Malicious Attacks.

Certain Evidence.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—"If they can attack me with impunity, I am mistaken," said Richard Ballinger, secretary of the publication, referring to the publication of his name in the Collier's magazine, which are apparently to be published in the magazine to justice in due time.
Ballinger would not create any form proceedings in being instituted against him, he said, if he lived long enough to suffer all the penalties of the law.

Attack Untruthful.

Ballinger's malicious, villainous and malicious attacks, of which this is another chapter," he said, "I bring them to justice. Every time they make," he added, "has been covered by testimony of the United States district court of Washington in a division, exonerating me of the slightest suspicion of any in-propriety. They have sent their agents and emissaries to the country to employ a campaign of libelous and warranted by any facts and impunity, they are mistaken."

HOW TO FIND OUT.

Fill a bottle or common glass with urine and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment of white or yellow indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys. Too frequent desire to urinate, scanty supply, pain or dull ache in the back, should also convince you that the kidneys or bladder are out of order.

What To Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, fulfills almost every wish in relieving pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It cures inability to hold urine, and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to get up many times during the night to urinate.

The mild, pleasant and extraordinary action of Swamp-Root is soon realized.
It stands the highest of its wonderful results in the best of health. If you need a medicine, you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle of Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, sent absolutely free, if you will. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.
When writing be sure to mention that you read this generous offer in the Salt Lake City Sunday Tribune. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Mr. Love said he had been "let out" of his office and that Collier's had intimated to him that "it would be worth from $500 to $10,000 for him to go to Washington to testify."
"Do you mean that the weekly meant to bribe him?" asked Mr. Madison of the committee.

"No, not to bribe him, but to pay him," replied the witness.
"You draw a whole lot finer distinctions than I have been able to do," reported Mr. Madison.

The committee betrayed great interest in the incident and pressed Mr. Love for details. The witness said he saw Mr. Dudley for not more than three minutes and that Dudley had said he wanted to go to Washington to testify for the "other side." He said Dudley wanted him to tell Mr. Ballinger of this offer and that he had not accepted it, but that he desired to testify for the "other side."

Mr. Love said he did not tell Mr. Ballinger because he thought perhaps Mr.
Ballinger had put all wrong construction on the remark. The witness said he said Mr. Dudley did not tell him the name of the agent.

Mr. Love said he did not think he had mentioned the conversation with Mr.
Dudley to anybody. He denied that Dudley had intended to try to influence Mr.
Ballinger by having him mention the incident to the secretary of the interior.

Personal Feeling Evident.

In beginning his cross examination today Mr. Brandeis remarked to the witness that he was in a "calmer state of mind than yesterday."
"I am very calm," snapped back Mr.
Love.

Attorney Brandeis questioned the witness for nearly an hour in regard to his testimony yesterday, after which representative Graham took him in hand.
"Are you a lawyer?" inquired Mr. Graham.

"I ran for lawyer but got beat," replied the witness amid laughter.
Mr. Love said he had been a lawyer twenty-five years ago in South Dakota.
"How long did you enjoy the practice?" asked Mr. Graham.

"I didn't enjoy it."
"You were in South Dakota when it was building up?" inquired Mr. Graham.
"No, when they were leaving it," replied Mr. Love, and general laughter.
Adding that he was in South Dakota from 1883 to 1889.

He was there when the people were being farther north," interjected Senator Purcell of North Dakota.
Attorney Vertrees offered in evidence on redirect examination of Mr. Love a letter written by Secretary Love to Captain E. C. Hunter of Oklahoma, dated February 2, 1908, stating that the secretary of the interior (Mr. Garfield) had informed the president that Love had been cleared of the charges against him and that his appointment as marshal in Alaska had been ordered.

Mr. Love was excused and Frank L.
Spaulding of Cheyenne, Wyo., formerly disbursing officer and clerk in L. H.
Glavis' office in Seattle, was called by Attorney Vertrees.
The witness identified an expense account totalling $366.93 of Mr. Glavis at the time he went east in the summer of 1909 to see the president, and also a check drawn by Glavis on September 2, 1909, for that amount. Mr. Vertrees offered both in evidence. The attorney called to the attention of the witness an item in the account of $5 for the services of a stenographer. In Chicago employed in making up a report of the charges against Secretary Ballinger for the president. He asked the witness if Glavis had not asked him subsequently to cut out the item.

"Yes," replied the witness, "but I told him I could not do that, as it had been turned in with the account and the check had been made out for the full amount."
"What did he then ask you to do?"

To "Doctor" Expense Account.

"He asked me to cut out the item and make it appear there had been an error in addition," was the reply.
Mr. Spaulding said he did not know whether Mr. Glavis had ever made affidavits to the accuracy of the account.
On cross examination the witness Attorney Brandeis obtained identification by the witness of a voucher for the $5 item for typewriting.

