cate of the canteen for the army, and the privilege of one at a soldiers' home, if desired. I am a believer in home, if desired. I am a believer in temperance. The canteen vastly assists temperance. Statistics prove it. Practical army men advocate it. When prohibitionists fight the canteen they are simply pouring oil on the running gear of doggeries, dives and dissolute resorts. If the matter is brought up in proper form in the national encampment I am of the opinion that there will be a practically unanimous sentiment in favor of the canteen.

Was Great Mistake.

H. A. C. Hussey, assistant adjutant general of Louisiana, says that "at the time congress legislated the army canteen out of existence, experienced ones thought it a mistake and the practical test has proven that it was. This tical test has proven that it was. This is one of the cases where theory and practice do not work in harmony. It has resulted in shutting off the canteen spigot and opening the saloon bunghole, and in the change the soldier gets the vilest of drinks.'

Ben A. Hamilton, assistant adjutant general of Tennessee, says he is a tectotaler himself, but if a man will drink be believes in giving him the "best" he believes in giving him the "best grade of swill" that is possible, and relieve him of the temptation to hunt a low-class of brutes to get what he wants.

George A. Harman, department commander of Ohio, says he is not competent to judge the question, but he believes that the officers of soldiers' homes are the men who know most about it.

J. H. Thacher, assistant adjutant general of Connecticut, announced himself emphatically with "Corporal".

Thomas M. Mills, department commander of West Virginia, declares he is a tectotaler himself, "but I believe the canteen is necessary both in the army and the homes."

Charles A. Suydam, assistant adjutant general of Pennsylvania, writing from Philadelphia, say: "I have always been of the opinion that the abolition of the canteen from army posts

Philip S. Chase, assistant adjutant general of Rhode Island; W. H. Kimball, department commander of Georgia, and Frank P. Sterling, assistant adjutant general of Montana, are among the others who favor the restoration of the canteen.

PEASANTS BEAT

Count Witte. M. Iswolsky is now assistant minister of education.

The Rossia, Premier Stolypin's organ, explaining today the failure of Count Heyden and others to enter the cabinet, says that the emperor does not recog-nize the principle of the responsibility of the ministry, and therefore declines to permit candidates for portfolios to dictate terms. At the same time the emperor admits the desirability of the co-operation of the non-bureaucratic elements in the inauguration of a policy which will have due regard for the national economic and ethical interests of Premier Means Business.

The real intention of the government when it dissolved the lower house of parliament, as revealed by a member of the cabinet, shows that Premier Stolypin at least intends to pursue and hold an affirmative policy amounting virtually to a determination on the part of the administration to settle the agrarian question according to its own lights, and irrespective of parliament, and then go to the country on this issue.

The government expects to rally not only the landed interests but the mass off the country to its side by actually giving the latter some immediate relief, instead of merely holding out hopes of more advantageous settlement in the indefinite future, which has been the stock in trade of many reformers.

Politically this move may prove very strong one. The actual bestowal of land, even if in smaller quantities than expected, and the division of the com-munistic holdings will, it is believed, make the peasantry disinclined to vote for candidates to the lower house who might propose a totally different solution to the question.

But above all, individual possession the government calculates, will incul-cate that very respect for property the lack of which, under the system of communistic holdings, has made many peasants such easy converts to the the ory of the nationalization of land.

The crux of the question is its financial aspect. It will be a herculean operation to find the funds required.

HAS CZAR ABDICATED?

Rumor Says He Has Given Way to Bureaucrats.

London, Aug. 8.—The Chronicle cor-espondent at Vienna says the rumor of the abdication of the czar is persistently recurring. It is said that in a conference under the presidency of the czar on Friday, Stolypin proposed a series of measures likely to satisfy the revolutionary party.

The czar sided with Stolypin, but the reactionary members of the cabinet violently opposed, whereupon his majesty declared that he must resign and confer the regency on the grand dukes Vladimir and Nicholas Nicolaivitch. Grand Duke Vladimir has been staying at Meiningen. He has been recalled and is on his way home. Attempts are being made to induce the czar to change his mind.

A slump in value at this time, which is feared will come, would cause much suffering and loss to owners. It has been learned that loans have been made on houses in that subdivision up to within 80 per cent of the top-notch value. The cash came from the savines of depositors of the suspended ings of depositors of the suspended bank.

Depositors Haunt Wreck.

