

TRAINING CAMPS WILL BE RUN BY WAR DEPARTMENT

Effort Is Made to Centralize This Form of Preparedness.

LOOKING FOR SUITABLE MEN

Probable That No Encampments on Plan of Plattsburg Will Be Operated This Summer—Substitute Three Months' Intensive Training.

The abolition of all citizens' training camps and the centralization of this form of preparedness in departmental camps conducted directly by the War Department is indicated in advices that have been received by Armistead M. Bobie, president of the Virginia Division, Military Training Camp Association. The information was transmitted yesterday to Alexander Forward, president of the Richmond branch of the association.

"A recent order from the War Department," wrote Mr. Bobie, "has completely changed the scope of our work. Every present indication points to the complete abolition of citizens' training camps, and the War Department will require each applicant for training to obligate himself to remain in training for three months and to accept a commission in the officers' reserve corps afterwards, provided the applicant passes a satisfactory examination. No one will be trained unless he will be at least twenty-one years old at the completion of the training. Applicant cannot pick place of his camp, but must go wherever the War Department orders him."

SEEK SUITABLE MEN TO TRAIN AS OFFICERS

"The work of our division now is to secure the proper type of man in proper numbers to enlist for this training, and the War Department has already asked for our active co-operation in this matter. Further detailed information will be sent to you as soon as it is received here."

Mr. Forward has received numerous applications from young and middle-aged men who desire to take the training course at Plattsburg. It appears now that camps of the Plattsburg type will be abolished, and applicants are being advised to apply to the commander of the Department of the East, Governors Island, N. Y., in accordance with the apparent desire of the War Department. In the circumstances, said Mr. Forward yesterday, it is impossible to say whether the training camp at Plattsburg will be held this year.

The War Department has indicated that the establishment of departmental training camps to fit civilians without any previous military training for commissions, will depend on the number of applications received for such training. The Virginia association will therefore encourage the filing of as many applications as possible in order that early provision may be made by the War Department for this kind of training.

STREET SPEAKERS URGE MEN TO ENLIST

marches, it is expected, will reach Richmond about 11:30 o'clock on Tuesday morning. They will march in body to Capitol Square, where arms will be stacked and the men marched to the Blues' Armory, Sixth and Marshall Streets, and lunch will be served. The committee in charge of this is composed of I. Marcus and Joseph W. Stewart. The visiting officers will be entertained at the Commonwealth Club by a committee made up as follows: E. G. Leigh, Jr., Coleman Wortham, William T. Reed, Levin Joyner and Joseph D. Brady.

The men will be at liberty until 4:20 o'clock, when it is proposed to start the parade from Capitol Square. The line of march has not been definitely determined upon, but will be definitely announced to-morrow. Arrangements, however, are being made with a view of including Boulevard Field in the line of march. Owners of the Richmond club of the International League, which opens its season here on Tuesday, have secured the consent of Governor Stuart to speak, if the marines and bluejackets visit the ballyard

Mayor Ainslie has approved of the plan, and Adjutant-General W. W. Sale, in charge of the parade, is also in favor of it.

BIG RALLY PLANNED FOR CAPITOL SQUARE

The parade will end at Capitol Square, where it is proposed to have an additional band to relieve the musicians who will accompany the sailors, and here will take place a big open-air patriotic meeting, which will be addressed by prominent men and women speakers.

At a meeting of the speaking committee yesterday morning, at which Christopher B. Garnett presided as acting chairman, it was reported that Mrs. B. B. Valentine, president of the Equal Suffrage League of Virginia, has communicated with various members of the league in Richmond and other cities, and has arranged for them to participate in the speaking program. Among those who volunteered to speak in Richmond are Miss Adele Clark, Miss Nora Houston and Mrs. Valentine.

There will be speaking at Sixth and Broad Streets twice daily—at 5 and 8 o'clock. Tuesday will be an exception on account of the parade.

