is caused very largely by the partial obstruction of the stream by the Chicago & North-Western railway. Until a few years ago the river was held as a navigable stream, and was under the direct supervision of the United States war department, whose regulations require that all bridges be constructed with draws or in such a manner that vessels may pass under them. Congressman McCleary made an unsuccessful effort to have the stream declared unnavigable, but two years ago Congressman C. R. Davis of this city secured the passage of a bill fixing the head of navigation at Le Sueur. While the bill was pending the North-Western filled in a long trestle near Redstone, and it is believed that this embankment is retarding the leved that this embankment is retarding the

For miles above New Ulm the fall in the watercourse is very slight, and the smallest obstruction would have a tendency to cause the sluggish stream to leave its banks. This has een true of the river above the trestle, while below it there have been no serious foods, and it is suggested that the matter be brought to the attention of the county board of Nicollet and Brown counties.

CONSUMPTIVES' SANATORIUM State Institution at Walker Likely to Be Ready by Fall.

NEW ULM, MINN.—Dr. G. W. Weiser of this city, one of the members of the commission selected to provide a state sanatorium for consumptives, has been notified that the bids for the erection of the building will be let on July 5. Soon after that date he will meet the other members of the commission and go to Walker to locate a site for the sanatorium on the tract of land that has been provided by the state for the purpose.

It is contemplated at this time to erect only one wing of the building as planned by the commission, and add to it as fast as the needs of the institution require. The commission has selected 700 acres of land on a bluff some 250 feet above the water and thickly timbered. It is the choice of several sites considered by the commission.

Delay has been occasioned from the fact that Delay has been occasioned from the fact that when the commission desired to obtain title to the land it was found that a tract of forty acres was still government land, and a special act of congress had to be secured in order to get it. The government has given the commission the use of the land, but if the sanatorium should at any time he discontinued and the land sold this particular piece will revert to the government for homestead purposes. Dr. Weiser is of the opinion that the buildings will be up and ready for use by early fall.

In the Linderoth case it seems that an intimate friend of Linderoth was hunting for him the morning of his death. He told several persons that he had a claim which Linderoth had to pay. They passed each other on the street, but exchanged no words. This was at 9:15 a.m. The friend went to Linderoth's shop, found it locked and returned downtown, going to a barber shop. Linderoth at 9:45 started for his shop and was seen there at 10:10 by two men. At 10:30 the alarm of Linderoth's death was given.

The friend did not leave the barber shop, according to the barber's statement, until 10:25, and the person who spread the alarm of death and the person who spread the alarm of death met the man on his way to Linderoth's shop after the deed had been committed. Two women will swear positively that they noticed this man around the blacksmith shop at about 10:15, when the barber says he was in his shop. The county authorities believe the women are miscounty authorities believe the women are mis-taken.

Everything was in readiness for the opening of the Northern Minnesota Firemen's associa-tion tournament today. Warren is in shape to entertain the crowds royally. There will—be four days of sports, which include the regular fireman's races; two good horse races, for which purses amounting to $600 are put up; three ball games and many other attractions. Teams from Blackduck, Thief River Falls, Red Lake Falls, Crookston, Hallock and Bemidji will be present. Some record-breaking time is expected.

MIGHT HAVE BEEN WORSE

Hallock Woman Would Have Been Incinerated Had Lamp Been Full, HALLOCK, MINN.—Mrs. Isaac Yeo met with a serious accident. On retiring she set the lamp at the foot of the stairs and started up with her arms full of clothing. At the head of the stairs she tripped and fell headforemost down the flight, overturning and breaking the lawn.

She was made unconscious by the fall, and as she was alone she lay some time before regaining her senses. Then she managed to crawl to her nearest neighbor, a quarter of a mile away, where medical assistance was summoned. away, where medical assistance was summoned.

It was found that she was badly burned about the body and arms and severely bruised. There was only a little oil in the lamp, which probably accounts for the fact that she was not incinerated and the house destroyed.

MARINE, MINN.—The 3-year-old daughter of William Anderson, residing six miles west of here, had three fingers of her left hand chopped off by her 5-year-old brother. They were playing with an ax at the chopping block.

The station building at Copas is completed. A postoffice has been established and the rural routes, now going out from Otisville and Scandia, will probably be discontinued in the near future, as the irributary territory can well be accommodated from Copas. It is only a question of time how long Marine will last, as the new rising town will certainly absorb the bulk of the trade coming here.

TOWNSHIP'S GOLDEN JUBILEE in New Richland.

