

AMICABLE RELATIONS WITH LARGER ROADS

Simon Bamberger Says Opposition to Interurban Is Not From Gould and Harriman.

President Simon Bamberger, of the Salt Lake & Ogden railroad, returned Wednesday afternoon from Ogden. While there Mr. Bamberger made a thorough study of the situation which has been confronting him for some time. He desires to say that the opposition encountered has in no way been inspired by either the Gould or the Harriman systems.

The opposition which the road has encountered in its effort to enter Ogden has been due only to residents of Lincoln avenue and others who have opposed the road. The principal objection raised was that the road should not be given a steam franchise in the city limits, but it now appears that the residents of Lincoln avenue have decided to keep all railroads off the street.

NEW SCHEDULE IN EFFECT ON STREET RAILWAYS

The new street car schedule went into effect in Salt Lake City Wednesday morning. The changes in the system were made by joining the East Second and South Temple street lines, by joining the Warm Springs and Sugar House lines, and by running the Wadsworth line separately. Ten minute service will be maintained on the Wadsworth and Second South lines.

WHY THE AMERICAN PARTY IS BADLY NEEDED IN UTAH

Editor Tribune:—Permit me to use some of your valuable space to present a few of my ideas to your readers. Has it not occurred to you what a vast diversity of grafts can be found among the Mormon leaders, generally and locally? I was more than amused by a statement made to me by a young lady, who recently turned 18 years of age, and with whom I had got to be on very familiar terms while engaged in the printing business. She had her father told her for a consideration, of course—by a venerable patriarch of the Mormon church.

Among other things he told her that she would be married in the morning with temple when she was 20, and she appeared to believe that he knew. Of course he called it giving a patriarchal blessing, and there can be no possible doubt (from a Mormon view point) that what every word of that and other patriarchal blessings made or given by him is holy and inspired by God.

Be this as it may, the revenue derived by him through (I was about to say "giving") patriarchal blessings, added to the revenue he takes in by selling intoxicants, with absolute impunity in Utah, is a vast sum, and it is a fact that saloons dare not sell to, affords him a competency.

I remember well, one evening last winter, when a number of the lesser patriarchy were indulging in some very unseemly conduct. They were having all kinds of visions and hallucinations. Investigation proved that all this was "inspired" by a visit to the afore-said venerable patriarch, and that "inspiration" had been "administered" in liquid form. No, gentle

Federal Court Happenings

Judgment in favor of the defendant was given by Judge Marshall Wednesday morning in the case of the Lime King company against the Yampa Smelting company, in which the Yampa was being sued for $29,000, alleged to be due on as many tons of limrock. Two similar cases against the Utah Consolidated Mining company and the present rates on the calendar, but it is expected that, as the point at issue in all three is the same, the other two cases will be dropped.

Assistant United States District Attorney William McGee, Chief Deputy L. H. Smyth and Immigration Inspector J. E. McCabe spent Wednesday in Ogden in the case of Ah Sun, who is alleged to have been smuggled across the Mexican border.

NOTES OF "U"

The election of officers of the class of 1910 of the university was held Wednesday afternoon. The following were elected: A. A. Anderson, president; Hugh Lewis, vice-president; Irma Peniston, secretary; S. Laub, treasurer; J. E. Alley, editor of the junior year book; L. A. Blackner, manager of the junior year book; R. D. Dalton, custodian; H. M. Alley, O. Overton and Frank Beard, executive committee; G. A. Keep, J. M. Tracy and W. R. King, athletic committee; C. C. Cornwall, sergeant-at-arms.

The contests for positions were extremely interesting, especially for the editorship of the junior year book. The two candidates for the position were J. E. Alley and George Roberts. Both have had considerable experience and either would be capable of preparing the annual book for the junior class. Alley is an engineer, however, and as the engineers were in the majority he won out.

Twenty senior mining engineers, under the direction of Professor G. A. Overton and Dr. H. Bradford of the departments of mining and metallurgy, will leave Thursday morning for a trip of eight or ten days to the mining camps of the State. Bingham Park City and Sunnyside will be visited. Each represents a distinct feature in the mining industry. Bingham for its copper, Park City for its lead and Sunnyside for its coal mining are the three parts of the trip. Complete arrangements for visiting the various properties of the different camps have already been made.

The seniors have already completed their class work, but many are coming what delivered by their theses. These valuable documents must be in the hands of the faculty before commencement or no diploma will be issued.

Junior mining students will leave for Eureka a week from Sunday for a six weeks' surveying trip. Part of this time will be used a study the geological formations of the district in which the students will do their work.

The class of 1909, which will form the senior class of next year will hold its election of officers Thursday morning.

The senior class day committee is perfecting arrangements for the commencement day of commencement week. Earl Havenor has been selected to speak for the seniors on this occasion. His talk will be similar to the class prophecy given other years, but this year the subject will deal with class wills.

IMPRESSIVE CEREMONY AT FUNERAL OF L. L. DOWNING

Several hundred friends and business associates of the late L. L. Downing gathered at the Masonic temple on East First South street Wednesday afternoon to mark the last resting place of the memory of the dead man. The funeral services were conducted by the Ardena lodge, Utah chapter No. 1, Knights Templar, of which Mr. Downing was a member. He was in attendance and acted as escort to the casket. The floral offerings were most beautiful, and as numerous that the casket was completely hidden beneath a mass of flowers. The casket was borne by the fraternal members of the altar, covering the entire east end of the lower lodge hall.

TO PRESENT PROGRAMME IN ORPHEUM THEATRE

Owing to the disagreeable weather conditions Wednesday afternoon the meeting of the arrangement committee of the Decoration Day celebrations was poorly attended and little business was transacted. It was arranged, however, that each individual organization fix a time for its members to go to the cemetery and not leave the matter to the general committee. Plans have been made for a programme to be held after the picnic, at the Orpheum theatre, so that the older citizens will have heretofore been held at the graveyards.

Another meeting of the general committee of the district in connection with the opening in the secretary of state's office in the city and county building. At this meeting it is expected that the final plans for the day's services will be completed.

Paper Loses Suit

The jury in the case of the Bulletin Publishing company, publisher of the Bingham Bulletin, against Otto Kappelle returned a verdict for the defendant in Judge Ritchie's division of the Third District court Wednesday. As the verdict returned Kappelle gets nothing on his counter claim and the company gets the same.
