

MERRILL VICTOR OVER WIDTSOE

University Professor Is Chosen President of State Teachers' Association.

COMMITTEE ON NOMINATIONS REPORT WAS ADOPTED

Name of Organization Changed to the Utah Educational Association.

OFFICERS ELECTED

President, Dr. Joseph F. Merrill of the University of Utah. Vice president, Professor Joseph Peterson. Trustees for one year, Alma Molyneux and John M. Mills.

Joseph F. Merrill, a professor at the University of Utah, was chosen president of the Utah Teachers' association at the general session, Friday afternoon.

Many ills come from impure blood. Can't have pure blood with faulty digestion. Lax liver and sluggish bowels.

Everybody's friend—Dr. Thomas' Eucalypti Oil. Cures toothache, earache, sore throat. Heals cuts, bruises, scalds. Stops any...

Thomas of Salt Lake City, trustee for three years. The secretary and treasurer are appointed by the trustees. Before the musical numbers by the Commercial club quartette were rendered at the evening session President Thomas appointed Superintendent A. C. Nelson and Howard R. Briggs to assist President-elect Dr. Joseph F. Merrill to the stand.

Strong opposition, championed by several well-known educators, was raised to the recommendation to dispense with departmental work, offered in the report of the committee on revision of the constitution and bylaws.

The other recommendations of the committee were adopted. Among the leading features in the change in the constitution and bylaws were:

Changing of the name of the Utah Teachers' association to "The Utah Educational Association."

Changing of the time of the annual meeting to Thanksgiving week instead of the Christmas holiday period.

Raising of fees to $1.25 instead of $1.00.

Fifteen dollars was settled upon as the amount for a life membership certificate in no uncertain manner.

The Utah Educational Review was named as the official organ of the association.

Highly appreciative resolutions in memory of the late Supervisor John S. Welch were adopted.

Co-operation Urged.

Urging co-operation on the part of the general public and the school workers, Elmer E. Brown, United States commissioner of education, said: "The real thing necessary for the best results in school work is to have co-operation between the patron and the teacher, and to have the community keep step with the strides being made in educational work and have them know what is going on at all times."

Was Successful Meeting.

The convention of 1910 was the largest of any ever held by the teachers of the state according to Keeler, who is secretary and treasurer of Utah Teachers' association. The total registration was over 2300.

was marked by an attendance so large that many persons were forced to stand.

INDUSTRIAL EDUCATION

Committee Report Upon This Question Is Unanimously Adopted.

Industrial education was the subject of the meeting in the assembly hall which convened at 9 o'clock Friday morning. It was looked forward to with interest and a good sized audience was present.

Following the reading of the report Professor Widsote spoke briefly, urging practical industrial training in the seventh and eighth grades, in the high schools and on through the higher institutions of learning.

Professor Widsote called attention to the need of asking the legislature to reorganize the high school system of the state and to provide industrial training in such schools.

Here Are Recommendations.

"The necessity for industrial education arises through: First, the social needs of the child; second, the psychological demands of child nature; third, its relations to character building; fourth, its economic value.

The cultivated man is more than a scholar. He must be efficient physically, morally and intellectually, and in addition, so trained in some special pursuit that he can render efficient, if not expert, service to his fellow men.

Psychology and biology reveal the close relationship of mind and body. The two are organically related; the development of either one is conditioned by the growth of the other.

Psychological demands.

Psychology and biology reveal the close relationship of mind and body. The two are organically related; the development of either one is conditioned by the growth of the other.

The good man is not merely one who refrains from wrongdoing, but the man who performs good deeds. Character is measured in terms of the ability and disposition to serve.

REST AND HEALTH TO MOTHER AND CHILD.

Mrs. Winstow's Soothing Syrup has been used for over SIXTY YEARS BY MILLIONS OF MOTHERS FOR THEIR CHILDREN WHILE TETHERING, WITH PERFECT SUCCESS, IT SOOTHES THE CHILD, SOFTENS THE GUMS, ALLAYS ALL PAIN, CURES WIND COLIC, AND IS THE BEST REMEDY FOR DIARRHOEA. It is absolutely harmless. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winstow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

helping others, and points the direction the vast majority must travel in order to render the most effective service.

Economic Value.

"In the elementary school the educational value of industrial training is of primary importance; the practical value, though secondary, is, however, a decided advantage. It gives reality to the activities which it embraces and tends to awaken a desire to be useful.

Industrial education must be made a part of an organized system of other subjects that the vitalizing influence which industrial training gives, and industrial training must be humanized through being related to other subjects.

A chief defect of our public schools is their failure to supply the vital subject matter necessary to relate the child to the life of the home and the community.

The introduction of industrial subjects will remedy this evil.

Industrial education is to be introduced through a system of trade schools as many advocates, not only well known public school teachers, but also lack of humanizing elements, will be narrow in its scope and therefore unable to provide that broader education essential for citizenship.

Moreover, the establishment of trade schools by the state or nation with grave dangers, fraught with which would be the growth of class distinctions, the encouragement of social distinctions, and the creation of a gulf between the two systems of schools over the division of the funds.

Trade schools may be established to meet local and special demands, but not as a system of public education.

TRUSTEES AND TEACHERS

Their Relations to the Public Theme of Dr. Brown's Address.

In his second address before the state teachers Friday morning, United States Commissioner Elmer E. Brown discussed the relations of trustees to teachers and to the public. He placed the needs of the school under four heads: better schoolhouses, better schoolhouses, better schoolhouses, trained teachers and more competent supervisors.

