ALL HAVE PRAISE FOR RELIEF WORK

Clara Barton Says No Better Service Is Possible Than Given in Parade.

"As fine an exhibition of forethought and as well executed a system as I should want to see," declares Miss Clara Barton, former president of the Red Cross and present president of the organization of the National First Aid Association of America.

Miss Barton sat with Corporal Tanner and Archbishop Ireland in the reviewing stand yesterday afternoon, and therefore had an exceptional opportunity to see the working of the Minneapolis relief work in the G. A. R. parade of yesterday.

It is a splendid testimonial to the far-sightedness and executive ability of those in charge of encampment arrangements to see how the marching veterans were cared for during the parade. They were especially tired when they came by the reviewing stand, and it meant a great deal to a student of field work to see the Sons of Veterans, the militia boys and the policemen passing water and lemons.

The auto-ambulance feature also had very much to recommend it. "I am sure that everyone who has participated in the encampment has nothing but the most enthusiastic praise, not only for the manner in which marcher and spectator were protected and watched over during the parade yesterday, but to the committee in charge of the present occasion which has met the visitor to this annual encampment of the G. A. R."

Impressed Veterans Most. The efficient Red Cross service seems to have impressed the marching veterans more than anything they have seen here, and on streets, in hotel lobbies and in the hospital corps has been the principal theme of conversation since the great parade.

General John R. King of Maryland, who proceeded Commander Tanner at the head of the Grand Army, voiced the sentiment of the entire veteran organization at the over-present occasion when he said: "The Red Cross service was simply perfect, and the care taken of the veterans throughout the line of march was the most successful feature of the Grand Army has ever seen."

At no other encampment of the Grand Army has an automobile ambulance service been attempted, and the automobile feature aided materially in making the service a success. The machines were run at high speed along the reviewing stand, and the fact that no body was injured by the emergency ambulances was undoubtedly due to two things: the efficiency of the automobile drivers and the work of the police and the national guard in keeping the streets clear.

YEAR'S HOT DAY RECORD AT NOON

Government Mercury at 91—Hot Wave Unlikely Postponed One Day.

Greater hardship and greater mortality would have marked the G. A. R. parade had it been held today instead of yesterday. This is the hottest day in the history of the city.

While the aged survivors of the civil war were making their triumphant progress thru the city yesterday the highest thermometer was 79 degrees at 1 p.m. Today at the same hour the same thermometer registered 91 degrees.

Some merciful impulse must have prompted Old Sol to withhold his rays while the veterans made their slow and steady march over the streets which today are shimmering with the heat. The awful score of heat prostrations and deaths which would have been run up earlier would have been appalling.

Many a veteran who taxed his strength to the utmost and was barely able to totter past the reviewing stand yesterday would have fallen under today's scorching sun.

Today started warm, with a temperature of 75 degrees at 5 a.m. The hourly temperatures, official from 7 a.m. to 1 a.m. were: 6 a.m., 72 degrees; 7 a.m., 73; 8 a.m., 75; 9 a.m., 77; 10 a.m., 81; 11 a.m., 84; 12 m., 89; 1 p.m., 91. The maximum temperature for this day last year was 72 degrees.

Twenty thousand visitors have left Minneapolis since the last file of the great parade passed the reviewing stand yesterday afternoon. Hardly a veteran and but few other visitors boarded an out-going train until after yesterday's big demonstration.

80-FT. LOCKS ARE DEEMED TOO SMALL

COMMERCIAL BODIES PROTEST TO GOVERNMENT ENGINEERS.

Private Firm Constructing Power Dam at Keokuk Proposes Accommodations for River Traffic Which Shippers Believe Wholly Inadequate for Present and Future Commerce.

Shall the possibilities of the Mississippi for navigation be limited to the needs of present traffic, or shall the locks at Keokuk be made large enough to accommodate the vast tonnage that is expected to go by the water route when the river channel has been improved?

The question is one of vital interest to shippers and it is a live issue right now. The government engineers held a hearing at Rock Island Monday on the question of the size of locks to be placed in the new power dam at Keokuk.