NEW RICHLAND, MINN.—Yesterday a celebration of the fiftleth anniversary of the first settlement of New Richland township was held on the banks of St. Olaf lake, and was attended by at least 2,000 persons. Rev. Mr. Bjorn of Zumbrota, a veteran preacher, spoke in the forenoon in Norwegian upon the first settlement. The principal address of the afternoon was given by Rev. Gerhard Rasmussen of Harmony in English, and was a treat. Among others who made short talks were Rev. C. Christianson of Gardner, Ill.; Professor Felland of St. Olaf college and Professor C. A. Melby, also of St. Olaf. The latter is a son of Rev. O. A. Melby, who for thirty-five years has been pastor of the local Lutheran churches.

The first settlers of New Richland were eight or nine families of Norwegians, who came here from Rock county, Wisconsin. They took claims and endured the severe hardships, living in a most meager manner. One large family lived thru the winter months upon 200 pounds of cornmeal and a few other necessaries that $20 in money would buy. Today most of these, and there are reveral of the first settlers living, are well-to-do farmers who do not want for many of the luxurles of life. NEW RICHLAND, MINN.—Yesterday a cele-

KIDNAPPED A BEAR CUB Raymond of Le Sueur Has an Adventure with Genuine Thrills.

LE SUBUR, MINN.—E. J. Raymond of Le Sueur, grain buyer for the St. John Grain company of Heron Lake, tells of an experience which he and some of the St. John men had lately while in Washington looking up lumber and stone government land claims.

Raymond and two of the other men were riding along on horseback one day, several miles from camp, when they discovered two bear cubs up in a tree. Neither of the parent bears was visible and determined to have one of the cubs for a pet, Mr. Raymond climbed the tree with a gunny sack that he had with them and, catching the snarling, scratching little cub, stuffed it into the sack and climbed down the tree again.

stuffed it into the sack and climbed down the tree again.

And he was none too soon, for he had scarcely reached terra firma when the mother bear, having heard the cries of her young, came rushing onto the scene and it took some good work with the horses to get away from her. She chased the men a long distance, but they finally escaped and Mr. Raymond brought off his unwilling pet in safety and made a present of it to the head of the firm.

FOUGHT IN THE DARK Red Wing Men Battle with Bare Fists to Settle a Grudge.

RED WING, MINN.—C. J. Weirth, for several years chief of the fire department, and albert Burkard, a liquor dealer, agreed to settle an old grudge by means of a fight and proceeded in the darkness to a secluded place. Burkard was first thrown, but got to his feet again and punished Wierth severely.

Dr. Myron W. Smith smashed his automobile and had a decidedly narrow escape himself. He attempted to go up the steep hill to College Bluff. The clutch failed, the chain broke and the machine tumbled down a high embankment. C. Curry, a clam fisher, who is a neighbor of Martin Bates, finder of the great pearl, shows a collection of gems found in three weeks' fishing which he values at $1,000.

TODAY'S NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST "I Believe in the Use of Beer."

Distinguished Divine Pleads for Popular Beverage in the Home.

From staid old Fitchburg, Mass., comes the voice of a rector pleading for the sane use of wine and beer. The Rev. Alexis W. Stein, rector of Christ Episcopal church of that city, and formerly assistant to the Rev. Dr. Rainsford at St. George's church, New York, and, previously, rector of Christ's church. Cincinnati, believes in facing conditions as they exist. "I am one of those," he says, "who believe in the use of wine and beer. The surest cure for the misuse of them is the proper use of them. The man who drinks beer in his home with his family and children about him will get no harm himself nor do any harm to anyone else because he drinks. The man who spends an hour with a group of friends, among whom are women he respects, over one or two glasses of beer or light wine as do some European page. spects, over one or two glasses of beer or light wine, as do some European people, will get no harm from it. The beer gardens of Germany are positive forces for good in the social life of that country."

That is the reverend gentleman's tolerant and rational attitude on the question, and had he gone further and examined into the merits of the various beers he would have agreed with some of our he would have agreed with some of our most eminent physicians that Pabst Blue Ribbon Beer is the best means to temperance because of its small percentage of alcohol and its great food value. He would also have recommended Pabst Blue Ribbon Beer, as do the doctors, "in preference to all other beers because it is the absolutely clean beer—the beer that is absolutely pure, never touched by human hands and never in contact with any air except sterilized and filtered air from the time it is brewed till it is poured into time it is brewed till it is poured into your glass." That is what one well-known doctor said of it.

Other doctors say Pabst Blue Ribbon Beer is the cleanest, purest, most whole-some beer brewed, and our readers will agree with us that the doctors ought to know.