The first of these needs, better attendance, is being secured, Dr. Brown said, through the united effort being made in the prevention of child labor and the furtherance of the compulsory attendance laws.

The second need, good schoolhouses, he said, is also being given more attention than ever before. School boards and trustees are taking pains to have all new schoolhouses comply with requirements which assure commodious rooms, good ventilation, sanitary conditions and convenient arrangement.

Seventy million dollars, Mr. Brown said, is being expended annually in the United States for the erection of school buildings, and he feels that the money is being carefully expended to the best advantage of school children.

The teaching corps is being strengthened at the time, Dr. Brown said, by the encouragement which is given young teachers in their efforts to enter the higher schools to perfect themselves in special lines, and by subjecting applicants to more rigorous examinations before they are admitted to the ranks of teachers.

Better supervision is the rule, too, for the same reason, according to Dr. Brown, for the young men teachers are being urged to broaden their mentalities in higher schools and they are being advanced from the ranks as occasion warrants, and they are being well equipped to take up the higher work of supervision.

Should Act as Buffer.

"The school trustees," said Dr. Brown, "should act as a buffer between the public and the teachers in the school board's employ. It is often the case that the public can tell the teachers many things that they do not know, and would be inclined to tell to the teachers to know them. The school superintendent should be considered much in the same light, too. It is therefore of the utmost importance that the school superintendent should be a man well equipped to serve. Constructive and manual training work affords a natural means of expression. It compels the child to see to the line, to strike straight, to build true—deceit cannot enter here. Moreover, industrial work develops an ideal of usefulness, affords a motive for him teachers should remember their youthfulness.

Remember that when your kidneys are affected, your life is in danger. M. Mayer, Rochester, N. Y., says: "My trouble started with a sharp shooting pain over my back which grew worse daily. I felt sluggish and tired, my kidney action was irregular and infrequent. I started using Foley Kidney Pills. Each dose seemed to put new life and strength into me, and now I am completely cured and feel better and stronger than for years." Scramm-Johnson, drugs, five stores.

When Religion Comes.

Religion comes to the student principally at three times, viz: At twelve, fourteen and sixteen years of age; but the second and third periods are the times when the most lasting impressions are made. It is the time of dreams, and they are essential, without dreams society perishes. It was the young men and women dreaming dreams of justice that eventually freed the slaves.

The only brute in this world is the degenerate man. Get the dreams and visions so burnt into the soul that they may never be lost. If these truths are meaningless to the teacher then he should not be a teacher. Teach only what you know and what you believe, and university work because such a teacher is unfit to teach in the high school. It is not so much how much learning the high school boy has received as the ambition which he has indicated.

The eye is not the greatest sense organ on the body that places it in the way to the heart, which is deeper than intellect. It is in this period that character is formed. God is far more conscious of his child than we are, and the strong character like electricity from the dynamo. The personality of the teacher influences all other qualifications. It is important that teachers believe in the communion of saints; they cannot be too proud nor too humble.

Listen to Organ Recital.

The lower floor of the tabernacle was well filled with a few hundred in the gallery, Friday at 12:30 o'clock, when the organ recital was given in the presence of United States Commissioner of Education Elmer E. Brown, Professor J. J. McClellan was the organist and Horace Engle was the accompanist. The organists in rendering the difficult numbers, Professor McClellan gave the usual exhibition of his skill in the great instrument. The audience was in rapt attention throughout the recital. The vocal work which Mr. Best and Mr. Ensign are noted.

Convention Financial Success.

Fred D. Keeler, secretary and treasurer of the Utah Teachers' association, stated Friday afternoon that the convention annual convention was a success financially. The association, he asserted, was under heavier obligations than ever before this year because of the special music and the distinguished speakers brought here. Notwithstanding the increased expense, however, the convention, which came to a close with the association ahead of the expense account by a nice margin, Keeler stated.

Never Missed a Convention.

C. E. Pratt of Tucker, Utah, who apparently takes as much pleasure out of the annual convalescence of state teachers as he does in going to the big circus every summer, declares that the convention which closed at Salt Lake City Friday was the best he ever attended. Mr. Pratt was one of the first members to join the Utah Teachers' association. He says he hasn't missed a convention.

Don't.

Don't think because you have taken many remedies in vain that your case is incurable. You have not taken Hood's Sarsaparilla.

It has cured many seemingly hopeless cases of scrofula, catarrh, rheumatism, kidney complaint, dyspepsia and general debility—many cases that have been worse than yours.

What the great medicine has done for others it can do for you.

Electric Signs

It is estimated that there are upwards of 200,000 electric signs in operation.

We say "in operation" because they do operate in bringing trade.

Do these figures mean anything to you? It seems to us they prove beyond question that the electric sign is an advertising factor of tremendous value.

Some business houses have declared that their trade increased 50 per cent within one week after hanging out an electric sign.

These results are exceptional only in size. There are always good results from electric signs more than justifying the expense.

Our sign propositions are based upon terms so liberal that you can easily take advantage of them.

GROWTH IN HIGH SCHOOL Dr. Tyler Delivers an Address Upon This Interesting Topic. After a very interesting programme rendered by the Hesperian String Quartet, Dr. Tyler delivered his third and last address to the Utah Teachers' association Thursday afternoon, covering nearly one and a half hours.