The law granting this company right to build and maintain the dam provides that it must furnish accommodations for present and prospective river traffic. It would be an immense expense to build a dam which would not accommodate the needs of present business.

The Keokuk dam is the first one of the kind that interferes with navigation, and the understanding has been that the dam should be an assistance rather than a hindrance. If it is to give no better lock service than the present canal, then the people will not be benefited.

President Wilkinson has called the attention of A. L. Crocker, the Minneapolis member of the association's executive committee. He will lay it before the Commercial club and the Chamber of Commerce for their action.

More than fifty detectives were sent thru the crowds yesterday, and every man who made a suspicious move was taken to headquarters and examined. V. Dale and Thomas O'Neill were arrested by Detectives Lawrence and Shortman, and William Boysworth was taken in by Detective Joseph Rhoades.

The body of an unidentified man was found today in the Mississippi river at the small island near the Soldiers' home, at Minnehaha park.

The men who saw the body floating in the water fastened it with a rope and notified the police of both cities. By some mistake both the Ramsey and Hennepin county morgue keepers started after the body. It was learned later, however, that the body was in Ramsey county and the body will probably be taken to St. Paul.

The body appears to be that of a man about 50 years old.

Frank Lindquist Drops Dead. Frank Lindquist, employed by the S. R. Sikes Rubber company, 915 Washington avenue S., dropped dead while working at one of the machines today.

Other workmen in the place saw him fall and rushed to help him, but death came instantly. The body was removed to the county morgue and then turned over to the family for burial.

Lindquist was 40 years old. He lived with his family at 1713 Central avenue.

POSTMAN IS KILLED ON TROLLEY TRACKS

C. L. Anderson, a substitute mail carrier, was found dying on the street railway right of way east of Hopkins shortly before midnight.

Both the man's legs had been cut off and he had lain on the tracks some time before workmen found him. He was placed on a car and hurried to the Russell hospital, Hennepin avenue and Thirty-first street, but he died just as he was being taken into the building.

The only means of identification was his badge, bearing the number 263. It was identified by persons at the post-office as Anderson's badge.

No one seems to know how the accident occurred, but it is thought that Anderson was clinging to the back of one of the crowded cars and fell off. Stunned by the fall, he was unable to get up and another car ran over him. The body was taken to the county morgue and today was turned over to the relatives.

RAILROADS SCORED ON THE COMPROMISE

Governor Johnson Directs Railway Commission to Order Reduction of Grain Rates and to Proceed With Merchandise Hearing.

Governor J. A. Johnson, in a communication today to the state railway and warehouse commissioners, calls upon them to insist that the railroads immediately grant the 10 per cent reduction offered on grain rates in order that farmers may benefit by it for this fall's crop.

TOO GREAT HEAT FOR SOME VETS

SEVERAL EXHAUSTED MEN OCCUPY HOSPITAL COTS TODAY

No Very Serious Cases Noted Yet—People Injured or Exhausted Yesterday Have Recovered or Are on the Road There.

Intense heat and the excitement of the encampment compelled several of the veterans to retire from the field for a time today.

The most serious cases, however, were as they dropped, hurried to the emergency hospitals, where they were soon revived. There were very serious cases, but many of the cots were occupied.

J. M. Lowell of Forest City, Iowa, was found wandering about the street at 4 o'clock this morning. He had been in the hospital since the previous day and was taken to the emergency hospital. He was revived in a few hours' rest and was able to rejoin his comrades.

Thomas H. Wulbur of Pittsburgh, Pa., was overcome with heat and was taken to the hospital in an auto. His case was more serious than the others, but he will recover.

T. B. Rockefeller, Laurel, Ind., became exhausted while walking with his comrades and was taken to the emergency hospital. He was revived in a few hours' rest and was able to rejoin his comrades.

E. B. Mora of Chicago slipped on the West hotel steps and fell to the sidewalk, injuring his leg. He was taken to his room, where he will be confined for a few days.

