TRIED AND CONVICTED IN ONE AFTERNOON

In a trial which established a record in criminal court annals, Angus J. Heath was yesterday convicted of the crime of robbery in the first degree. A jury was not summoned until noon, but by daylight the evidence of both defense and prosecution had been introduced and the web had been drawn so tightly around Heath by County Attorney Al J. Smith that the jury had agreed on a verdict before the spectators who had watched the progress of the case had left the courtroom.
Heath, with William McEwan and John Kelly, was charged by the grand jury with the assault and robbery of Martin V. Shaw, an aged man living at 1120 Fourth street N. Heath was the first of the trio to face trial, and had he escaped the penalty of the law under the robbery indictment he would have been charged with burglary under a second indictment returned by the grand jury.
A sentence of not more than forty years or less than five may be imposed upon Heath by Judge Andrew Holt as a result of the conviction.

SUBWAY RAILWAY COMPANY.
Sarah Korsch has sued the St. Paul City Railway company for $3,000 damages. She alleges that on Aug. 12, 1906, she was struck by a car at Fifth and Cedar streets. The car was driven by a man who was thrown to the ground a few feet from the car.

HISTORIC BOER RIFLE OWNED IN MINNEAPOLIS

Taken from the dead hands of Colonel E. P. Bennel of General Cronje's staff after the battle of Paadenburg, recaptured by the Boers and again captured by the British, a Mauser carbine now owned by P. J. Kennedy of Minneapolis is a weapon of great interest. Boer marksmanship was the wonder of the world and was all that enabled the little South African republic to hold Great Britain at bay for three long years of bloody and desperate fighting. Yet this carbine is little larger than the rifle in the hands of a soldier of this country. On its stock are carved a record of the battles in which it was used.

Spion Kop, Redoubt and Cosburg are three of the fields on which it saw service and a death's head carved on the stock hints grimly at the execution it did in the hands of its first owner. It was Colonel Bennel's turn at Paadenburg, and when the British entered the laager where Cronje made his desperate stand, Major Scott Hardin of the South African light horse found the carbine gripped in the dead hand of Colonel Bennel.

Major Harder evidently knew a good weapon when he saw it, for he added the little Mauser to his armament and carried it until he was captured at Diamond Hill in June, 1900. For a while it served a Boer master, but at Eland's Valley, Noodledacht, it fell into the hands of J. Barkly of the New South Wales lancers.

At St. Louis this carbine occupied a prominent place in the Boer exhibit. After the exhibition, Mr. Barkly passed thru Minneapolis on his way west and sold the carbine to Mr. Kennedy, who then carried it to Minneapolis. He refused an offer of $50 for it. What its chief value is for exhibition purposes, it is still in excellent condition.

LUCK AGAINST PAULSON.
Even if A. W. Paulson comes from Luck, Wis., luck does not follow him. He was on his way to the St. Paul station yesterday when a big box fell from a dray and struck him as he was crossing a street. He received a deep gash in the temple and was treated at a neighboring drug store. He was able to proceed to his home by the next train the same day.

INMATES PROVE FATAL.
Michael Maloney, hanged at the government dam Friday by the overturning of a carload of stone, died last night at Cobb hospital, Marshall park. Maloney's skull was fractured, and he also sustained other injuries. He is survived by a wife and three daughters, residing at 2170 Marshall avenue, St. Paul.

ROBBERS' VICTIM IN HOSPITAL.
James O'Hearn of Lidgewood, N. D., was taken to the St. Paul city hospital yesterday with a bullet wound in his left leg. He was held up by a robber a short distance from his town. The robber fired and the robber shot him. As the wound was of a compound nature, he was taken to St. Paul for treatment.

FLOUTS TALES OF MEXICAN REVOLT

T. W. SCOTT SAYS THERE'S MORE EXCITEMENT IN MINNEAPOLIS

Former Minneapolis Man Brands as "Rot" All the Rumors of a Threatened Uprising and Massacre of Americans in the Republic of Diaz.

"All rot," says T. W. Scott, speaking of the rumors of a revolution in Mexico, Mr. Scott is well known in Minneapolis. He was formerly manager of the Humboldt mill. For the last six years he has resided in the city of Mexico, as the manager of several large Mexican mills. At present he is visiting Otto Miller, 824 Logan avenue N.
"How the American papers come to print all this tommy-rot about a revolution in Mexico and massacre of all Americans there passes my understanding," said Mr. Scott. "I can only trace it to a certain paper in St. Louis. The brother-in-law of the editor of this sheet used to be consul in the City of Mexico. He was removed for unseemly conduct at the request of the American residents there. Since then St. Louis has been the storm center of the so-called revolutionary movement.
"I am convinced that the long dispatches telling of war and rumors of war which appear in the American papers are made on this side of the border. All of the Associated Press news from Mexico comes thru the Mexican Herald, an English paper published in Mexico by two former Minneapolisians, J. C. Simmons and James Robinson. They are not boosting this revolutionary talk any and I am confident that they would not send out the wild reports lately printed here.

