'MAN WHO SHOTS' MAY BE IN CUSTODY

SMALL COLORED MAN HOLDS UP SHOE DEALER.

Crime Is Committed in St. Paul, and Victim, The Wounded, Chases Assassin from Store and Arrest Soon Follows—Police Try to Connect Him with Gardot Shooting.

Is Luther Delaney Johnson, colored, arrested in St. Paul last night after holding up and shooting John M. Horish, a shoe dealer, in his store at 377 West Seventh street, the man who shot Joseph Gardot and who is responsible for a series of daring Minneapolis holdups?

The police of both Minneapolis and St. Paul are endeavoring to find an answer to this question and it is possible that Johnson will be brought back to Minneapolis to answer as "the man who shoots."

At 6 o'clock last evening Johnson entered the Horish shoe store and, according to the story of the proprietor, after buying two pairs of shoes, commanded Mr. Horish to hold up his hands. When the demand was not complied with, Johnson opened fire, wounding Mr. Horish in the left hand. He ran into the street and was arrested by Sergeant Murnane of the St. Paul force, who found him lurking in a shed near the scene of his crime.

Answers Description.

Johnson is a small man and in every respect, with the exception of clothes, answers the description of the "man who shoots." He told the St. Paul police that he had been working at the West hotel billiard room from 6 o'clock to midnight every night, and it was at first thought that that fact would enable him to prove an alibi in the Gardot shooting.

Further investigation shows that, although he was working in the billiard room at the time, he entered upon the employment after the Gardot shooting had taken place. In case Johnson can not be incriminated in the series of Minneapolis crimes, he will face a serious charge in St. Paul, for Horish, his victim, is in the city hospital, and it is thought that the amputation of two of his fingers will be necessary.

WRANGLE OVER FRANCHISE

St. Paul Council Unable to Determine Merits of New Utility Permit.

The St. Paul city council as committee of the whole, listened to arguments last night for and against the granting of a franchise for the Northern Heating and Electric company, and after heated discussions adjourned till next Wednesday, so all who are interested in the new company's franchise may be given a hearing before final action is taken.

The chief actors of last evening were James Manahan, attorney for the St. Paul Commercial club, Thomas McDermott, attorney for the company, and Alderman Hebl. Mr. Manahan made a long address advocating municipal rate and purchase clauses in the new ordinance. Mr. Manahan said that under the proposed ordinance the new company could not be made to give service in the ninth ward for eighteen years.

Mr. McDermott objected to these statements and a clash of words between attorneys followed. Alderman Hebl objected to Mr. Manahan being allowed the floor, but was overruled.

VIKINGS HOLD RALLY

South Side Auxiliary of the League Has Rousing Meeting.

A rousing republican rally was held last night in the advent ward at Thorsen's hall, 801 Cedar avenue, under the direction of the South Side auxiliary of the Viking league. United and vigorous support of the entire republican ticket was the keynote of every address. Frank M. Joyce, the public congressional candidate who is standing squarely on a Roosevelt support doctrine, delivered a powerful address. He called attention to the weakness of the democracy and its lack of a fixed purpose. He further urged the importance of united action in the coming presidential election.

Other speakers were Judge A. M. Harrison, candidate for the district bench; Manley L. Fossett, candidate for state senator; W. I. Nolan and Swan Nelson, the candidates for the house, and J. W. Williams, candidate for county commissioner. Israel Bergstrom spoke in behalf of Mayor Jones.

DEMOCRATS MAKE SOME BIG CLAIMS

STATE COMMITTEE MEETS TO COMPARE NOTES TODAY.

Situation Just Before Election Canceled by Counties—Johnson Appointee Claims the Seventh District by 2,000—Closing Campaign Dates.

About fifty of the ninety members of the democratic state central committee reported this afternoon, when the final pre-election meeting of the committee was called to order in St. Paul, at 1 p. m. The meeting of the committee was strictly executive, and each member present reported on conditions in his county. Judging by the statements made before the meeting, the general tone of the reports was cheerful and optimistic.

J. A. McDermott, state oil inspector and executive committeeman from the seventh district, predicts a 2,000 majority for Johnson in that district, which Dunn carried two years ago by about 200. He says Johnson will lead in every county of the district. "I have just come in from a four days' trip with the governor," he said, "covering the same ground I went over with him two years ago. His meetings this year have been double and treble the size of 1904."

