

SMALLPOX IN COUNTY JAIL

Two Prisoners Afflicted With Malady.

A. McCartney, a Federal Defender, and Roy Wright, the Victims.

Panic Among Other Prisoners When They Learn of Transfer of the Two to Quarantine.

SMALLPOX laughs at locksmiths and has no respect for the bolts and bars of the County jail. Despite the sanitary regulations so carefully maintained at that institution two prisoners have broken out with the disease and have been hustled away to the quarantine hospital. The remaining prisoners are in a panic and Sheriff Emery, whose residence adjoins the jail, has shut off all communication for the protection of his family.

The Two Victims.

The victims are A. McCartney, a United States prisoner, committed May 16 for passing counterfeit money, and Roy Wright, sentenced March 22 for attempting to rob a young woman for her pocketbook. They occupied the same cell in the rotary. McCartney was first to develop the symptoms of the malady. On Wednesday he complained of a headache and fever. Dr. H. A. Hasbrouck was called in and made a thorough examination, but could not make a diagnosis owing to the early stage of the disease. He called again Friday. McCartney was feeling much better at that time and the physician pronounced him well.

Diagnosed Too Late.

A few pustules appeared Friday. The eruption became more evident on Saturday and Sunday and yesterday the symptoms were so pronounced that the other inmates of the jail became frightened. They had been excited and eating with the two sufferers and had, therefore, sufficient grounds for their apprehensions. It is believed that the disease had been perfectly willing to seek other quarters had they been permitted to do so.

Sheriff Takes Precautions.

Sheriff Emery and his family, including several children, were vaccinated last night. Beginning the first thing this morning the jail will be disinfected and all the prisoners touched up with vaccine. All suspicious disorders will be carefully isolated until the period of incubation is passed.

Dr. Hasbrouck said last night that it was impossible to detect any characteristic symptoms of smallpox on Wednesday. "McCartney told me," he said, "that he had previously had an eruption of the skin just like the one that was then beginning to show. I went back the next day and found a him feeling as well as usual, so I naturally decided that there was nothing the matter with him."

As McCartney is a United States prisoner and there is not sufficient help at the quarantine hospital to keep guard over the patients, it will be necessary to employ a special nurse, who will also exercise the functions of jailer.

PYTHIAN KNIGHTS TO HOLD GRAND LODGE

Session Will Begin This Morning. With Delegates From All Parts of the State.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS from various parts of the State have begun to gather for the twenty-first Grand Lodge convention, which is to begin in the Castle hall at 10 o'clock this morning. The most important and interesting feature of the session will be the election of Grand Lodge officers tomorrow morning. Grand vice chancellor is the position most eagerly sought, the leading candidates being C. J. McNitt of Salt Lake and J. M. Beattie of Scofield, the latter now grand prelate. Both have many friends in the order and are receiving strong support. It is a foregone conclusion that W. R. White, the present grand vice chancellor, will succeed H. N. Standish as grand chancellor of the domain of Utah. C. W. Corfield, who has been grand master of exchequer for the past year, will probably be made grand prelate. W. H. Young, grand master-at-arms, is next in line for grand master of exchequer. The minor offices have been but little discussed and their disposition can hardly be made the subject of speculation at present.

The Grand Lodge contains sixty-six members, representing the twenty lodges of the State. The present officers are: Supreme master-at-arms, L. H. Farnsworth; supreme representative, John S. Corlew and F. W. Gordiner; grand chancellor, H. N. Standish; grand vice chancellor, W. R. White; grand prelate, J. M. Beattie; grand master of exchequer, C. W. Corfield; grand master-at-arms, W. H. Young; grand inner guard, J. G. Torrence; grand outer guard, J. S. Jones.

JOKE IS ON J. EUGENE SMITH

Hustles Out of State in Great Hurry.

Iowa Man Made to Believe He Has Violated Fish and Game Law.

Caught Five-Pound Bass, Was Induced to Bury It, and Catch Outgoing Rio Grande.

SPREADING east on No. 4, and thanking his stars that the Utah officers of the law have not caught him, is J. Eugene Smith of Clinton, Ia. With him is his wife, who thinks the game laws are absurd any way, and behind him in Salt Lake is a merry crowd that laughs till the sides of the members ache again when they think of the five-pound bass which Mr. Smith thinks he caught against the laws of the State.

Provo Men Propose Test.

Some Provo men who were in the crowd hereupon suggested a trip up Provo canyon, so that each man should have a chance to make good his anecdote. Yesterday morning early they set out, each man with a rod and line. Honors were easy for a time, when Mr. Smith felt an unusually heavy strain on his line, and lo! and behold a five-pound bass was the prize. Great joy was his and correspondingly great was the chagrin of the local men, who hated to be beaten in their own waters.

Thought They Were After Him.

On the train were two business-like men with business-like guns; they had been hunting, but it did not take much to make Mr. Smith believe that they were deputies. When he got to Salt Lake the cat was too slow to take him to the Cullen. Dashing up in a hack he made his bewildered wife pack the baggage and back to the Rio Grande depot they went and took passage on No. 4 as soon as it came in. And over in Denver there is a furious man who will shoot when you say "bass" to him.

SHOOTING AFFRAY; NO ONE INJURED

A shooting function in colored circles caused great excitement on Commercial street about 6 o'clock last night, but nobody was hurt. Henry Page, a barber, did the shooting, and his targets were an inmate of Gottle Ludlow's disorderly house and her male friend. The woman, named Miss Kittle, claimed to have been snubbed by Page and sent her friend to demand an apology. Instead of apologizing Page began to shoot. This satisfied the woman and she waived the apology. Patrolman Gulbranson arrived at the crucial moment and took Page into custody.

WEATHER CONDITIONS FOR PLATEAU REGION

Low atmospheric pressure was registered over the Southern plateau yesterday, according to the report of the weather bureau, but it seems to be indicative of dry and windy weather and no rainstorms. The dry season seems to have set in all over the interior mountain district now, except for casual storms. With the freaks that this mountain climate sometimes takes on, it is improbable for a snowstorm to occur before the end of July, but precipitation to any quantity can be looked during the next four months.

PAYS TRIBUTE TO FOUNDER OF MORMONISM

At the monthly meeting of the Nauvoo Legion, held last night at fitting headquarters, the veterans were entertained by Andrew Jensen with a lecture on the life of Joseph Smith.

The speaker dwelt upon the many-sided character of the founder of the Mormon church, whom he described as prophet, military commander, politician, a dreamer and yet essentially a practical man. It was the fact that he was a natural man, unlike the popular conception of a prophet, Mr. Jensen declared, that caused many to doubt his divine inspiration, but any man who possessed less of the qualities of true manhood could ever have founded such a church as the Mormon church.