Diaz Is the State.
"Diaz is the Mexican government and Diaz is friendly to the Americans. He is a revolutionist of the good sort, the way he has ever seen. He is the creator of the Mexican republic. There is no chance of a revolution against him, except on paper. Back of him are the people of the country, the American financial interests, and the rurales, the picked men of Mexico, are absolutely devoted to him.
"No soldiers in the world are better equipped for the moment than these 5,000 soldiers who have been recruited from the cream of the young manhood of Mexico. No soldiers can ride better or fight more bravely. And these men are entirely devoted to Diaz. They form a sort of mounted police, similar to that of Canada. Contrary to the usual idea of the Mexican, they are all strapping big fellows, and they are all Americans. Do you think that American capital would pour into Mexico as it has, were not everything safe? It is estimated that $500,000,000 of American capital is invested in Mexico, against $350,000,000 of European capital.
"Americans in Mexico.

"In Mexico City there is an American colony. Through it 14,000 rich men spend $30,000 on its last Fourth of July celebration. Where four years ago there was hardly an English-speaking clerk in Mexico, now it is hard to find a shop where they do not speak at least English, and perhaps French and German. A Minneapolis man is running an American saloon in Mexico City, which he calls the White House. American capitalists are putting in an American department store. The whole country is feeling the touch of American energy.
"A New York syndicate has bought Popocatepetl, the extinct volcano, for $3,000,000 and will exploit its sulphur deposits."

"The few disturbances that have been reported are nothing but isolated labor troubles or the occasional quarrel which breaks out in all mining camps. There is no national significance in them. Some of the Americans who have been killed brought it on themselves by their treatment of the peons.
"No Danger of Revolution.
"I wish that people would get out of their heads the idea that Mexico is a wild, rough country, in danger of a revolution, and that such a thing as a massacre of Americans is possible. Diaz holds the country with a strong hand, and when he lays down the reins, Limatour, the man who put Mexico on a gold basis, is ready to take them up. The Mexican people have repeatedly re-elected Diaz; they have learned in their state election what it means to them to have a man in power whom they will never substitute revolution for election.
"Revolution—rot! There is more excitement in Minneapolis over to-day's election than there is in all Mexico over this so-called revolution."

HOTEL MAN IN TROUBLE
Landlord of Globe Faces Charge of Running Disorderly Place.

E. A. Lowe, proprietor of the Globe hotel, 206 Washington avenue S., was arraigned in police court yesterday charged with keeping a disorderly house. He pleaded not guilty and his case was continued until Sept. 21.

J. H. Redburn, clerk at the hotel, is now serving a sentence at the workhouse for selling liquor in the place without a license. His arrest and conviction made the police suspicious, and a further investigation was ordered.

A young woman was reported missing from her room in South Minneapolis, and on searching the hotel, the police say she was found there. Sergeant James McElligott, who had charge of the investigation, arrested Lowe.

PROPERTY DONATED TO ENLARGE PARADE

PARK BOARD GIVEN DEEDS VALUED AT $50,000.

Public-Spirited Citizens Help City to Acquire Land Which Will Give New Armory a Setting in Keeping With Character of Building and Neighborhood.

Thomas Lowry and a number of his associates have presented to the city another block of land to enlarge the Parade and remove unsightly buildings and objectionable business concerns from what is planned to be one of the most attractive sections of the city. The block in question is the one adjoining the new National Guard armory on the east, facing out Lyndale avenue, Kenwood parkway and Vinland place.
It is now occupied by a livery stable and several frame houses. The block with improvements cost the donors about $50,000 and is recognized by the park commissioners as a most valuable gift, as it gives the board control of a valuable bit of land, removes a number of unsightly buildings and gives the armory a handsome setting. The deeds were accepted yesterday and the thanks of the board extended to the donors.
The donors are as follows: Thomas Lowry, W. H. Dunwoody, Clinton Morrison, C. J. Martin, T. B. Janney, J. B. Gilliland, E. Mapes, E. Pennington, M. B. Koon, L. A. Harris, S. T. McKnight, T. H. Shevlin, C. A. Smith, W. C. Edgar, Wymann-Partridge & Co., H. L. Little, C. W. Gardner, James S. Bell, J. D. McMillan, F. E. Kenaston and F. M. Prince.

Music for Parks
J. E. Meyers appeared before the board to argue for more music in the parks, and suggested that regular concerts be given in Fairview, Logan, Riverside and other neighborhood parks. He called attention to the fact that the Lake Harriet concerts were showing big deficits every year, amounting in some years to thousands of dollars. With this amount alone a series of concerts by local bands could be given in all parts of the city. The matter was referred to the committee on privileges and amusements.

Minnehaha will probably retain its manager, but if so, the animals will have larger and more comfortable quarters. At a meeting of the committee on improvements yesterday, the park commissioners expressed a desire to enlarge the inclosure, rather than to abolish it as has been suggested. Just how much can be done to further this plan is not known, but at any rate the animals now in possession of the board will have proper accommodations next year.

SKULL CRACKED BY ELEVATOR.
Frank Handrick, 421 N. DeSoto street, St. Paul, employed in the Benz building, Jackson street near Sixth, was struck in the head yesterday by a descending elevator and sustained a depressed fracture of the skull. He was taken to the St. Paul city hospital in an unconscious condition. He will probably recover.
