

GIVE THREE SIDES OF COAL STAMPS. Retailers and Producers Blame Railroads for Lack of Cars.

ALLEGATION IS DENIED. Transportation Officials Assert That Traffic Is Being Handled Without Delay.

Practically no change has taken place in the local coal situation, except that the retailers declare the crisis has drawn a few days nearer.

The retailers assert that the supply on hand is so low as to warrant fear of a coal famine unless conditions change.

From the railroads again comes the cry that they are handling shipments to standard time and with more ease than at any time during the rush of the fall transcontinental traffic and beet and crop movements.

Producers Claim Shortage. The producers still claim that they receive too few cars to load on orders and that as a result the mines cannot be operated normally.

In the meantime the public is watching for the outcome and cautiously ordering more coal by virtue of the uncertainty of the game and also the cold snap.

Prominent dealers yesterday said that the supply would be a comparatively few days, unless the railroads handled shipments faster.

Another retailer asserted that the storage reserve was being drawn on tremendously, and that the prolonging snap or storm situation could not be ruled out.

Situation Not Unusual. A leading wholesaler said that while the situation was serious, it was not far different from that which usually obtains at this time of the year.

So far as the price of coal is concerned, the same rates have been in force last winter. Dealers declare it hardly probable that prices will be raised within the next few days unless the railroads increase freight rates.

Students Dey Faculty; Run College for Day

THE greatest outburst of college spirit ever displayed in this state was exhibited at the state university yesterday, when the entire student body overcame by the victory of the Utah university over Colorado college in Colorado Springs last Saturday.

Just as Mr. Pitt completed his remarks Dean Byron Cummings of the school of arts and sciences was seen in the entrance to the hall. He was immediately "grabbed" and taken to the platform.

Before the assembly closed it was proposed that the students be permitted to run the college for a day. The proposition was carried by a large vote.

The faculty objected to the boys passing the college over to the students, but the students' enthusiasm overcame the objections and practically the entire male student body was waiting at the depot when the players arrived.

From this point the coach and all the players were escorted on the shoulders of the students to the platform in the assembly room. Every student in the school was in the hall and it was packed to overflowing.
