BRUISED IN HOPPING CARS.

James R. Emerson, 1174 Eleventh street, St. Paul, was brought to Minneapolis in a badly bruised condition last evening. He attempted to board a Milwaukee train at the Chestnut street crossing. St. Paul policemen saw him making the attempt and stopped the train. At Minneapolis he was first taken to the city hospital and then to a home in St. Paul. His injuries are not serious.

Rich Copper Mine.

Minneapolis capitalists and other investors in stock of the Copper Creek Mining Company of Arizona will be interested to learn that the main shaft is down more than 200 feet and that additional hoisting machinery has been purchased and will be in service next month, after which time the shaft will be sunk to the 1,000-foot level as fast as three shifts of men can do it, and ore hoisted from each 100-foot level at same time.
The company owns 700 acres of the richest copper mine in Arizona, with no indebtedness, and has money in treasury for above and other development work. Ore now being shipped to smelter from first level has values of $65.00 to $75.00 per ton, and is showing better values daily.
On my two visits to the mines lately, parties accompanying me, after full examination, purchased for themselves and their friends, a large quantity of stock. I would advise others to investigate same at once, before another advance in price. Investment absolutely guaranteed. Edwin Clark, 920 Guaranty Loan Building. Both phones, 1222.

MINNEAPOLIS IS THE G. A. R. ENCAMPMENT CITY.

Minneapolis and not St. Paul is to be the 1906 encampment city of the G. A. R., according to an elaborate folder which has just been published by the Burlington road, and members of the public who desire to see the commercial club, who registered the strenuous objection to the recent lapse of the Burlington in advertising St. Paul as the encampment city, announce that the 'typographical error' incident is satisfactorily closed.
When a folder advertising the Grand Army encampment in St. Paul was distributed by the Burlington late in June, a protest rose from Minneapolis. The Burlington officials recalled the folder and announced that the mistake was due to a typographical error.
To show their good faith the officials of the Burlington do not only print in Minneapolis at the road's expense 10,000 copies of each of the two booklets issued by the Grand Army committee and sent to the Burlington, but also printed and distributed to the Great City of the Northwest and 'Things You Want to Know About Minneapolis,' but they arranged for the publication of 50,000 Grand Army folders for the encampment and the beauties of Minneapolis. These folders and booklets were issued today and will be generally distributed along the route of the Burlington. A protest against the folder will leave no room for doubt as to the convention city, for the word 'Minneapolis' appears with commendable frequency.

Veterans from the East.

As an indication of the crowd which may be expected at the Minneapolis encampment week, Chairman Wallace G. Nye of the public affairs committee received today a request from Hamilton, Ohio, for accommodation for forty veterans. From a small town in New York came a like request for thirty members of the G. A. R., and from a little town in northern Vermont came the announcement that twenty-five old soldiers would make the trip together. Considering the fact that the veterans who attend the encampment will be in the minority, compared with the visitors not enrolled in the organization, the demand for quarters is remarkable. One old soldier wrote Mr. Nye from an eastern state, saying: 'I'm an old man, pretty darn feeble and pretty darn poor, but I'll be in Minneapolis. Phil Clark of Baraboo, Wis., member of the executive committee of the Grand Army council, spent yesterday in Minneapolis, going over the plans and arrangements for the encampment with Mr. Nye and others in charge. He announced himself as perfectly satisfied with the work of arrangements and predicted the most successful encampment in Grand Army history.

The preparations for the encampment here in August interested him greatly and he says that judging from the spirit of the state encampment at Galesburg, Illinois will send a strong delegation and the veterans of the Escanaba district will turn out to a man.

FOUR FARM COURSES AT THE STATE SCHOOL.

The catalog of the school of agriculture of the state university for 1906-7, which has just been published, is full of interest to those who are contemplating advanced work, either in scientific training or home economics. It offers four courses of instruction, all given at the university farm, St. Anthony Park. They are: First, the college course for students who have graduated from a state high school or from the school of agriculture; second, a school course of three winters for farmers' boys and girls who have finished eighth grade work and who desire to study agriculture and home economics; third, a short course for farmers which is a lecture course of eight weeks' duration, given for the benefit of farmers who cannot attend the long term of the regular school course, and fourth, a four weeks' course for butter and cheese makers. In order to take this course a person must have had a year's experience in creamery or cheese factory.
A catalog describing these courses will be sent to anyone who will address the Registrar, School of Agriculture, St. Anthony Park, St. Paul, Minn., requesting it.

Mr. Lund is highly jubilant over the lucky purchase—thinks he got one of the biggest snags in farm land that ever was offered or sold.
It is Mr. Lund's intention to run a number of colonies of people out to this land in the next few weeks, following, as he hopes to dispose of every acre of it to actual settlers, thereby adding to the population of that favored section.
The price Mr. Lund will make will be very reasonable, because the purchase is reasonable, and the terms are such that it gives every poor man an opportunity to own a home, and thereby become a king in his own right.

MEETING AGAIN DEFERRED

CANDIDATES CANNOT GET TOGETHER ON STATE COMMITTEE BEFORE NEXT SATURDAY.