The speaking committee was informed that speeches will be made in their respective communities by Mrs. Stephen Putney, of Mytheville; Mrs. J. H. Whitmer, of Roanoke; Mrs. John H. Lewis, of Lynchburg, and Mrs. C. E. Townsend, of Norfolk.

WILLIAM H. TAYLOR DIES AT HIS HOME

which he remained until the surrender at Appomattox. He was badly wounded in the battle of Gettysburg. Dr. Taylor then returned to Richmond and resumed the practice of medicine. His natural taste and talent for the sciences, however, soon led him to abandon

Requested to Sing Onward, Christian Soldiers

On behalf of the executive committee of the local branch of the Navy League, Kirkwood Mitchell last night issued an appeal to all churches of Richmond to include in their services to-day the stirring march, "Onward, Christian Soldiers," using the well-known music of Sir Arthur Sullivan.

Don the general practice of medicine for the study of chemistry, in which he engaged until his death.

He was engaged until his death.

FILLED OFFICE OF STATE CHEMIST FOR MANY YEARS

When the office of State Chemist of Virginia was established, Dr. Taylor was selected for that position, which he ably filled until the office was abolished in 1906. He was also for a time the official chemist of the State Department of Agriculture.

As an expert chemist he gained a wide reputation, and had occasion to give his opinions in nearly every trial for criminal poisoning which has been held in the State during the past forty-five years. For about twenty years he was a member of the Richmond Board of Health, and had been coroner for the city of Richmond for forty-five years, having been appointed by the late Judge A. B. Guigon in 1872.

Dr. Taylor was a Shakespearean scholar of note, a scientist, philosopher and astronomer. He was a student of great ability, and devoted practically all of his time to his various studies. Possessed of much talent in imparting his generous store of information to others, he taught from time to time in private schools of Richmond. From 1868 he was a lecturer and professor in the Medical College of Virginia, having filled with marked success the chair of chemistry, toxicology and medical jurisprudence; and having served as chairman of the faculty of that well-known institution. He was professor emeritus at the time of his death.

TAUGHT AT HIGH SCHOOL AND WAS AUTHOR OF NOTE

When the Richmond High School was opened, many years ago, he was selected as the teacher of physics and chemistry, and filled that position with peculiar success for a period of some twenty-eight years, till the close of the session in June, 1901.

Dr. Taylor during his life wrote various monographs of scientific value, and was a contributor to many magazines on medical and scientific subjects. He is also the author "The Book of Travels of a Doctor of Physics," published in 1871, soon after his return from Europe, and of "Outlines of Physics," "Outlines of Every-Day Chemistry," "Fundamental Facts and Principles of Chemistry" and "Outlines of Medical Jurisprudence." At one time he was one of the department editors of "The Old Dominion Journal of Medicine and Surgery," and was a prominent member of the Medical Society of Virginia.

Dr. J. M. Whitfield, city chemist, who has been acting coroner during the illness of Dr. Taylor, advised the police last night that he had been instructed to fill the office temporarily until a success is named.

WATERLOO BOY KEROSENE TRACTOR

Does the Work of 8 Horses at the Upkeep Cost of 2 Horses

The fact that the sales of this tractor last year were one-seventh of the entire tractor output of this country, competing with 100 different manufacturers, should be sufficient evidence of what farmers think of this machine.

Tractors are not generally bought without careful investigation. This large sale means that thousands of average sized farmers have found the Waterloo Boy best adapted for use on their farms.

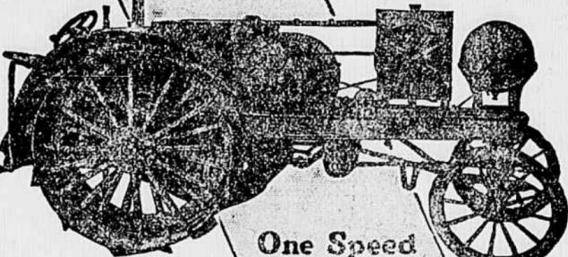

Works 10 hours under full load on 18 gallons or less of cheapest kerosene.