Scores of houses were constructed in the subdivision, which were declared at the time to be too expensive for the character of the section. Loan houses were told at the time that if they did not care to take the security Paul O. Stensland stood ready to furnish the money, and at a low rate of interest. Today a woebegone crowd of depositors continued to crowd around the bank. As on previous days, the unfortunates, mostly working people, came early and seemed determined to remain indefinitely. Police were on hand to repress any tendency toward disorder.

"Dummies" Used?

Information about the long list of forgeries—with detailed corroboration —was obtained late yesterday afternoon from a source of unimpeachable authority. The informant saw the memorandum of forgeries, memorandum notes and other fictitious paper which the fugitive president and cashier left behind them.

The thefts consist of nearly 200 items, ranging from $1,000 to $15,000 each. The names forged are those of directors and stockholders in the bank and of persons associated with Stensland in other business ventures. Some dummy names are there, too.

Vicepresident Arrested.

This discrepancy alone will mean the loss to each depositor of one-fourth of his savings. It is furthermore feared that Stensland may have taken with him in his flight a large supply of the bank's cash.

Theodore Stensland, vicepresident of the defunct Milwaukee Avenue State bank, and son of Paul O. Stensland, the fugitive head of the institution, for whose arrest a warrant has been issued, has been arrested.

Sister Flees.

Following the arrest of the vicepresident search was begun for his sister, Mrs. Inga Stensland Sandberg, who, it is believed, can throw some light on the mystery of her father's whereabouts. Up to today she was an instructor in the musical department of the University of Wisconsin at Madison, but when her whereabouts became known she left. That the shortage in the defunct institution's assets is growing hourly is indicated by the action of State Bank Examiner C. C. Jones in securing a warrant for the arrest of President Paul Stensland. 4 DROWNED; ANOTHER LIFE IN THE BALANCE

Beloit, Wis., Aug. 8.—Beloit college circles are moved by the death by drowning yesterday in Lake Geneva of Miss Ruth MacCumber, aged 25, prominent in the musical gatherings of the city and a student last year at Obern conservatory. Henry D. Smith, a graduate of Beloit college, endeavored to rescue her and both were drawn under the surface and seemed dead when taken out. Smith was partially resuscitated, but he still is unconscious and may not survive.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., Aug. 8.—Gustaf Lovigne, 6 years old, son of Joseph Le-vigne, was drowned in the Chippewa Janesville, Wis., Aug. 8.—Edward Knight, 12 years old, was drowned in the river here yesterday.

Black River Falls, Wis., Aug. 8.—William Beresford, a young farmer living near Millston, was drowned by the collapse of a bridge over which he was driving.

SEVENTY BODIES IN WRECKED SHIP SIRIO

Cartagena, Aug. 8.—A diver assisting in the salvage of the wrecked Italian steamer Sirio, says he saw seventy bodies in the interior of the vessel. He made an unsuccessful attempt to raise the safe of the steamer. The steamer is wedged between two rocks and is listed 45 degrees to starboard. Subscriptions for the relief of the Subscriptions for the relief of the destitute survivors have reached $28,000. Theaters everywhere are giving benefits in behalf of the fund.

London, Aug. 8.—Boniface Nattar, Lord Abbot of St. Marys Abboy, Buck-fastleigh, Devonshire, and another prelate belonging to the abbey, were on board the wrecked steamer Sirio. As nothing has been heard of them, all hopes that they escaped have been given up.

Toronto, Ont., Aug. 8.—Charged with embezzlement of $125,000 from a Pittsburg bank, Clinton B. Wray was arrested here with 60 cents in his pock-burg bank, Clinton B. Wray was arrested here with 60 cents in his pockets.

"I gambled it all away," was his only answer to a query as to where the fortune had gone.

"How much money am I supposed to have taken?" Wray asked.

"Well, it's said you got about $200,000."

"No, that's wrong. I got only $125,-000."

"Oh, I gambled it away. I was dealing in stocks and other things, and I haven't got a dollar of it left now." Miss Grace Loughry was brought in, having been located in a Victoria street lodging house by Detectives Mackie and Twigg. She told the same story as Wray did. She is a pretty young woman, and came from Kittaning, Pa. She said she had known Wray for the last two years and had lived with him recently as his common-law wife. She had $73 in American money on her when arrested, and she acknowledged Wray had given this to her.

Besides 60 cents, Wray had about twenty pawn tickets when arrested. On his left hand he had a "phony" diamond ring the stone in which, weighed three or four karats.

Wray was very downcast when arrested and appears as if he had just about got to the end of his resources. There was a sleepless red look about his eyes which showed his recent fugitive life had had its effect on his nerves. His clothes were fashionably cut, but rather dilapidated and appeared as if they had had but little care or attention lately.
