

WOMEN WANT TO DEPORT AN IDLER

Raise Popular Subscription to Pay His Expenses Out of Town.

ONLY MAN IN IRONDALÉ WHO REFUSES TO WORK

Wives of the Town Fear Example Will Demoralize Husbands.

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—Women of Irondale, Ill., a town of 5,000 inhabitants, are raising a popular subscription to defray the expenses of deporting the only idle man in town.

They say that the presence of one indolent man may have an evil effect upon their husbands and put to naught the town's recent recovery from a twenty year period of laziness.

Wants to Just Rest. Tony Hartford, aged 20, living at 1100 Bessie avenue, is the man who refused to work. Agents of several factories are canvassing Irondale daily in search of workmen, say the women, and yet Hartford calmly smokes his pipe and announces that he has decided to take a couple of months' rest and lie around the town.

Until three years ago, when a big harvesting plant came to Irondale, work was the one thing that came last to the lot of the voters. Thirty years previous a mill had been established in the town, but changes in the style of nails quieted the factory whistle, and for many years wives watched their husbands gather at the corner grocery and wait for some one to offer them a job.

Jobs Forced on Them

Then came the boom, and the jobs forced themselves upon the spouses. Every man had to go to work to avoid the offers that were showered upon him. Irondale awoke from its stupor and began to boom. The dread disease of laziness was eradicated and the smooth places on the dry good boxes lost their gloss.

But the housewives have not forgotten the old days. A constant dread of a repetition of the idle period has filled their minds, and they have kept their husbands closely harnessed to their jobs, with only Sundays, Fourth of July, New Year, and Thanksgiving off. Tony the Disturber.

Now comes the disturbing element, the rebellious Tony, who, having no wife to make him work, has not been convinced of the necessity of labor. The women were quick to act when they heard of the disaffection. Mrs. Jacob McIntosh, 1045 Calhoun avenue; Mrs. Joseph Walters, Calhoun avenue and One Hundred and Ninth street; and Mrs. Jennie Hester were appointed a committee to circulate the subscription list.

Yesterday, the first day, $7 was collected. "We will send him just as far as the money we collect will pay the fare," said the committee. "We will only pay the fare one way, but if he repents and informs us that he wants to come back and work, we will get him a job first, and then send for him."

May Want to Go.

Tony has not yet been consulted about the matter. He may not want to go, but as the committee say they will make it too hot for him at home, the 500 other men who are working are confident he will accept the offer of transportation.

INJURIES PROVE FATAL

C. A. Blanchard Dies as Result of an Electric Shock

Word was received here last night that C. A. Blanchard, who was buried by coming in contact with a live wire in Logan the first of last month, died in that place yesterday at 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

Mr. Blanchard was an Iowa boy, having come from Sioux City to take a position as messenger with the Utah Independent Telephone company, and it was while acting in that capacity that he met with the accident which has just resulted in his death.

Mr. Blanchard was working at Logan, performing duties known as "riding a message wire," when he came in contact with a high tension wire carrying 5000 volts. He was thrown to the ground and picked up unconscious, in which condition he remained up till the time of his death. His father, who is a prominent citizen of Sioux City, was notified shortly after the accident, and hurried to his son's bedside, where he has been ever since. He will take the remains East and place them beside those of the young man's mother, who died several years ago.

Blanchard was a quiet, pleasant fellow and the news of his demise was received with profound regret by all with whom he had been associated.

THREE DAYS WITHOUT A MURDER IN BAKU

Viceroy Advises Clergy to Preach Peace, and Increases the Guards.

BAKU, Sept. 22.—Since his arrival here on Wednesday Count Von Vorontzoff-Daskhoff, the Viceroy of the Caucasus, has visited all the works in the district, received deputations of Armenians and Muscovites and private individuals representing various interests and generally examined into the situation. He presided at a conference of military authorities September 21 and decided to reinforce the troops and institute a court-martial. Confers With Clergy.

Friday the Viceroy presided at another conference which dealt with the question of the best means of hastening a resumption of work in the oil fields and at which were discussed various suggestions for policing and protecting the oil industry by the troops and guards furnished by the respective companies. The Viceroy proposed that the Armenian and Muscovite clergy preach conciliation, and as a result of this advice delegates of the two nationalities have convened a conciliation conference.

Will Reinforce Guards.

The Viceroy is now going to Elizabethopol and Tiflis to continue his investigation. He has promised the naphtha companies and other industrial leaders to reinforce the guards in the district and reorganize the police force, but he declined to form a militia.

WHAT BRINGS ON WRINKLES

Petty Annoyances and Fretting Is Cause Rather Than Trouble.

It does not require a microscope for the average woman who has passed thirty years on this mundane sphere to discover that time, if she does not take care, has its effect on her face, and on her cheeks, her eyes, her mouth, and her throat, says the Chicago Chronicle. There was a time when her face was smooth without trace of furrow or wrinkle; a time when she awoke from balmy sleep to find life always a grand surprise. All was pure gold without dross, and she seemed to bask forever in the sunshine. But now she sees the reflection of her visage altered before her she finds a network of creases and lines.