Republican reports from the seventh are quite contradictory to the foregoing. They promise gains for Cole in all but two or three counties of the district, where feeling on account of Jacobson's defeat has not subsided.

Frank A. Day, chairman of the democratic committee, says he considers R. C. Dunn's speech at Milaca last night not so much of an attack on Governor Johnson as on State Auditor Iverson and the republican majority on the state timber board. Therefore it is not so much to the democrats to answer the charges made.

Cole's Closing.

A. L. Cole will close a hard week's campaigning tomorrow evening with a speech at Buffalo, where W. B. Douglas will appear with him. He will spend the first two days of next week in the first district speaking Monday night at St. Charles and Tuesday night at Rochester, with Congressman Tawney. The rest of the week will be spent in the twin cities.

The entertainment will be furnished by the Emily Waterman Concert company of Chicago. Miss Emily A. Waterman, the reciter and impersonator, will be assisted by Daisy Eleanor Binkley, coloratura soprano; and Ed Wilson, piano, saxophone and alto soloist, and F. H. Tuttle, flutist. Kenny's orchestra will furnish the music before the entertainment.

During the last three months the corridors of the association building have been repainted. The night school reception and reading rooms have been redecorated and refurnished. Elegant new offices have been added. Extensive improvements have also been made in the gymnasium and locker rooms. The entire building will be open for inspection and friends of the association are invited both to enjoy the program and to inspect the building.

IOWA TEACHERS COMING

Only to See the Schools; No Theaters or Shopping.

Three hundred maiden schoolteachers from Mason City, Iowa, will invade Minneapolis this afternoon, and will come in charge of W. A. Brandenburg, superintendent of schools. It is said that the teachers are coming to give their whole time to studying the school system of Minneapolis and that they will not visit the theaters and will not look at Minneapolis falls or the big stores. The St. Louis road will bring the teachers on the regular Friday morning train and will take them back Sunday night.

Y. M. C. A. AT HOME

The entertainment will be furnished by the Emily Waterman Concert company of Chicago. Miss Emily A. Waterman, the reciter and impersonator, will be assisted by Daisy Eleanor Binkley, coloratura soprano; and Ed Wilson, piano, saxophone and alto soloist, and F. H. Tuttle, flutist. ALUMNI ENJOY BANQUET

Graduates of De La Salle Institute Make Merry Together.

The annual banquet of the De La Salle Alumni association, which was held last evening in the rooms of the St. Anthony Commercial club, was attended by seventy members and an enjoyable evening was spent.

The program consisted of a few remarks by the president, F. J. Williams, and members, John J. Slattery, Peter L. Cunningham, Henry L. Laliberte, Edward G. Gallagher and Delbert Rand. The musical end was upheld by John Meagher, Jr., and the Alumni quartet. After a few turns in high-class vaudeville by the famous Brother Ambrose of St. Paul, the members received some good advice from Rev. F. Moran on "Character Building." The finale was participated in by all members singing "Auld Lang Syne."

CAN DUZZE HEADS COMMITTEE.

C. M. Benham, who was first president of St. Paul Citizens' league, originally known as the "committee of fifty," has resigned from the presidency. Judge E. V. Brown, T. O. HAYNES HAS COIN FOR BANG-BANG MAN

SAYS HE'LL GIVE UP IF THEY MEET.

Statement Made at the Seventh Ward Wigwam Where Mayor Jones Received a Warm Indorsement from One of the Democratic Speakers Who Was Attacking Vaughan.

Mayor Jones was praised and condemned by democratic speakers at the seventh ward meeting last night. Before the assembled democracy of the seventh ward in the Seventh Ward wigwam, Harry Lund, the silver-tongued orator of the South Side democracy, supporting the candidacy of T. O. Dahl for alderman of the ward, attacked the record of Alderman Vaughan on the matter of the Patterson street light contracts. In doing it he took occasion to praise Mayor Jones and Alderman Wendell Herzig of the fifth ward for their efficient work in the interests of citizens and taxpayers by forcing a reduction in the bid of the Patterson company. Both were cited as examples of model public servants.

James C. Haynes, the democratic candidate for mayor, continued the attack on Alderman Vaughan, praising Mr. Dahl as the best candidate, but taking opposite stand to Mr. Lund in his remarks concerning Mayor Jones. Mr. Haynes did not allude to the business reforms and the good business showing made by the Jones administration, but continued his policy of attacking the police department and referring to what he has called "the carnival of crime."
