

Where Woman Reigns Society and Clubs

In order to prevent impositions and embarrasements, the Tribune requests that persons leaving social notes, and especially marriage notices or engagements for publication, leave with them names through which the source of the same may be traced if the matter is called in question.

Despite the hopeful signs of the times last week, the past seven days have been almost as quiet as though it were Lent. A few brilliant events only have characterized the social atmosphere, the greater number of social butterflies being still occupied with the momentous question of the arranging of the household for the winter at the athletic events at the Country club.

Two large teas on Monday last, the one given by Mrs. A. H. Bird for Miss Palmer of Philadelphia, and the other by Mrs. R. C. Woodruff for her guest, Miss Scott of New York, gave a good beginning to the week. Miss Palmer was guest of honor also at a delightful luncheon at the Country club on Tuesday, when Mrs. Jack Taylor entertained, and the same evening Mr. and Mrs. William P. Kiser entertained a party of young people for Miss Margaret Dills. A tea given by the Misses Gertrude and Irene Hanson for Mr. Robert Campbell and another at which Miss Merle Lynch entertained her girl friends, filled Wednesday afternoon, and the same evening Lieutenant and Mrs. McDaniel of Fort Douglas entertained a party of friends at bridge, and Lieutenant and Mrs. Clark R. Elliott entertained Thursday evening at a similar affair. Mrs. J. A. Greenwald gave a beautiful luncheon on Thursday for Mrs. Behal, and Mrs. J. R. Walker was the hostess at a tea for Mrs. Terrell and Mrs. Campbell.

Meantime the women who are interested in athletic events have gathered up all their forces and demonstrated their ability at golf morning, noon and night, playing strenuously for the various trophies offered in the game this year. A great many entered the first part of the week to qualify for the Jacking cup and to play for a score for the trophy given by Mrs. William Reid. A most important event for the coming week will be the tea to be given on Thursday afternoon next by Mrs. J. L. Franke for Mrs. Russell A. Chapin of Los Angeles, who comes tonight, accompanying her father home for a short visit. Mrs. Chapin was Miss Margaret Park, and has always been a favorite in Salt Lake's society circles. She was married recently to Mr. Chapin and her home is in Los Angeles.

Quite an extensive program of events has been arranged for the month at the Country club, and the usual athletic affairs will be enlivened by numerous social stunts as well. Among the specially planned things are a Halloween dance, which will probably be a fancy dress affair, an evening bridge party, an afternoon bridge party and several teas. The usual table d'hôte dinner and the informal dances for Saturday evening will be kept up as well. The finals in the men's championship game will be played this afternoon between Walker Salisbury and F. E. McGurrian.

Mrs. Fred Stauffer and Mrs. Leslie W. Snow will give a large reception at the Stauffer home tomorrow afternoon for the wives of the visiting physicians of the state, who will hold the state convention here at that time.

Mrs. A. H. Peabody will be at home informally tomorrow afternoon for Mrs. Graham F. Putnam, and all friends of Mrs. Putnam who wish to see her during her short stay in the city are invited to call during the afternoon hours.

Miss Ada Ferguson will entertain on Friday afternoon next for Miss Merle Lynch.

Mrs. C. C. Parsons will entertain at two parties during the week, one on Wednesday next for Miss Lynch and one on Friday for her sister, Mrs. Stephenson.

A most unique event of last evening planned in a most original way, and carried out with marked success was the "Yellowstone National Park dinner" given by Mr. and Mrs. Ledyard M. Bailey in celebration of the birthday of E. B. Critchlow, in whose company they had enjoyed a trip through the park last year. The large table represented as nearly as one could imagine, the stage trip through the park, and here amid the dense forest of moss and miniature trees grazed the wild deer and bears and the elk which the company had seen on the real trip. The clever mechanical appliances, three or four of the most important gears were reproduced, and these, just like their counterpart worked on time. A few boiling springs with their lovely colors were reproduced as well, and the dozen friends who enjoyed the affair were all those who were able to appreciate and live over once more the joys of the trip.

After all it is not so sure that "The Passing of the Petticoat" is to be the favorite refrain of the present autumn season. Although the dainty trills no longer dangle about one's feet, their counterpart may be seen about the head, for the very newest hats have a sort of lingerie suggestion closely hidden under the brim, and giving all the effect of a miniature petticoat.

Does some one say "Enough of hats?" Well one may well paraphrase a line of Wallace Irwin's about another very popular article and say, "Of hats can there be enough?" Really when

The poet sang of nothing new beneath the sun he must have had in mind those turban, which no matter how constructed, nor how loaded with debris are all the same. Can one see any beauty in them? There may be some under them but of themselves they are a nightmare.

And this from the Quaker city: We thought whatever fickle fashion did. The limit of enlancement of the lid Was reached a while ago—but now they rise Aeroplanely to the astonished skies. And flap, propeller-wise, before one's eyes. But Philadelphia (we are glad of that) Thinks more of what is underneath the hat.

A notable wedding of the near future is that of Miss Ruth Chapman and Harold Fabian, for which cards were issued within the past few days. The marriage will take place on Wednesday, October 19, in St. Paul's church in Evanston, Wyo., and will be followed by a large reception at the Chapman home later. A great many friends from here will go to Evanston to attend the wedding, a number of whom will be in the bridal party. The bride will be attended by her sister, Miss Elizabeth Chapman, as maid of honor, and by Miss Stella Fabian, Miss Margaret Souther of Boston, and Miss Dorothy Chapman of Boston, as bridesmaids. Paul Neiden will be the best man, and the ushers will be William Howbert of Colorado Springs, Athol Rawlins, Alex. Thomas, John Clark and Hobart Chapman.

The east end of the Country club living room looks quite like a silver-smith's shop these days, having taken on a great deal of brightness from the many handsome cups displayed there. The men's championship game, which is still in progress, is one of the big affairs of the year, while the mixed foursomes, for which two very handsome cups are offered, will show the best playing on the part of the women. Good work on the part of the greens committee has resulted in greater interest in the athletic side of the club than has been the rule, and the fine weather is conducive to better playing and more enjoyment of it.

The gathering of the young girls tomorrow afternoon to form a new charitable society recalls to the older ones the days of the Young Ladies Aid society, an aggregation of the very finest young women the town has had, which in past years did a great amount of good in a quiet and unobtrusive way among the sick and poor. For some reason the work was allowed to die out, or other things took its place for a time, but the same spirit is to day to be found in the young girls who are about to band themselves together for altruistic purposes.

It's a cold day for the county commissioners when the joy riders get left. Although the much enjoyed House of Commons and of those only two of the words to that effect, there are at least six places within a reasonable radius where motorists in quest of lubricating fluids may go to procure them. The county needs either a more or a less elastic ruling to insure comfort on the one hand or obedience to orders on the other.

The contest for the women's championship cup in golf had narrowed down to only six before Friday afternoon, and of those only two of the players cared to pair off for the game on that day. The six who qualified were Mrs. Leslie Savage, Mrs. F. E. McGurrian, Mrs. Jack Taylor, Mrs. Robert Gemmill, Mrs. Jay Gilmer and Mrs. C. H. Doolittle. Mrs. Savage and Mrs. McGurrian played their game, leaving Mrs. Savage winner. The others will play off within the next few days.

Mrs. William Igleheart will give an interpretive recital of the fairy drama, "The Blue Bird" next Friday evening at the First Presbyterian church. The drama is one of the poems which appeal especially to young people, and the reading will doubtless have a splendid audience.

PERSONAL

Mrs. J. S. Noble and her son, George Wenner, who is now a promising young attorney of Seattle, Wash., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Shealy for a short time.