Several men went to the hospitals this forenoon and asked permission to lie down for a few moments until they regained their strength. This permission was granted in every case and many a veteran was strengthened in this way.

Of the fifty or more persons who were injured or fell exhausted during the great jam on the downtown streets during the G. A. R. parade yesterday all but two or three have completely recovered and the others are improving rapidly.

Early today the physicians and attendants at the ten emergency hospitals were able to take their first rest. Up to 9 o'clock there was not a patient in either hospital. Some of the men and women who were overcome with heat or exhausted were kept in the wards all night and discharged early today. Many of the Red Cross men themselves are in worse condition as a result of their strenuous work for the past three days than the majority of the persons they cared for.

Those who were painfully injured will probably leave the hospitals today. E. T. Steckel of Atlanta, Ind., is recovering from convulsion at the city hospital.

Mrs. Ryan, who fainted at the Orleans hotel and fell against the stove, is reported out of danger.

One man who was stabbed in the eye with a pipestem in the hands of a drunken man, is at St. Barnabas hospital. The physicians now think they can save his sight.

U. V. U. ANGRY OVER WIRZ MONUMENT

RESOLUTIONS PASSED CALLING ON THE PRESIDENT TO ACT

Proposed Action by Daughters of the Confederacy Is Titled Treason—Organization Also Passes Resolution Favoring the Post Canteen—Joint Meeting Held With Auxiliary.

A resolution favoring the canteen at soldiers' homes was passed at today's session of the Union Veterans' Union at A. O. U. W. hall, 17 Seventh street. There was a lively fight first, in which the delegation from Maine put up the principal opposition. The final vote was 96 to 7.

The resolutions are addressed to congress and ask that the law which withdraws federal aid from all institutions which support a canteen be repealed at once. The law does not go into effect until March 7. The appeal was made in the cause of temperance and with the feeling that homes for veterans should not be classed as penal institutions.

Seathing condemnation for the Daughters of the Confederacy, in the Wirz monument affair, was embodied in a resolution introduced by James D. Wood of St. Paul and carried without opposition.

PICKPOCKETS SECURE CASH FROM VISITORS

In spite of the immense crowds on the streets yesterday the pickpockets had a quiet day, and few losses were reported to the police.

F. O. Stebbins, Covington, Ill., was robbed of his pocketbook on Sixth street, near Nicollet. It contained papers and about $80 in cash.

Mrs. E. H. West, 47 Eighth street S., lost $11 on Nicollet avenue.

Mrs. Hannah Smith of Sherbourne, N. Y., told the police that her handbag, containing $15, had been taken from her on Como street.

More than fifty detectives were sent thru the crowds yesterday, and every man who made a suspicious move was taken to headquarters and examined. V. Dale and Thomas O'Neill were arrested by Detectives Lawrence and Shortman, and William Boysworth was taken in by Detective Joseph Rhoades.

The body of an unidentified man was found today in the Mississippi river at the small island near the Soldiers' home, at Minnehaha park.

THREE SUMMONED BY DEATH'S CALL

One Heat Prostration and Two Sudden Deaths Keep the Coroner Busy.

One sudden death and the finding of two dead bodies under suspicious circumstances kept the police and coroner on the run today, and detectives are present in the city.

The dead body of Charles A. Foley was found at noon in the basement of Charles E. Erwin's saloon, 100 Hennepin avenue. Investigation showed that death had resulted from a fractured skull and a broken neck, probably sustained in a fall down the stairs leading to the basement.

The dead man was a driver for the Salvation Army for a time, but left the army two weeks ago and has been out of employment since. He is supposed to have started down stairs looking for a place to sleep.

The dead man's home, according to Salvation Army officials, is at 19 Sumner street, Boston, Mass. The coroner is investigating the case.

Unknown Man Drowned. The body of an unidentified man was found today in the Mississippi river at the small island near the Soldiers' home, at Minnehaha park.

The men who saw the body floating in the water fastened it with a rope and notified the police of both cities. By some mistake both the Ramsey and Hennepin county morgue keepers started after the body.
