

News of the Society World

THE last week before the beginning of Lent finds society singularly apathetic in regard to getting through with the rush of things and ready for that period of prayer and fasting. Only a few events of any importance are scheduled ahead so far, among them the most elaborate being the bridge tea to be given Thursday afternoon at the Hotel Utah by Mrs. J. M. Callow, a large number of friends being invited to the affair. Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Boyer and Miss Kate Williams will entertain at a dance and bowling party tomorrow evening at the Tennis club. Mrs. Harold Fabian will give a luncheon on Wednesday at her home for Miss Nellie Calvin of San Francisco and Miss Russel of Michigan, who is here visiting her sister, Mrs. Charles Stimpson. Mrs. Robert J. Glendinning will entertain the players in the bridge tournament at her home Tuesday afternoon and Mrs. John C. Daly will have the Sewing club members as her guests also on Tuesday. The Girls' Friendly society will give a dancing affair at Whitney hall on Wednesday evening, and as a close of the week the big musical tea and card party of the music section of the Ladies Literary club will be held at the Hotel Utah.

THE utter uselessness of trying to explain things to the general public has come home with great force to a local belle in the last few days. She found herself on the street car one time without a nickel or a ticket. She appealed to the conductor, a good-looking, pleasant young chap, who had been on her line for some months. "And I'll send it to you immediately, so you can make your tickets tally," she said as she got off. Being a young person of rather precise habits, she no sooner removed her wraps than she folded the ticket in a sheet of paper, placed it in an envelope and addressed it to "No. _____ care the railway company." The debt was paid and the incident forgotten. A few days passed and one night she came down to the theater with her very best beau and dressed in her best theater togs. Naturally she did not notice the conductor, but he noticed her. He did not have a chance, however, to say anything until the theater was reached, and then amidst all the bustle of many persons alighting he managed to say in a stage whisper which was heard by almost the entire car: "Say, I got your letter all right, all right." The fact that she failed to recall the case on the minute only added to her amazement, and now she is wondering if it is wise to be too punctilious in one's obligations.

SHE was a dignified if not an elderly person of more than the usual number of summers acknowledged by her sex, and she bore her gorgeous crown of white hair with a prideful air as if to say: "You see I have never dyed it." She had a hat which was admirably suited to her and felt comfortable on the head, provided, always, that she inserted inside of it a small black bandeau which was kept for just such a purpose. The bandeau had never been sewed into the hat because it was more convenient to fit it separately. She placed herself with great dignity in the front row at the matinee in company with a friend not nearly so tall and also not inclined to look upward, and gently removed her hat. No one was close enough to tell her of her mistake, except the friend, and she was totally unconscious of it, but through the three acts of the play the lovely lady with the gray hair sat with what looked to be a dark and dismal halo, but nevertheless a halo placed in a slightly rakish position over one ear.

MRS. FRANK WHITNEY entertained yesterday afternoon at a beautifully appointed tea at her home in compliment to Miss Winnifred Burrows, a young bride of the week. The home was decked with roses, pink and white Killarney roses being used through all the rooms. The hostess was assisted in receiving her guests by Mrs. Sydney Beattie, Miss Nan Clawson and Miss Margaret Whitney. At the tea table taking turns were Mrs. H. G. Whitney, Mrs. C. T. Younger and Mrs. John D. Spencer, while assisting them were Miss Marion Whitney, Miss Lillian Wells and Miss Rosemarie Young.

THE Misses Rose and Frances Evans were the hostesses yesterday afternoon at a most delightful tea at the Evans home given in compliment to their guest, Miss Katherine Garnett, of Sacramento. The guests were mainly the younger matrons and the young girls, and the hostesses were assisted by their mother, Mrs. S. D. Evans, and Mrs. W. B. Wallace of Fort Douglas, who poured tea and coffee and by the Misses Isabelle Shiffer, Marion Thompson, Marie Hughes, Helen Steiner of Omaha, Marjorie Jacobs and Grace Cooke. Little Buddie Knight met the guests at the door. The home was bright with flowers, pink roses decorating the parlors and the dining room and Richmond roses the hall and the den. Over 100 friends called during the late afternoon hours to meet the young guest, who is to be entertained at numerous affairs during her visit.

INVITATIONS for the "Junior Prom," the big society event of the college year, have been delayed, owing to a mistake, and will not be out till the early part of the week. Everything else is in readiness, however, and all the plans go to show that the affair will be one of the finest, if not the very best, the juniors have ever given. An especially interesting feature will be the concert programme, which begins before time for the grand march and lasts for an hour or so while the members of the class are receiving their guests. The affair is in the hands of Raymond Sumner, Miss Mary Shepherd Horne, Miss Claire Pendleton, Robert Ferron, Rex Sutherland and Miss Margaret Merrill.

THE beautiful Mrs. Frank M. Andrews, who quite took Salt Lake society by storm when she was here last year, has become once more the lovely Pauline Frederick, not in the customary way, but simply by returning to the stage. She has already been seen on the stage since her second debut as the Parisian countess in "The Paper Chase" which is said to have created quite a sensation in New York. Mrs. Andrews was much feted during the few weeks she and her husband were at the Hotel Utah, and she proved herself an adept at entertaining as well as dancing. It was thought that she and her husband would be semi-permanent members of Salt Lake society if he secured the capitol building plans, but when the commission decided against him they went to New York. Mrs. Andrews is now appearing in "The Egyptian."

