The Ash Accumulation

It is often a real question of what to do with the accumulation of ashes before the ash-man comes for them. The best answer to that question is "don't have any ashes to accumulate."

Get a gas range and do away with this as well as much other unnecessary labor. Every additional step adds to the burden of general housework. Why carry coal and dump ashes on hot summer days when that time could be saved for pleasuring and the house kept cool and comfortable by the use of a gas range.
