

CLAYTON TRIAL NEARS THE END Arguments Presented to the Jury.

Methods of Conducting Affairs in County Treasurer's Office Criticized.

The defense was willing to join hands with the prosecution and eliminate all but the four prominent persons in the case, said Mr. Irvine.

Mr. Irvine then reviewed at length the record of Mr. Hendricks in office and said: "No wonder he went to Apostle Lyman and wanted him to settle the matter."

He censured the ex-treasurer for the conduct of his official affairs in not making quarterly and annual reports as required by law.

NEW YORK, May 3.—Herr Director Heinrich Corried, guider of the destinies of grand opera in America and producer of "Parsifal," yesterday read his first report to his board of directors, in which he declared that an extra dividend would be paid on the season.

With a simple request that has been monopolized by Utahns, "Don't use my name," the following was handed in for publication.

Oil and Honey. In this land of peace and plenty, One Jay Rockyfellow dwells.

Now distillers, panic-stricken, Fear he'll corner all the corn.

Though death is rapping at his door, He fears not for his fate.

And as he nears the other gate, Where tortured spirits dwell,

And as he sizzles, fries or bakes, And trembles like a bunny,

Millionaire's Stenographer Married Him, but His Sons Break Will Leaving Her the Property.

Boston, Mass., May 3.—That the will of Uriel H. Crocker, a Back Bay millionaire, who married his stenographer, Annie J. Fitz, against the wishes of his family and the advice of his intimate friend, President Charles W. Eliot of Harvard, was procured through fraud and undue influence on the part of his wife was the verdict of a jury in the Supreme Judicial court.

Two issues were considered, one as to undue influence and the other as to the sound mind of testator.

The verdict, if Judge Braley confirms it and throws out the will, does not provide for the disposal at once of the Crocker property. There are prior wills in existence and these are yet to be disposed of.

Mr. Crocker's will involved property appraised at $707,706, left by him when he died, March 8, 1902.

At the trial lawyers testified to the excellence of Mr. Crocker's books.
