

FINE BODIES IN DEEP CREEK MINE

Western Utah Copper Company Still Opening Up Resources With Depth.

HERMAN H. GREEN IS BACK FROM PROPERTY

Splendid Ores Being Uncovered With Main Bodies Yet to Be Reached.

That the Western Utah Copper company of Deep Creek is adding to its ready large tonnage liberally by means of the present system of development work, and that the resources being disclosed are maintaining their characteristic richness although the main ore bodies are not yet gained by the management, is the verdict expressed Wednesday by Herman H. Green, secretary, treasurer and director of this splendid organization. Mr. Green has just returned from a two weeks' trip to Deep Creek, and is entirely gratified by the character of rock the company is bringing into tangible condition.

The shaft, he states, has been driven for a distance of 170 feet below the tunnel level, and it is the purpose of the company to send this working 130 feet more, unless prior developments suggest a change in the programme, before any cross-cutting will be done at all. This shaft is penetrating the iron gossan which is the covering for the Western Utah copper resources proper, and which is generously sprinkled with ore throughout. In what is known as the East cross-cut, Mr. Green states that ore has been opened up with a vertical depth of about 250 feet. This ore is similar to that found elsewhere in the property, averaging around 6 per cent copper, with good gold contents, and which from the excess of iron is strictly a smelting ore.

When asked how far along the famous Gold Hill vein the Western Utah company had opened the ore, Mr. Green stated that for practically 500 feet the resources had been demonstrated at sufficiently frequent intervals. The company has just completed additional improvements upon the group, including adequate boarding and bunk house facilities, office, and other surface conveniences. The company is employing about thirty men at present.

Adjoining the Western Utah Copper property is the Western Pacific Mining and Development company's possessions, upon which the company is doing a great deal of earnest and telling work. A long cross-cut tunnel is being urged forward for practically 500 feet, and at a vertical depth of 300 feet, four distinct ledges from which the prominent Salt Lake capitalists and mining experts interested have every reason to expect splendid results. Mr. Green also interestingly is rushing forward to the completion of all surface buildings looking forward to the comfort of the men employed, and that work had settled down most earnestly. The weather in the Deep Creek country, he states, is very severe, and old timers, those who have remained in that section of Utah for thirty years or more, are agreed that no more severe weather has ever been experienced.