"Mr. Glavis explain to you later that he intended to reimburse the government for the typewriting, for if the government paid for the work it would have the right to call on him for all three copies of the report when he wanted one or two copies to keep for himself," asked Brandeis.

make a search when he reappeared with the papers in his hands.

Miss Shartell had been in the office while Glavis was chief of division. She said of having made for Glavis two or three copies of the twenty-four letters afterwards found. It is alleged, in a box belonging to him.
Mr. Vertrees put two sets of the copies in evidence. One came from the foresight bureau, where the letters were sent to Glavis, and the other set came from Special Agent Christensen, who is said to have discovered the missing letters.

Discovery an Accident.

Questioned further by Mr. Vertrees, Miss Shartell said neither Parks nor Christensen had been looking for the twenty-four letters at the time they were discovered. They were looking for hold note books, two telegrams and a letter sent for by the committee of inquiry. She said Parks stated to her that he had found nothing in Glavis' boxes but personal property. She also heard Parks make this statement to Christensen.

Miss Shartell was followed on the stand by George Parks, formerly of Denver, but now attached to the land office in Seattle. Mr. Parks' job of having made a search through the boxes belonging to Glavis was to find out if there were some field note books Christensen had hidden at Portland. Assistant Custodian O'Neill of the federal building accompanied him.

He looked into a big box which belonged to Glavis, and the witness said: "One of the boxes on top was loose. I saw what appeared to be a sleeping bag and I took it out and some papers. I satisfied myself that the box contained the personal effects of Mr. Glavis and I had no time to examine them. I did not disturb the box or its contents in any way."
"Did you or Mr. O'Neill put any papers in the box?"

"No, sir."
Parks said the day papers were said to have been discovered that both O-Neill and Christensen came into the office with a stack of papers. He also heard Christensen remark: "I don't disturb the box or its contents in any way."
As they passed him Christensen remarked, in a jocular manner, that he suggested he (Parks) did not make a very good search.

Garrett W. O'Neill, assistant custodian of the federal building in Seattle, next to the "other side." The witness gave some details as to how Glavis' effects came to be stored in the building. He was so much in earnest that he gave every little circumstance connected with the transaction and spoke with such a delightful frankness that the members of the committee could not resist the temptation to have a little fun with him.
They asked a number of questions which called out gales of laughter from their colleagues and audience. But O'Neill took all in seriousness.

Details of the Search.

O'Neill corroborated what Parks had said about the search he had made and then told of the discovery of the twenty-four missing letters. He said Christensen had applied to him to make a further search of Glavis' effects. Christensen said he went with Christensen. They opened the same box in which Parks had looked.

He took out the sleeping bag and tent and then the dictionary. Christensen reached in and pulled out something. He said: "My God! Here are those papers that are wanted by the committee, and we have been looking for so long." He said: "I don't know where they had appeared in Collier's, and I became interested at once. I said: 'Here, I'm against it. I don't want to be drawn into this proposition.'"

"We thought District Attorney Todd should be advised. I went downstairs and got him. We all went to see anything about the discovery until the papers were sent to the committee. Mr.
Christensen also took out of the box a great quantity of other stuff which he said pertained to his office."

as to details of the search. He said the papers were discovered, and Senator Purcell asked O'Neill if he had his eye on the box all the time Christensen was handling over it. The witness said he was certain Christensen did not put the papers in the box, although he could not swear to it.

"When Mr. O'Neill was excused, the committee adjourned until next Friday."

MAY NAME CANDIDATE
TO LEAD DEMOCRACY

This What Democrats Expect
Will Be Done at Jefferson Day Banquet.

By Leased Wire to The Tribune.
WASHINGTON, April 2.—"The new spirit of Jefferson and progressive Democracy" will be the keynote of the nation-wide reunion of Democratic party leaders at the Jefferson Day banquet in this city on April 13. The annual banquet will be under the auspices of the National Democratic committee and this will be the most important gathering of its kind in many years.

The absence of Judge Alton B. Parker, who was in Europe, removes a figure of national importance whose presence was sought. Possibly Judge Parker will be home in time to attend.
Among the speakers will be Senator Hughes of Colorado; Shively of Indiana; Gore of Oklahoma, and Representative Rainey of Illinois; Clayton of Alabama, and Champ Clark of Missouri.
It is also expected that Colonel Watterson of Louisville, Ky., will respond to a toast.

According to the plans the presidential potentialities will be present. They are Mayor William J. Gaynor of New York; Governor Harmon of Ohio, and Governor Marshall of Indiana. The banquet will be given at the New Willard and it is expected that over 500 persons will be present. Among the topics on the programme are "The Democracy of Thomas Jefferson," "Jefferson's Political Philosophy," and "The Vital Principles of Republicanism."

