MURDEROUSLY INCLINED MAN SENT TO ASYLUM Special to The Tribune. RICHFIELD, Oct. 14.—John F. Jones of Salina was examined before County Commissioner William Ogden Wednesday evening and ordered committed to the asylum at Provo. His actions during the past two weeks had caused considerable apprehension, especially in regard to his wife. Mr. Jones fancied that his son-in-law was trying to wrong him and blamed his daughter partly for it. His wife tried to get such a notion out of his head, but he expressed a threat to kill her as she had "borne bad fruit."

A few days ago he had a neighbor husking corn for him. He took a notion that the man was cheating him and said that he was going to kill him. For two weeks more he has been busy, much to the terror of his wife, and had to be approached cautiously when the arrest was made. He did not have a gun with him, but he resisted the arrest with the desperation of a tiger.

Forty years ago Mr. Jones developed a mental weakness for a while, the conviction of one of his sons of a crime. He then declared that people were trying to get the best of him, and he carried a pistol in his hand day and night for a week. He grew more rational and had not manifested any further derangement until lately.

This makes the third inmate of the asylum that has been sent up from Salina within the past year.

POISON IN BOOZE. Wood Alcohol Found in Samples of Cheap Whisky.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—An unofficial report has been received from the Board of Health by Coroner Scholer regarding the samples of whisky collected from Tenth avenue barrooms during the investigation into nearly a score of deaths among patrons of the cheap groceries on the West Side. It is stated that the board's expert chemist found wood alcohol in all the samples.

The coroner declared he would feel no surprise should poisoned or adulterated liquor be discovered all over the city. If there is to be poisoning in the stomachs of three men who died last week, the coroner will take immediate action.

Meanwhile the police officials state that as soon as they receive the Board of Health's official report on the analysis of the so-called whisky they will arrest every saloonkeeper involved.

Special to The Tribune. PARK CITY, Oct. 14.—At the Silver King a partial vote of the miners has been taken to determine the place to which the hospital fees shall be sent in the future. MAKES QUICK CAPTURE OF ESCAPED CONVICT

Special to The Tribune. CALIENTE, Nev., Oct. 14.—Constable Mangum of Caliente returned from a hard trip to Los Vegas yesterday with escaped convict "Kid" Dougherty, who is wanted by Idaho penitentiary for a three years' sentence for burglary committed at Montpelier three months ago.

The Idaho authorities have been notified and will send an officer here at once for this convict.

Los Vegas is fast becoming a bad town. Last week a man was found lying dead with marks of violence on his head and body. Another man was found dead with severe bruises on his head, this week, at Los Vegas, and was buried without inquiry as to the cause of his death.

There have been any number of crimes committed at the new camp since the advent of the railroad and swift justice may be needed to make it a law-abiding community.

Sheriff Jake Johnson, a man of grit and ability, will go to Los Vegas soon and investigate conditions there with regard to the execution of the law.

How Roosevelt Stands. COALVILLE, Oct. 14.—Col. Squires and N. T. Harris were the speakers at the Republican rally here last night. They were greeted by a large audience. Col. Squires occupied an hour in his address. "Of course, we cannot help it," said he, "if our Democratic friends do proper under our policies, but it seems mean to me for them to vote against us when we are trying to prosper them. He read with Judge King that "Roosevelt stood upon the Constitution with his sword in hand." It is believed that the reverse side of this statement could apply to Parker for, said he, "Whoever heard that Parker had a sword?"

Mr. Harris concluded with a good forty-five minutes' talk. The Republican party is growing stronger here and the victory of a big hand coming more confident of the election of the entire county ticket.

Cause of Lockjaw. Lockjaw, or tetanus, is caused by a bacillus or germ which exists plentifully in street dirt. It is inactive so long as exposed to the air, but when carried beneath the skin, as in the wounds caused by percussion caps or by rusty nails, and when the air is excluded the germ is roused to activity and produces the most virulent poison known. These germs may be destroyed and all danger of lockjaw avoided by applying Chamberlain's Pain Balm freely as soon as the injury is received. Pain Balm is an antiseptic and causes such injuries to heal without maturation and in one-third the time required by the usual treatment. It is for sale by all leading druggists.

