BRIDE. A pretty wedding of the day was that of Miss Alice Brown and Dr. Bert Branton which was solemnized at the bride's parents, Judge and Mrs. C. H. Brown, 909 Fourth street SE., at 8 o'clock. The rooms were transformed with green into bowers of midsummer beauty. In the reception hall tall palms hid the stairs, and a bank of the palms and ferns was arranged in one corner of the parlor, with a large cluster of bride roses on each side. A pile of delicate white sweet peas offset with ferns was on the mantle, and bouquets of bride roses and sweet peas cast their fragrance thru the rooms. The archways were lined with the glossy green of oak boughs and snail- lace, while the chandeliers were wound with the snail-lace. Before the service Harold B. Handy, a cousin of the bride, sang, "Thine for Life," by Maccheroni, and at the conclusion, "When Song Is Sweet," by Gertrude San Souel. Mrs. Frank G. Handy was at the altar. As the bride and groom were about to be pronounced, the violin sounded the "Lohengrin" bridal chorus, Miss Martha Randall of Hamline and Miss Margaret Brown, sister of the bride, stretched white ribbons from the stairway to the newly-visited altar. Little Isabel McDonald in a white frock preceded the bride, bearing the ring in a long-stemmed American Beauty rose. The bride was met at the stair by her father, who gave her in marriage. Her gown was of imported white French lawn with a yoke of baby Irish lace, and finished with tucked flounces trimmed with white lace. She wore a long veil of tulle caught with lilies of the valley, and carried a bouquet of the same flower. The service was read by Rev. A. H. Tobbet, formerly pastor of the Congregational church at Morris, where Judge and Mrs. Brown lived. Only the relatives and intimate friends of the family were present. MUSIC FROM THE MASTERS. The Oberholzer Orchestral band played before one of the largest audiences of the season last evening. U. S. Kerr was the soloist of the evening, and his singing proved one of the most attractive features of the concert. His voice carried magnificently and could be heard not only by the audience in the pavilion, but by the crowds below the drive-ways. He was accorded the warmest of receptions, singing two encores before the audience would be satisfied. Mr. Oberholzer's accompaniments with the band were exceedingly fine. The band's numbers were thoroughly enjoyable and were played with a smoothness and finish that was especially gratifying to those who are interested in maintaining for the city such an organization as Mr. Oberholzer has under his baton. Every concert shows an improvement until now the band is regarded as one of the best heard at Lake Harriet for several years. Thursday evening a special program will be arranged and Mr. Kerr will sing several encores. The program this evening will be of unusual interest, including eight of the celebrated masterpieces. The following are the numbers: PART I. Wedding March..... Mendelssohn Funerary..... Chopin Minuet..... Paderewski Intermezzo..... Macagnani Largo..... Handel Serenade..... Moszkowski Spring Song..... Schubert Serenade..... Schubert Cornet Solo by W. C. Marlow. PART II. Overture—"Der Freischutz"..... Weber Waltz—"Flowers of Italy"..... Paganini Airs from "Babes in Toyland"..... Herbert. Chicago Chronicle. Washington.—One of the most popular homes in Washington at the same time one of the simplest is that of Mrs. Stanley Brown, who was Skollie Garfield, daughter of one of the three married presidents. Mrs. Brown is decidedly domestic in her tastes, and has with her much of the time her mother, Mrs. James A. Garfield, now 74 years of age. Mrs. Garfield has her permanent residence at Menton, Ohio, a suburb of Cleveland, but she rarely spends the winter months and such other time as she may desire. Hence it is said to have arisen the title of "bridge." She is deeply attached to Washington as the scene of her husband's triumphs and finds the home of her daughter a pleasant and hospitable one, in which she spends the winter months and such other time as she may desire. Mrs. Garfield and her children enjoy the income from a fund of $300,000 which was realized by popular subscription immediately after the death of President Garfield, and from this she finds the means to pursue her inclination for generosity, charity and many acts of kindness which make her much beloved. Her daughter joins with her in her philanthropic work. THE MEANING OF "BRIDGE." London Saturday Review. The story goes that some twenty years ago, long before bridge was known in London clubs, two families who played the game under the name of "Roman bridge" were living in neighboring houses at or near Great Dalby in Leicestershire. The only road of communication lay over a somewhat dangerous bridge. It was a frequent occurrence for the departing guests to say to their hosts: "Thank goodness it is your 'bridge' tomorrow, meaning that the other party would have to cross the dangerous bridge the next night. Hence it is said to have arisen the title of "bridge." We give this story for what it is worth, but in our own mind we have little doubt that the modern name of "bridge" is merely a very easy corruption of the old title "Roman bridge." The two words "Roman" and "bridge" have absolutely the same sound when spoken quickly, so that it is easy to imagine how the change came to pass. Chicago News. Scribblers—Pennington certainly knows how to treat a subject. Dribbles—and that's his limit. I never knew him to treat an acquaintance.

MINNETONKA. Mrs. Robert Lewis entertained the members of the Nature Study club at her summer home on Grays Bay, yesterday, at an all-day outing. The afternoon was pleasantly passed bathing and boating, and a short business session followed, at which the programs for the coming year were given out. The rooms were decorated with flowers and foliage, and on the private piazza Japanese lanterns made a gay illumination over the supper table. Mrs. Davis presided over the chafing dish and Miss Susan Farwell of Virginia assisted. An amusing feature of the evening was the imitation of two of the men—Fred Stinson and W. R. Gilliam of St. Paul. The trick caused no end of merriment and laughter. Judge Shiras of Dubuque contributed his share towards the entertainment by telling stories and suggesting conundrums. The guests of the hotel were entertained Monday evening at a barn-yard party and about twenty-five of the younger people took part in the jolly entertainment. F. A. Colson of Chicago, figured conspicuously in the role of a donkey, and the others contributed their talents by imitating the feathery and furry inhabitants of an old-fashioned barnyard. Washington.—One of the most popular homes in Washington at the same time one of the simplest is that of Mrs. Stanley Brown, who was Skollie Garfield, daughter of one of the three married presidents. Mrs. Brown is decidedly domestic in her tastes, and has with her much of the time her mother, Mrs. James A. Garfield, now 74 years of age. Mrs. Garfield has her permanent residence at Menton, Ohio, a suburb of Cleveland, but she rarely spends the winter months and such other time as she may desire. Hence it is said to have arisen the title of "bridge." She is deeply attached to Washington as the scene of her husband's triumphs and finds the home of her daughter a pleasant and hospitable one, in which she spends the winter months and such other time as she may desire. Mrs. Garfield and her children enjoy the income from a fund of $300,000 which was realized by popular subscription immediately after the death of President Garfield, and from this she finds the means to pursue her inclination for generosity, charity and many acts of kindness which make her much beloved. Her daughter joins with her in her philanthropic work. THE MEANING OF "BRIDGE." London Saturday Review. The story goes that some twenty years ago, long before bridge was known in London clubs, two families who played the game under the name of "Roman bridge" were living in neighboring houses at or near Great Dalby in Leicestershire. The only road of communication lay over a somewhat dangerous bridge. It was a frequent occurrence for the departing guests to say to their hosts: "Thank goodness it is your 'bridge' tomorrow, meaning that the other party would have to cross the dangerous bridge the next night. Hence it is said to have arisen the title of "bridge." We give this story for what it is worth, but in our own mind we have little doubt that the modern name of "bridge" is merely a very easy corruption of the old title "Roman bridge." The two words "Roman" and "bridge" have absolutely the same sound when spoken quickly, so that it is easy to imagine how the change came to pass. Chicago News.