Another postponement has been necessary in the selection of the republic state central committee. A call was sent out this morning for a meeting of the candidates Thursday noon. Railroad Commissioner Staples protested at such short notice, as he had already made arrangements to be in Caledonia tomorrow with the other commissioners, for a hearing on the question of train service. So the Thursday notice was recalled and Senator Cole is now trying to get an agreement from Chairman Sivright and the other candidates to meet Saturday or Monday.
Doesn't Want Chairmanship.
Senator Cole is trying to get out of serving as chairman of the state committee, and efforts are still being made to agree on some other selection. A. L. Cole, the nominee, is suffering from the effects of overexertion on his visit to Minneapolis Monday, and it is evident that he will want careful attention all during the campaign. Dr. Cole accepts the chairmanship, he will not be able to accompany his brother on his speaking tour, as he wants to do. He is a protest rose from Minneapolis. The Burlington officials recalled the folder and announced that the mistake was due to a typographical error.

AGED WOMAN SUES SON

Mrs. Marie Himmelsback, over 80 years old, has brought suit in the district court against her son, Joseph C. Himmelsback, to compel him to make an accounting and turn over to a receiver the undertaking business being conducted at 115 First street N.
The mother claims that upon her husband's death she made her son manager of the undertaking business. She also gave him power of attorney, which has been held by the municipal court to be a contract in the nature of a lease. She now claims that the son has not only refused to give her the returns from the business, but has sold the tools and implements belonging to her.
Mrs. Himmelsback alleges that she has now sold the property to William J. Maul, her grandson, and that her son refuses to make an accounting or turn over the property. The case came up for hearing yesterday before Judge Dickinson, but, by stipulation of the parties, it was referred for hearing and determination to Arthur W. Shaw, court reporter.

PRIMARY FOR MEN ONLY

Edward T. Young, attorney general, has given an opinion to J. W. Olsen, superintendent of public instruction, that women cannot vote for school officers at a primary election.
The attorney general says, 'A primary election is essentially only the action of a political party naming candidates which theoretically represent its principles. At the final election any woman, as well as any other individual, may vote for a candidate that has been named by a political party, or may vote for some one who has not been named. As the law now stands there is no way by which a woman could be permitted to participate in making a political nomination.'

JUDGE C. L. SMITH DEFERS IMPURE FOOD CASES.

Retail Grocers Are Accused of Violating Pure Food Law, and Complaints Are Directed to Carry the Case to the Wholesale Grocer as Equally Culpable.
Judge C. L. Smith has called on the state court and food commission to arrest wholesale grocers and not retail grocers for selling adulterated supplies.
Eight retail grocers were arraigned in police court today charged with various violations of the state act. Some were accused of selling adulterated ketchup and other condiments and some were charged with selling canned goods not up to the standard. All say they purchased the goods from wholesalers, who, they assert, sold the goods as pure.
After the men were arraigned the judge asked J. G. Fowler, attorney for the food commission, why he did not bring in the wholesalers as well as the retailers, when the former were really at fault. Mr. Fowler replied that it was practically impossible to get the evidence against the wholesaler, and that the retailers were standing the brunt of the trouble, while the wholesaler reimbursed the retailer for the fine later.
The court thought this method hardly the right way to get at the pure food question, and told the complaining witnesses that he would continue the cases until July 6, when he wanted the wholesalers in court as well as the retailers. He plainly intimated that unless all concerned in the case were not present on that day, the defendants would not be made to pay a heavy fine.
'The entire system of trying to do away with adulterated food seems wrong,' said the court. 'The retailer should be punished, of course, if he violates the law, but in the present state of things these arrests will not benefit the consumers. The little grocer buys a small lot of canned goods, of lard, and condiments, and if he is to be secure from trouble he must pay an expert chemist a big sum to examine each separate article. If he does this the profits on the articles are taken away. He buys them thinking they are pure, and must pay money out of his own pocket simply to gain the wholesaler's wrath. Food seems wrong.'
On the other hand, the wholesalers buy in large quantities and could well afford to have a chemist test all their goods.
The persons arrested were I. C. Smith, N. Genakopoulos, N. J. Stempfer, F. G. Ward, G. T. Martin, A. Wolpert, John Olson and O. D. Olson. All the cases were continued until July 6.

MRS. KEYES IS URGED FOR SCHOOL DIRECTOR

The name of Mrs. Louise Collins Keyes is presented to the voters of Minneapolis by the Improvement League as its choice for nomination as a school director. At a meeting of the league yesterday Mrs. Keyes received the unanimous endorsement of the organization and consented to enter the campaign. Mrs. Keyes will file as a republican.
The league will form a campaign committee with branches in every ward and probably in every precinct, and will make a vigorous campaign. Mrs. Keyes is president of the Improvement league and has taken an active part in the kindergarten movement and other educational matters.
The matter of selecting supervisors for the public playgrounds opened by the park board was discussed at some length and referred to a committee of which Mrs. G. H. Richards is chairman. It is believed that some system of supervision is desirable, but no action will be taken without consulting the park board.