KUROPATKIN'S STAR HAS SET

St. Petersburg Forced Him to Move. Friends of General Claim That Authorities Pushed Him on. Emperor Is Bitterly Disappointed at the Result of the Battle at Yefail.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 15, 2:30 a. m.—The great feeling of concern which exists in high circles in the Russian capital tonight by no means equals the foreboding of coming disaster pervading the general public, which indulges in the deepest pessimism. In the absence of official news the public is being fed on the wildest rumors of defeat suffered by Gen. Kuropatkin today. The fact that no word regarding the battle has been officially given out only confirms the popular fear. The explanation offered that today was a holiday does not suffice to allay the apprehension.

Emperor Disappointed. Gen. Kuropatkin's report of the result of the day's operations has reached Emperor Nicholas at Tsarkoe-Selo, but it had not been returned here before the War commission, which sat only until 9:30 o'clock, adjourned. The Emperor himself is represented as being bitterly disappointed, and spending hours with his cabinet, studying out, with the help of his military aides, the reports of the battle. The general staff, however, by no means despairs. Though admitting that the tide the last two days has been against Gen. Kuropatkin, the general staff says the battle is not yet over, and that in any event there is no question of our defeat.

Believe the Worst. The depressing feature of the situation is that everyone is willing to believe the worst. Thus, reports from Tokio and elsewhere stating that the Japanese are advancing and the Russians falling back are accepted with faith based upon the previous Russian retreats.

Genesis Kuropatkin's Move. Naturally many reports are current as to the genesis of the forward movement. It is stated that Gen. Kuropatkin was forced into taking the offensive by pressure from the authorities here. This has been officially denied, and Gen. Kuropatkin's order of advance was given over his own signature, it seems likely that he will have to bear all the responsibility, whether the situation is of his own making or not.

Inspired From St. Petersburg. Friends of Gen. Kuropatkin say the present offensive movement was inspired from St. Petersburg, as was doubtless Gen. Stakelberg's for the relief of Port Arthur, and if Kuropatkin's star has set others than he are responsible. At this time the supporters of Gen. Kuropatkin are of the opinion that, whatever may be the direct outcome of the past few days' fighting, it is not likely to be an irretrievable disaster to the Russian army.

Left Road for Retreat. It is pointed out that even if Gen. Kuropatkin was forced to advance against his better judgment, he is doing good a general to have undertaken an aggressive movement which he did not feel strong enough to carry through without leaving open a road for retreat. The Russian general staff, however, movement may be an absolute failure, so far as the relief of Port Arthur is concerned, and though Kuropatkin may lose many men and some guns, this is the worst that can happen.

Keeping Forces Together. If Gen. Kuropatkin succeeds in keeping the alignment of his forces and the dispatches indicate that he is doing this—and the Japanese do not succeed in breaking up or cutting off any considerable portion of his army, he will not be in a much worse position, even if he should be forced to retire to Mukden, than he was before the advance began. The probabilities are that the losses on both sides will be about equal.

Desperate Fighting. Dispatches from the front give a vivid picture of the desperate character of the fighting along the whole line. The Russian planemen have been again forced to engage in hill fighting, which is little to their liking. There have been desperate and repeated attacks upon almost inaccessible positions, which leave no question of the resolution and gallantry of the Russian forces.

Hand-to-Hand Fights. Guns have been captured and recaptured in fierce hand-to-hand fights, while a pitiless downpour of rain, the inevitable accompaniment of a great battle, has flooded the trenches and drenched both armies without allowing the desperate conflict.

Bloodiest Battle in History. The latest word directly from the field of battle is the Mukden dispatch to the Associated Press in which it is said that 15,000 Russians had been wounded, which, together with today's casualties, would make the total probably exceed the figures of Liao Yang and make the fight rank as one of the bloodiest battles in history.

One Pitiable Feature. A pitiable feature is the coming of thousands of wounded to Mukden. The roads and fields are covered with crippled men dragging themselves to the shelter of the hospitals, the wounded helping each other, as few able-bodied men are being spared from the fighting line.
