

GETTING READY FOR FOOTBALL

Eastern Colleges Are Lining Up Giants of the Gridiron.

COACH REID OF HARVARD PREPARED FOR BATTLE

Yale Faces Disappointment in the Loss of Two Great Players.

Tribune Special Sporting Service.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Nearly all of the big Eastern colleges are making preliminary plans for the football season, although they do not begin work until September 11 or 12. But candidates for the teams have already been at the college towns for several weeks. Cornell, Pennsylvania and Columbia begin work on the dates mentioned, and Yale, Harvard and Princeton will also commence work in a very few days.

Coach Reid is already deep at work in the preliminary planning for the Harvard team. He has a card index with the name of every candidate eligible for the team. On each card he keeps the statistics and the college standing of the man whose name is at the top. Harvard has lost so many men through failure to keep up in their studies that every precaution will be taken to compel the men to keep up their university work as well as to train faithfully. Reid has enough veterans back to make almost a whole eleven, and he is confining his preliminary work principally to the formation of new plays.

Yale Faces Disappointments.

Yale is facing two new disappointments to add to the defection of Mike Murphy. Leavenworth, last season's halfback, who, although he was graduated last year, was expected to take a post-graduate course and play again, but he has signed a contract to coach the University of Alabama team and will not be back in the ranks of the blues. The other disappointment which is also keenly felt is the loss of Thompson, the crack Andover guard, who was expected to make a strong bid for a place next to the center. He has decided to go to Cornell and start his college football work under the tutelage of Glenn Warner. So many of last year's veterans will be missing this season that the Yale coaches will have a difficult task in turning out a championship team, but everything is ready at New Haven to start practice in earnest.

Princeton Has Suffered.

Princeton has suffered much by reason of the graduation of old players, and the amount of available new material which will report for practice is still unknown. There are several good men who are said to be about to enter the New Jersey university, however, and it is on these and some promising substitutes of last year that the coaches base their hopes.

In Cornell Camp.

The addition of Thompson is the cause of much rejoicing in the Cornell camp. It is reported that Schildmiller, end on last year's Andover team, has also decided to enter Cornell, and Kirkberger, a 200-pound center on last year's Mercersburg team, is another player whom the Ithaca men expect to add to their squad. Luby, quarterback on the same team, is another possible candidate for the Ithaca team. Warner has been working all summer perfecting plans for practice, which starts on September 11. Several football men have been in Ithaca for summer school and they have been keeping in condition with light practice all through the vacation months.

Pennsylvania Begins Practice.

Pennsylvania also begins practice on September 11, with prospects for an unusually good team. Practically the only places which will have to be filled are the guards, and there seems to be plenty of material to strengthen these spots. Columbia, which starts practice on September 12, is rather an unknown quantity.

HEAVY TEAM FOR CHICAGO.

Midway Eleven Expected to Average Over 180 Pounds.

Chicago will have the heaviest football team in the history of the university this fall, yet it is probable that no man on the eleven will weigh 200 pounds. From present indications it seems that Eckersall will be the only man on the 1905 aggregation who will weigh less than 180 pounds. The little quarterback now tips the beam at an even 150 pounds, which is an eight-pound gain since the close of the season last fall.

Assistant Coach Fred Spiek figures that the average of the team will be well up in the 180's, which will approximate closely the weight of Michigan this fall. Without Eckersall's low weight it is believed in the maroon camp that the team will average 190 pounds. According to latest reports, Capt. Catlin weighs 189, De Tray 188, Bezdek 182, Gale 181, Boone 183, Badelrich 180, Shearer 180, Parry 180, Walker 180 and Eckersall 150. Melga, the only other candidate seriously considered, weighs 200 pounds. He is not expected, however, to secure a regular place on the team.

Team to Be Well Balanced.

This means that Coach Staggs will put a remarkably well balanced team into the field. The shift plays which he attempted to work with during last year probably will be one of the leading features of the maroon attack this fall, as the backs are heavy enough to go up into the line, while the tackle are fast enough to drop behind the line of scrimmage and carry the ball. Parry and "Dent" Boone will be relied upon mostly in these plays. The back field will be faster than that of last year in addition to the added weight. Eckersall has lost none of his old-time speed. Bezdek is the quickest starter on the team, while De Tray, with the exception of Eckersall, is the fastest man on the team for the entire length of the field. Walker is the slowest of the quartet, yet he can negotiate fifty yards in the wild with the exception of Walker, every man in the back field can go the century route in track clothes in eleven seconds.

Men of All Around Ability.

Practically all the veterans and the most promising new candidates are athletes of all around ability. Their athletic tendencies have not been confined to one field alone. Eckersall, as is well known, is only a shade less proficient as a track athlete and a ball player. Capt. Catlin is Yale's eastern champion in the hurdles; De Tray is a hurdler second only to Catlin and one of the best men on the diamond in the university; Walker pitched the most successful ball of any of the maroon twirlers last spring; Gale won his track "C" in the shotput two years ago, and is a crack backstopper. Badelrich is one of the maroon water polo stars and fair in the weights; Shearer is proficient with the hammer; Melga captained the freshman ball team last spring; Parry is track captain-elect, and Boone is a star outfielder as well as an all around track star, winner of the all around athletic championship of Hilldale college before entering Chicago.

Players to Begin Work in a Week.

The call to arms will be sounded today. The veterans will begin returning before the end of the week, although it is probable many will not heed Coach Staggs' call until after a week of practice has passed. Fred Walker is the first to arrive on the scene. He returned on Friday from Arizona, enroute and in excellent condition after spending the summer at the University of Arizona. Marshall field is ready for the football men. For the first time the maroons will have a sodder gridiron to play their big games on this fall. The bleachers are moved up to the side lines, and the practice gridiron is being put in shape.

PARK CITY-SALT LAKE.

Teams Meet This Afternoon in a Decisive Struggle.