In view of the position of the Democratic party and the conditions in the Republican party in some states, Democrats are looking to this dinner as an important affair. If the next Democratic candidate for president is not named many guessers will miss the mark.

OPTOMETRIST WILL GET CERTIFICATE

Supreme Court Orders State Board to Grant Application of Percy Hallen.

The supreme court on Saturday handed down an opinion affirming the judgment of the lower court in the case of the State of Utah ex rel Percy Hallen against the state board of optometry, appellant. On July 1, 1907, Hallen was refused a license to practice optometry in this state by the state board although he tendered the required fee and set forth in his application that he had been in the practice of his profession in the state for eighteen years.

Hallen filed an action and asked for a writ of mandate to compel the board to issue a certificate to him. The case was tried before Judge Armstrong of the district court and a writ of mandate was issued by the court on May 15, 1909. The board appealed to the supreme court and alleged that Hallen's methods were not up to the standard required by law and that while he answered the questions in the examination correctly, it was found that he used "subjective mechanical means" only and not the "subjective and objective means" as required by law.

The supreme court affirms the judgment of the lower court and holds that the law did not intend to bar those previously engaged in practice before its passage and holds that Hallen furnished evidence of the fact that he was entitled to a certificate from the board.
Hallen will now receive his certificate and the board will have to pay the costs of the appeal.

MISS LULU HEMPSTEAD
DIES OF HEMORRHAGE

Miss Lulu K. Hempstead, daughter of the late Major Charles H. Hempstead, and well known in society circles of this city, died Saturday morning at the family residence of hemorrhage. Miss Hempstead was a native of San Francisco, Cal., but came to Salt Lake City with her parents at a young age.
Miss Hempstead had many friends in Salt Lake City, who will mourn her death. The funeral will be held at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon from St.
Mark's cathedral, of which congregation she was a member. The interment will take place in the City cemetery.

SERIOUS PANIC AVERTED
BY PRESENCE OF MIND

Through the presence of mind of the moving picture operator and the leader of the orchestra, a serious panic was averted at the Luna theater Saturday night at 9:50 o'clock, when some excited person in the audience shouted "fire."
The falling of the ventilator trap-door in the roof of the theater, caused by the high wind, was responsible for the idea that a fire had started. When the audience started to leave the theater, the moving picture operator turned on the lights, but kept the pictures going and the leader of the orchestra continued playing.

No one was hurt in the crush, which soon stopped. The fire apparatus from headquarters responded.

STREET CLEANERS TO APPEAR IN UNIFORM

"White Wings" Will Make Initial Bow Monday Morning, Marking New Era.

On Monday morning the "white wings" will make their initial appearance on the streets of Salt Lake. Everything is in readiness for the great event which will mark a new era in the street department of the city.
Thirty-four men employed in the street sweeping department will appear in all their glory in pure white duck uniforms and will no doubt attract much attention.

Street Supervisor Raleigh says that the adoption of the white uniforms was done as much for the protection of the old men now engaged in sweeping the streets as for any other reason. He declares that during last year eleven of his men were run down by automobiles while at work on the streets, but that with the white uniforms on, there will be no excuse for the motorists not seeing the cleaners. It is the intention of the street supervisor to see that the men are protected from danger and their uniforms will insure them the right of way while on duty. Should any of them be run down in the future, Mr.
Raleigh declares that he will prosecute the offender to the limit of the law.

PLANS FOR CAMPAIGN
OF THE IRISH PARTY

John Redmond Will Detail Them at Demonstration at Tipperary.

Special Cable to The Tribune.
DUBLIN, April 2.—John Redmond, M.
P., will be the principal speaker tomorrow at the great Irish Nationalist demonstration which will be held at Tipperary, and he is expected to deliver a striking address which will not only arouse further enthusiasm in the Irish cause, but will outline new plans of campaign in behalf of this party. Mr. Redmond will be accompanied by several other members of the party.

In an interview here today, the great leader expressed his appreciation for the great financial and moral aid given by America to the Irish cause, and expressed the opinion that another general election would be held before the summer is over. When asked whether the Nationalists would give their support to the new budget, he replied:
"It is doubtful just now what definite course the Nationalists will pursue a-regards the budget. They may not support it. From the indications now, the political situation must be further clar-ified by another election, which may come before the summer ends."
"The cause of Irish liberty is advancing rapidly. We cannot give sufficient thanks for the aid coming from America Irish residents of America have pledged liberal support. There is no question that we shall finally attain victory, and a large measure of success will be due to America."

In Tipperary political circles much satisfaction is expressed that Tipperary which has distinguished itself for its loyalty and valued adherence to majority rule should be selected by Mr. Redmond as the place to sound the keynote for the new campaign.
