Mr. and Mrs. George W. Peavey, Mr. and Mrs. Frank T. Hoffmeyer and Mr. and Mrs. Frederick B. Wells will issue invitations this week for one of the most brilliant holiday affairs of the season. The guests will be invited to a fancy dress ball at Highecroft, on the evening of Friday, Dec. 28. Former entertainments at Highecroft, the Peavey's fine country home at Ferndale, near Wauzata, have never been forgotten for the beauty of their appointments, and society is assured of a delightful affair. A special train will leave the city at 8 o'clock and will leave Ferndale at 11 o'clock for the return to Minneapolis.

In addition to the fancy dress party, Mr. and Mrs. Peavey, Mr. and Mrs. Wells, Mr. and Mrs. Hoffmeyer will give a house party which will fill out the week-end days from Friday to Monday. They will have about forty guests, and the yuletide cheer and happiness that will radiate from beautiful Highecroft will find no equal. Saturday after the ball there will be an informal dinner and tobogganing parties, iceboating, and skating will have a part in the program of country frolics.

Fair Oaks, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Washburn's stately residence, is to be the scene of a beautiful New Year's reception and ball, Monday evening, Dec. 31. Mr. and Mrs. Washburn will issue 500 invitations for the affair. Of all the holiday parties it is to be by far the most brilliant, for the Washburns entertain royally.

Last year, Mr. and Mrs. Washburn were abroad, and on New Year's evening Fair Oaks showed an unwonted appearance, the shutters were down, and the merry ring and laughter of a "Happy New Year" was not heard. Society had come to look upon the Washburn's Christmas party as an important feature of holiday week, and when the absence of the family last year prevented it, there was much disappointment.

Interest in the ball this year is increased by the fact that there is a possibility that Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Washburn will be present and that the family friends will have an opportunity to meet young Mrs. Washburn, who was Alice Langhore of Washington, one of the charming brides of the early winter. Mr. and Mrs. Washburn are at present in North Carolina and will go to Nassau on a trip before coming to Minneapolis.

Mrs. George H. Partridge will give a debutante luncheon tomorrow at her home on Groveland terrace, for the Misses Marjorie and Elizabeth Dunsmoor.

Miss Florence Brazie has issued invitations for a tea to be given for the Misses Dunsmoor Saturday afternoon, Dec. 22. The hours will be from 3 to 5 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Rand are at present in New York and will not be back much before the holidays. They have been spending two weeks at Virginia Hot Springs, where Mr. and Mrs. Allan T. West went for their honeymoon. Mrs. West, it is probable, will come to Minneapolis during the holidays to make a short visit at her childhood home. If she does so, there will be a number of entertainments in her honor.

The savings made possible by these reductions is sufficient to buy two garments for the usual price of one.

MISS FLORENCE GREEN.
A Twin City Girl, Who Made Her Debut in Washington Last Week.

for she was one of the most popular Minneapolis girls, and during the rush of wedding preparations she did not have enough time for the affairs which had been planned for her.

Mrs. Ponsoby Ogle, sister of Mr. and Mrs. Rand and Mr. and Mrs. Rufus B. Rand, will also come to Minneapolis for Christmas and will be the guest of the R. R. Rands at their home on Harmon place. Miss Mary Rand, who is at Bryn Mawr college, will come home with Mrs. Ogle for the holidays.

Society will enjoy an evening of art next Tuesday, when Miss Agnes Harrison of Milwaukee will give a private view in Mr. Bradstreet's Craft house of portraits which she has recently painted. Miss Harrison has been the guest of Miss Kate Ogle for the last two months, and in Miss Moulton's studio she has been busy painting the likenesses of a number of Minneapolis people.

Miss Moulton and Miss Harrison are two Minneapolis society girls who have devoted much of their time to the study of art. When Miss Harrison lived in Milwaukee both were students at the Minneapolis School of Fine Arts, and later Miss Harrison pursued her studies in the east, and Miss Moulton also spent a great deal of time in New York studying. Ever since Miss Harrison came to the Moultons in the fall, the two young women have put in delightful hours in Miss Moulton's studio, which is a typical artist's retreat on the upper floor of the Moor residence on East Twenty-fourth street.

Miss Harrison has painted the portraits of Mrs. J. A. Modisette, Miss Margaret Jackson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anson B. Jackson; Virginia Corse, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Corse; Mrs. Richard Woodworth and W. Scott Woodworth, which she will show in addition to a number of portraits of prominent Milwaukee and eastern people. Wednesday and Thursday Miss Harrison will give a public view of her work in the Craft house.

Miss Harrison is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Harrison, who now reside in Milwaukee. Last summer her engagement was announced to Henry Ware Lincoln of Chicago, and the wedding will take place early in the new year. She will return to Milwaukee about Saturday. Her sister, Miss Florence Harrison, is now in Charleston, Ill., is expected on a visit to Minneapolis later in the winter. She will visit Mrs. Richard Woodworth and other Minneapolis friends.

Mrs. Walter Remington Quick, who will be better remembered by her Minneapolis friends as Mrs. Elue Gardner-Hodgson, daughter of Major and Mrs. John Bigelow, and whose marriage took place in October, has received a cordial welcome in San Francisco. Mrs. Dodge gave a large tea for the bride as soon as she returned from the east, and there were luncheons, teas and dinners of more or less formal nature. Mrs. Quick has visited in California so many times that she has a large circle of friends who were anxious to welcome her when she returned as a bride.

Mrs. W. B. McSorley of Denver, is one of the charming visitors for whom a great deal of entertaining is being done. Mrs. McSorley formerly lived in Minneapolis. She is a sister of her hostess, Mrs. Louis Solem, of 3349 Elliott avenue. She has not been in Minneapolis for several years and her friends make her stay the occasion of a number of delightful affairs.

The craze of wearing Japanese kimonos for evening coats has at last reached Minneapolis, and at the Hostesses' reception and the charity ball, some of the girls wore these striking garments which have been such a fad this season in New York and Washington. One of the young girls had a striking black kimono, gay with pink roses, and another wore a blue one with yellow fleur de lis blossoming all over it. Light in weight, heavily wadded and loose, they make a most comfortable garment to slip on over the evening frock. Don't for a moment think that these are home-made kimonos, not a bit of it. They are the real Japanese article, elaborately embroidered, and many of them were brought from the orient by travelers. They are so novel and handsome that all week the girls have been overwhelming their friends who are planning trips to Japan with requests to bring back kimonos, altho by the time they return the fad may have gone the way of other fads.

Such concerns engage experts to judge how a picture should be framed for best effect, and the large variety of mouldings at their command allows proper work to be done. Therefore when buying pictures for the home, buy FRAMED PICTURES. The price is hardly more than for the unframed picture.