"What makes the wrinkles come?" asks a question which requires greater wisdom to respond, she believes, than has ever been found by philosopher. It is not the real, tangible annoyances in life, the ones we can confront, that wear us out and leave their impress indelibly traced upon us. It is the vague, intangible, little things or little evils of today or tomorrow or the next day. The brief and fleeting present can hold but little of joy or sorrow, the great, intangible future, far-reaching and indefinite, contains for the imaginative nervous temperament a world of suffering without end. Let it, then, ever more than probable that the little creases and curves and lines that appear in a woman's face are due to the intangible, the things that cannot be touched, but which disturb one's peace of mind and breed in the mind a morbid, morose, and of an existence which Dame Nature deemed should be tranquil.

One whole-souled, honest little woman, who is a type of the sensitive, artistic temperament, after a deep scrutiny of her daily increasing furrows, summed them all up like this: "I noticed when I came in from a day's shopping last week that my whole visage looked more and more weary. But after refreshing toilet and a short siesta I observed only one new little crease remaining to mar my face through the weeks, and as I settled into bed, it seemed to me, I am such a close student of personal appearance that my observations may be taken as accurate. Yes, only one wrinkle remained to represent that one trip down town. But think of having can hold but little of joy or sorrow, the great, intangible future, far-reaching and indefinite, contains for the imaginative nervous temperament a world of suffering without end. Let it, then, ever more than probable that the little creases and curves and lines that appear in a woman's face are due to the intangible, the things that cannot be touched, but which disturb one's peace of mind and breed in the mind a morbid, morose, and of an existence which Dame Nature deemed should be tranquil."

Both parties are entirely satisfied with the arrangement. Premier Rouvier and Prince Von Radolin, the German Ambassador to France, met at the Foreign office after the negotiators had reached an accord and discussed the details of the agreement.

PARTRIDGE FOR MAYOR

Democratic Convention Expected to Indorse Ticket.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 22.—The Republican municipal convention tonight nominated John S. Partridge for Mayor. Partridge is Deputy City Attorney. It is expected that he will be endorsed by the Democratic convention tomorrow night.

The name of Mr. C. W. Budd, a delegate from the Twenty-fifth, was misspelled. Both errors are gladly corrected.

GERMANY AND FRANCE AGREE

No Doubt Remains That the Lengthy Pour Parlers Are Now Concluded.

REACH COMPLETE ACCORD ON ALL DISPUTED POINTS

Rouvier and Moroccan Minister Meet Today to Sign Definite Terms.

PARIS, Sept. 22.—Information obtained from a well-informed source is to the effect that Mr. Rosen, the German Minister to Morocco, and M. Revell, representing France, reached a complete agreement on all the disputed points of the Moroccan question in the course of their conference today.

Both Parties Satisfied.

Both parties are entirely satisfied with the arrangement. Premier Rouvier and Prince Von Radolin, the German Ambassador to France, met at the Foreign office after the negotiators had reached an accord and discussed the details of the agreement.

To Sign Definite Terms.

It is understood that Dr. Rosen and Premier Rouvier will meet tomorrow night to formulate and sign definite terms of agreement relative to the programme to be discussed at the international conference on reform on Morocco.

Merely Awaits Signatures.

The above may not be regarded as official, but the source from which the information came leads to the belief that the lengthy pour parlers are now concluded and that accord merely awaits the signatures of the representatives of the two Governments.

MAY HAVE HANGED THE WRONG NEGRO

Arkansas Mob Lynches Man Accused of Assault and Murder.

CONWAY, Ark., Sept. 22.—Frank Brown, a negro, was taken from the jail here late tonight to the outskirts of the town and hanged by a mob. The lynching was so quietly done that few of the townspeople knew of the occurrence. The negro was held for assaulting a Mrs. Lawrence, killing her six-year-old son and stabbing her baby daughter.

Hanged at Victim's House.

Brown was hanged in front of the house occupied by Mrs. Lawrence. The lynching was evidently the result of a prearranged plan. The mob formed quietly in the outskirts of the city and proceeded to the jail. Sheriff Harrell is in Little Rock, attempting to run down a clue which has resulted in the arrest of another negro implicated in the crime. The mob experienced no difficulty in entering the jail and securing their victim.

Said to Have Confessed.

The mob took Brown to the house in which Mrs. Lawrence lived, in a lonely spot. There was no excitement, and the affair was conducted in a business-like manner.

Sheriff Thinks Got Wrong Man.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 23.—Sheriff Harrell of Conway, while on his way here tonight, said he thought the wrong man had been lynched, and the man he has now under arrest is the one who committed the crime for which Brown was lynched.

Dancing.

Teachers of dancing—beg pardon—professors of dancing, take their calling so seriously tonight, when in session, as they now are, so persuasively of its importance to the human race that even those who have "out" away all thoughts of dancing are led to take an interest in the newest thing in steps. And this present convention of professors of dancing it seems, as something very like a real problem with which to struggle. It is found, from statistics gathered principally from summer resorts, that the two-step is so popular the graceful waltz is becoming a wall-flower, and this from the standpoint of a professor who is reform must come. So a "waltz" waltz, so called because its originator devotedly and fervently follows it is the waltz needed, is to be introduced throughout the country. But professors may only propose—the dancers do the rest.—Boston Transcript.
