Concerning the Sale of "Printzess" Coats

Handsome Day and Evening Coats, Actual Values to $25 and $30, at $19.50

NOTWITHSTANDING the very complete and extensive preparations made for this selling event, we feel that an apology is due many of our patrons who were unable to secure the particular coloring of garment which they most desired, owing to the heavy demand which early exhausted the supply on hand of one or two certain colors.

However, we wish to assure everyone that with these very few exceptions, there is still to be found a generous assortment of garments in the blacks and nearly all the colors prevailing at the beginning of this sale.

There is a full complement of sizes, as well as an unbroken assortment of the various mentioned models.

There is certainly great satisfaction in the knowledge that one is both well dressed and becomingly dressed. Some wise person has said that knowing this, "gives poise, self-possession and grace of manner," and we will not dispute it, for we believe it. Those who wear "Printzess" garments know their true value. The materials of which they are made are the best, the trimming effects most pleasing, the models absolutely correct, the workmanship faultless.

They come in the long, dressy, full length styles and are made of fine broadcloth and lined throughout with satin. Sleeves are full and tucked into braided turned back cuffs. There are beautiful trimmings of velvet and silk braid, fancy yokes, back and front, and plaited effects most pleasing. Some have standup velvet braided collars, while others have collarless neck outlined with scalloped velvet and trimmed with soutache and wide braid. Many have velvet cuffs trimmed to match neck.

Each model is expressive and distinctive, quite the most alluring offerings we have made in many a long day, if indeed we have in the past, equaled them.

COLT SAVES A FARMER

Peterman Would Have Burned to Death in Car, but for Animal. Special to The Journal. Brookings, S. D., Oct. 12.—A farmer named Peterman, a former resident of Gettysburg, S. D., while moving to Elroy, Wis., lost by fire his household goods, six fine horses and one cow at this place last night. A freighter containing the property caught fire while Peterman was asleep, and a young colt tramping over him aroused him or he also might have been suffocated. Peterman managed to get the little colt out of the car. He had recently sold his farm near Gettysburg, and sent his family east. He believes his wife secreted $600 in the car rather than take it with her, but is not certain.

EAST SIDE NEWS

THE EAST HIGH ALUMNI FOUND ATHLETIC CLUB

A dozen alumni of the East high school have started a movement to organize an East Side athletic club. Only those who have attended the East high school are to be admitted to membership, and these will be selected on the grounds of good fellowship and athletic ability. The club will obtain quarters in some central location in Southeast Minneapolis and will furnish them with an eye more to comfort than display. Several pieces of apparatus have already been purchased and the rest will be procured as soon as the club is in working order.

Athletics will not be the sole object of the new organization. The founders plan to give several dancing parties throughout the year besides a number of stag dinners and theater parties. Besides these interests, the new club has a broad field of action. Its members are loyal alumni of the East high school and have always been ready to do anything that will help out the "old school." Most of them have represented the school in football or on the track, and some graduates have coached the youngsters when opportunity offered.

Last fall they gave an alumni dinner to the members of the East high school football team, and this, together with other meetings, did wonders in arousing the spirit of East high students. They helped the basketball team and in the spring got out on the cinder path and worked hand in hand with the track squad. The fine showing made by East high in the final meets of the year can, in great measure, be traced directly to this work of the alumni, and all concerned feel that the system should be continued with added vigor this season.

With this broad platform as a foundation for the year's work, the new East Side Athletic club will be launched this evening at the home of Roy Williams, Seventh street SE.

EAST SIDE WHIST CLUB HOLDS FIRST MEETING

The St. Anthony Whist club came into being Wednesday evening in the rooms of the St. Anthony Commercial club. A score of East Side whist players were present and chose George Tennant as the first president of the organization. The plans of the coming year, as outlined by Mr. Tennant, were in brief as follows:

The whist club will meet in the St. Anthony clubrooms every Wednesday evening during the winter. All members of the Commercial club will be invited. Prizes will be given at each meeting to the winning side and a final prize is offered to the member making the best showing thru the season. A club team will be selected to play with other whist clubs of the twin cities, and this will be chosen according to the record of the club members during the next few weeks.

Two sides were chosen Wednesday evening, and these were termed "North and South" and "East and West" teams. The latter team won the evening's play by ten points. The score: "North and South," Smith and Laird, 100; Dods and Beyl, 91; Schade and Williams, 99; Tennant and Cedarstrom, 108; average, 99. "East and West," Copeland and Freeman, 108; Platt and Washburn, 117; Conroy and Donahue, 109; Fox and Nichols, 102; average, 109.
