

EASTERN MILLERS' PLAINT ANSWERED

Statement That They Don't Like Duluth Inspection Based on Black Rust Crop.

Duluth, Nov. 30.—In the grain inspection controversy between Duluth and Superior much importance is being attached to the attitude of eastern millers. The Superior people submitted to the interstate commerce commission several letters from eastern millers expressing dissatisfaction with the grain received from Duluth shippers. That some millers have written such letters is not to be questioned, but an analysis of the complaints shows that in almost every case they arose out of shipments from the crop of 1904. That was the black rust year when good wheat was so scarce, and the sample tables were littered with wheat of little better grade than chicken feed. The miller, of course, got a poorer quality of wheat from the northwest than he had been accustomed to, but it was due to the poor average of the crop. Some of the big millers made not a word of complaint. They recognized the northwest's plight and made the best of the situation. This year all is changed. The crop was of a very high average. No. 1 hard wheat, which was almost disappearing from the market, jumped to large receipts and was sold in cargo lots instead of dribbles. No. 1 northern and No. 2 northern were plentiful, while No. 3, No. 4, rejected and no grade were scarce, but a few cars a day appearing in the sales. As a result the eastern miller has been tickled for full shipment. The Duluth shipper in turn had bought the wheat from the country. When the time came for the country shipper to deliver he could not get enough No. 1 Northern. The eastern millers were advised to take No. 2 at a fair difference. They refused, demanding what the contract called for. The trade bought good and poor wheat and by mixing created No. 1 northern that would barely pass the inspection.

SENATORS BY DIRECT VOTE

Des Moines Convention Next Week Will Forward the Movement.

Des Moines, Nov. 30.—Des Moines is making elaborate preparations for the entertainment next week of the United States senatorial convention. More than 150 delegates from over thirty states will be in attendance to discuss the matter of an amendment to the constitution providing for the election of United States senators by direct vote of the people. New York will not be represented, but New Jersey is the latest state to accept the invitation and name delegates. Governor A. B. Cummins will preside over the temporary meeting. Thirty states are enough to compel congress to submit an amendment to the states for their approval, and thirty-four are enough to ratify such an amendment and effect its adoption.

ROOSEVELT CAN PUT END TO WAR

French Speaker Says American President Can Bring About Limited Armaments.

Paris, Nov. 30.—Ambassador McCormick presided at the Thanksgiving dinner of the American colony in Paris. A notable speech was made by Baron d'Estournelles de Constant, who made reference to the present growing demand for a limitation of the enormous armaments now weighing down the countries of Europe and the timidity of the powers to take the initiative in this direction. The speaker declared that this initiative naturally fell to America. After a warm eulogy of President Roosevelt, comparisons of what might have been which brought his hearers to their feet, the baron declared that if President Roosevelt had the courage to submit a clear proposition along these lines to the Hague tribunal, France, Great Britain and Italy would support him, and that even Germany, contrary to the popular belief, would welcome the proposal. While the next Hague conference might not bear this fruit, the speaker predicted that five years would see a limitation of armaments and the world on the high road to a realization of the dream of arbitration as a substitute for the horrors of war.

Dinner in London. London, Nov. 30.—The members of the American society with their ladies and guests, to the number of upwards of 500, gathered last night at the Hotel Cecil for the annual Thanksgiving dinner of the society. Ambassador Reid, Robert J. Wynne, the American consul general, the embassy staff and the head masters of England's great public schools were among the guests of the evening. John Morgan Richards, father of the late Mrs. Craigie, presided.

Roosevelt Highly Praised. After the toast to King Edward had been honored, Rev. Edward Littleton, head master of Eton, proposed the health of President Roosevelt in an eloquent speech. He declared President Roosevelt to be the most important figure in civilization today.

FIFTH GOSPEL IS FOUND IN EGYPT

Religious Documents of Highest Value Uncovered—New Speech by Demosthenes.

London, Nov. 30.—Religious relics and documents of great value from a religious standpoint, relating to Jesus and the New Testament, have been brought to light in Egypt. The report of discoveries in the ancient city of Oxyrhynchus, soon to be published it is stated, will cause a sensation among theologians throughout the Christian world. The most important find is a fragment of a new gospel containing forty-five lines, written on vellum, describing a visit of Jesus and His disciples to the temple in Jerusalem. A pharisee rebukes Jesus for not performing the purification ceremony and describes at length the ceremony he had performed. Whereupon Jesus delivers an eloquent reply, contrasting outward and inward purity. The style is picturesque and vigorous and the phraseology contains several words not in the New Testament. Minute knowledge of the purification ceremony is shown. Other finds include an unknown version of The Acts and the gospel of St. John, and a vellum leaf written in the fourth or fifth century of the lost Greek books of The Acts, and St. Peter's gospel. Several "profane" documents were also uncovered. Among these are a new speech by Demosthenes, fragments of Plato, fragmentary poems of Sappho and parts of a new history of Greece which differs from Xenophon's history.

GREATEST ACHIEVEMENT

The Story of Medicine's Greatest Feat in the Last Decade.

William Thomas Councilman, professor of pathology at Harvard, was recently asked, "What is the greatest achievement in medicine during the last decade?" Professor Councilman finds no difficulty in answering the question in the Sunday Magazine of next Sunday's Journal. It is the story of Dr. Walter Reed and a few other American heroes who took their lives in their hands in 1900 to prove that yellow fever could be transmitted only by the bite of a mosquito. Professor Councilman points out how scant is the reward for a scientist who accomplishes any great feat in behalf of suffering humanity. Dr. Reed died of appendicitis in 1902, and on his tomb is inscribed—none has a prouder inscription—"He gave to man control over that dreadful scourge, yellow fever." The United States has allowed his widow a very modest pension. An effort has been made to raise $25,000 for the use of his widow and daughter during their lives and to be ultimately used for further research in his special field. It has thus far amounted to only about $17,000. Such service for humanity brings little or no pecuniary reward.

DECORAH WOMEN SCORE OFFICIALS

Mayor and Other Officers Called Upon the Carpet for Sunday Shortcomings.

Decorah, Iowa, Nov. 30.—Denouncing the city officials for failing in the protection of citizens and asserting that criminals have been permitted to escape justice, the women of Decorah, in mass meeting, passed resolutions demanding that action be taken. The city officials were called upon the carpet, and, it is said, practically admitted the truth of the charges brought against them by the women. One case is alleged to have shown that a criminal guilty of a brutal assault had been given three hours to get out of town, instead of being prosecuted. Another case cited was that of a circus which ran a show "for men only," and continued its performances until forced out of town by the angry women. Mayor Daubnev, when questioned, expressed surprise at the alleged derelictions of his officers, and seemed astonished when told that crime was rampant in the city. He admitted that he had given one person three hours to leave town, but said he did so in order to save the reputation of the child the man had assaulted. Blacking was invented in Naples in the sixteenth century.
