

VISITORS TO REUNION MET BY TRAVELERS' AID

Large Work Carried On for Protection of Girls Alone on Trains.

MANY GUIDED TO GOOD HOMES

Warning Issued to Those Thinking of Going to Pacific Coast in Hope of Obtaining Employment—Entertainment at Confederate Home.

While every hospitable citizen of Richmond was directing reunion guests to points of historic interest last week, one of the women was working assiduously from morning till night at Main Street Station, co-operating with the Boy Scouts and United Confederate Veterans' reception committee in getting them properly housed.

Miss Earle Beck, wearing the badge of the Travelers' Aid Society, was able to render assistance to nearly 300 of the city's guests in the five days of their sojourn in the Confederate Reunion, looking them in holding places, putting them to rest, and the street leading out for the unprotected girl who needed her attention.

Miss Beck has been connected with the Travelers' Aid work in Richmond for three years as substitute, and since January 1 has been working regularly, eighteen hours a day. Five years of training and service in Baltimore and Massachusetts hospitals, coupled with two years of community life in New York City, is splendid equipment for work that requires every faculty of the mind to be alert and discerning. A comprehensive mind, an understanding sympathy and plain common sense are qualities which Miss Beck brings to her work of meeting psychological moments in the lives of girls and women at Richmond stations. And many suffering travelers have turned to her for nurse's skill to wit, the veteran coming in from a Pullman with a wounded hand, the young mother with a cinder in her eye, the sick child with an indifferent mother.

MOVEMENT GROWING RAPIDLY IN SOUTH

The Travelers' Aid Movement is growing rapidly throughout the South. Lynchburg, Greensboro, Winston-Salem, Wilmington and Asheville now have agents to meet incoming trains and women to be organized a Travelers' Aid Society this week.

The societies on the Pacific Coast are doing a great protective work this year. Hundreds of girls are following the coastwise route to California. They become stranded, are endangered, and many have to be sent back to their homes by the Travelers' Aid boys. Unscrupulous agents, wrong addresses or none at all, disreputable addresses, need of employment, holdups, advertised positions, inability to speak English, friendship sympathy and unassisted railroad or steamship connections, not met as expected, bewilderment, information, illness, hunger, difficulty with baggage, money and guidance are other needs which the Travelers' Aid meets.

The Girls' Friendly Society, the Y. W. C. A., Catholic Society for Benefiting Girls and Hebrew Board of Travelers' Aid, are all co-operating with the Travelers' Aid Society throughout the country in warning girls against the folly of going to the Panama-Pacific Exposition in search of employment. Travelers encountering difficulties in California are advised to look for the woman with a "Gold Star Badge" at railroad stations and docks.

ENTERTAINMENT GIVEN

The regular meeting of the Lee Auxiliary, United Daughters of the Confederacy, was held at the Home for Confederate Women on Wednesday, June 10. After a most interesting business meeting, all of the updates in the home were invited to enjoy a most charming musical program. The concert was arranged by the Misses Emily and Ruth Brown, who will give a delightful addition to Richmond this coming season. Miss Ruth Brown has just completed a four-year course in piano in the New England Conservatory, and is, besides an artist of no mean ability, having studied at the Boston School of Painting and the School of the Art Museum. Miss Emily Brown is a graduate of the Emerson College of Oratory, where she has been trained as a teacher of expression and a platform artist. She is also a most competent and skillful dramatic coach, having produced several plays in Boston that have received the commendation and approval of the leading dramatic critics of New England. The program given the women in the Confederate Home was as follows:

- 1. Waltz—"A la Biene Amie".....Edmond Schmitt
2. "The Reflected Glory".....Myrtle Reed
3. "Romance".....Jean Shelton
4. "At the Ferry".....Jean Shelton
5. A Sketch.....H. B. Hill
