Members of Board of Pardons Show Mercy.

SHOOTING NEXT FRIDAY

Victim Lynch Tells Story of His Life.

Prisoners Testify to Good Qualities of the Man—How He Saved Guard Jacobs.

Death penalty imposed upon James Lynch, for the murder of Col. Jeffrey W. Prowse in the Sheep Ranch gambling-house, was yesterday continued to life imprisonment by the Board of Pardons.

WEST TO THE PRISON.

Board met in the Supreme court yesterday morning, but upon the objection of Gov. Wells, adjourned to State prison to hear the testimony of the members of the Pardon board.

STORY OF HIS LIFE.

Lynch, the condemned man, was the witness called. He was sworn and told the story of his life. He would not reveal his true identity and said, 'I do not want to know of my friends. If I am shot next Friday I will die without revealing my name.'

HOW JACOBS WAS SAVED.

When asking about the recent jail escape he said he knew nothing about it until his cell door was opened and given his liberty. He said that Major and Waddell, who had guns on Guard Jacobs, that they were not to kill him, but to hold him for it. He further stated that he told Waddell not to use his gun on him.

WHAT OTHERS SAID.

Major testified he had heard Jacobs beating Guard Jacobs, and though he could not see them he heard Lynch's voice commanding them to stop. Abe Majors, who is serving a sentence, and who was armed with a gun on the night of the jail break, had having his gun on Jacobs the time Lynch said he would not shoot him.

BOY WHO CAN SHOOT.

Elmer Hunter, Aged Twelve, Secures the Bounty on a Coyote Shot by Himself.

The youngest hunter to ever receive a bounty certificate from the State of Utah is Elmer Hunter, who appeared in the office of County Clerk James yesterday afternoon and asked for the amount that is offered for killing coyotes.

Elmer lives at Granger, and is only 12 years of age, but he is a little man nevertheless, and knows how to use a gun. He was proud of his coyote pelt for it was a big one. He watched the clerk punch its ears and then took the certificate to State Auditor Tingey to get his warrant.

As he replaced the pelt in the sack in which he carried it he explained that he had shot the animal with a shotgun in a field not far from his home. He said there were two of them, and that he would have killed them both had his gun not failed to work for the second shot.

Chicago, Jan. 2.—Among the hundreds of funerals perhaps none had so many distressing features as those wherein were buried three out of four generations of the family of Benjamin Moore, a grocer.

There had been a family reunion in the Moore household, and Benjamin Moore was surrounded by his children, his grandchildren and his great-grandchildren. Nine members of the family went to the Ironquills to see "Mr. Bluebeard."

Seats were purchased in the last row of the second balcony near the aisle furthest away from the entrance. When the fire and smoke came all but one of the party sat still and were killed.

The eight dead bodies were among those interred today.

DIED ON CHRISTMAS DAY.

Popular Young Salt Lake Railroad Man Will Be Buried Today in Milwaukee.

The remains of the late Herman H. Weissenborn, a well-known railroad man of this city, will be laid to rest today in Forest Home cemetery, Milwaukee.

Mr. Weissenborn, who was 32 years old, was in the employ of the San Pedro railroad the last three years, first as general yard foreman at Buena Vista and later having been promoted to a position in the auditing office in this city.

About three weeks ago he was taken suddenly with pneumonia and died on Christmas day. The sorrowing young wife, after closing up her affairs here, went with the remains to Milwaukee, which was the childhood home of both.

Before coming to Utah the deceased was in the drug business in Chicago, and he left many friends wherever he was known.