MRS. BERTHA SAMSON HARVEY was hostess yesterday afternoon at the second in a series of teas at her home on U street in compliment to Mrs. Edward Samson Harvey. The home was beautiful with its springlike decorations. Delightful music was furnished by the Romania Hdy orchestra.

Mrs. Harry Harvey of Chicago received with her sister and the young bride and Miss Lenore Samson and Mrs. J. H. Grut assisted. Seated at the tea table were Mrs. E. V. Fritz and Mrs. George W. Putnam, and the young girls who assisted were Miss Ruby Harvey, Miss Martha Richards, Miss Darlene Kimball and Miss Olive Benson.

MISS MARGARET BARNETT, whose picture appears today, is a talented young Salt Lake girl, who is completing her college course in California. She is taking a course at Berkeley, but as a part of her normal work she is spending the present winter in the state normal school at Los Angeles under the direction of Dr. J. F. Millsbaugh, and is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. W. T. Lucas, of Honolulu, who is spending the winter there. Miss Barnett is a daughter of Dr. and Mrs. E. S. Barnett, and they will go to Los Angeles within a fortnight to spend a month or so also with her.

ONE of the most interesting events of the week in club and social life will be the card party and musicale planned by the music section of the Ladies Literary club for next Saturday afternoon at the Hotel Utah. An unusually fine musical programme is planned for the latter part of the afternoon, the arrangement for it being in the hands of Mrs. Jack Taylor, Mrs. W. H. Ferguson has charge of the card tables and Mrs. W. J. Barrette will head the reception committee, with Mrs. W. A. Nelson, Mrs. E. B. Critchlow, Mrs. J. T. Keith, Mrs. W. A. Wetzel and Mrs. Bailey to assist her. Others who are on special committees are Mrs. J. C. Hanchett, Mrs. A. H. Peabody, the chairman of the section; Mrs. Walter G. Tuttle, Mrs. Stone and Miss Eliza Day. These ladies will be assisted by a whole bevy of young girls. Although the early hours will be devoted to cards there are many friends, both men and women, who are planning to go late to enjoy the musicale.

Weddings and Engagements

The friends of Miss Louise Stubblefield, and that means everyone who met that charming little bit of attractiveness when she was here visiting her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Russel L. Tracy a year ago, will be much interested in the following, which comes from Nashville, Tenn., having been published in the Democrat:

"Mr. and Mrs. Hiram B. Stubblefield announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Louise, to Dr. Duncan Eve, Jr. The marriage of these popular young people will unite two of the most prominent families of this section. Since her advent into society Miss Stubblefield has been an acknowledged belle, both on account of her rare beauty and her charming personality. Dr. Eve is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Duncan Eve of this city, and is a young man who has attained marked success in his profession."

There have been three extremely interesting marriages in the past week one of which was a distinct surprise to the bride's local friends—that of Miss Gladys McConaughy and Lieutenant Duncan Grant Richard of Fort Ethan Allen, Vt. The bride is one of the most attractive young girls the city has ever had among its many beauties. Since her graduation from Rowland Hall less than two years ago she has been among the most popular in her set, a set which included a number of the very beautiful young girls. During the present season she has been in Boston pursuing her musical studies, and it was while on a visit to a former schoolmate, Mrs. Sears, at the military post, that the marriage took place.

Another interesting wedding was that of Miss Norma Crusius of Brooklyn and E. L. Carpenter, Jr., of this city, which took place at the home of the bride in Brooklyn on Wednesday last. The young people left immediately after for the west and will be here for a short time with Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter at the Hotel Utah before going on to Portland to make their home.

A local wedding which was also of unusual interest was that of Miss Florence Cooke, one of the debutantes of the season, to Russell Goodman Graham of San Francisco, the son of a well known family there. The young people have gone on a honeymoon trip to southern California, but later will be at home at their country place, Walnut Grove, in Sacramento county.

The marriage of Miss Winnifred Burrows and Edward Fitzpatrick, the assistant director of the Orphan Asylum, will take place on Thursday next at high noon. The wedding will be a quiet one with only the relatives present. The sister of the bride, Mrs. Kathleen Fitzpatrick Atkins, will be here from Denver to attend it.

The engagement is announced of Miss Nellie Coohn of 1180 West Third Street to Grason H. Oakerson of Salt Lake. The marriage will take place in February.

Mr. and Mrs. William Orton announce the engagement of their daughter, Jeanette, to John J. Driver. The marriage will occur in February.

Mr. and Mrs. William Thompson announce the engagement of their daughter, Myrtle, to Harry W. Spencer.

David L. Dean announces the engagement of his daughter, Vera, to M. Squires of Ogden, the marriage to take place February 19.

Mr. and Mrs. David Larsen of Moab announce the engagement of their daughter, Zelma, to Isaac Brown of Springville, the marriage to take place in the Salt Lake temple the latter part of February.

Miscellaneous Events

Mrs. A. G. MacKenzie entertained a luncheon at the Commercial club yesterday in honor of Mrs. Kenneth M. Leau and daughter of Miles City, Mont., who are visiting here. The guests present were Mrs. A. N. Kay, Mrs. R. W. Fisher, Mrs. August C. Beble, Mrs. E. E. Shepard and Miss Dewey.

Miss Genevieve Cottrell entertained the members of the Billiken club Tuesday evening, when the usual tables of 500 were enjoyed. The were won by Mrs. George Schaefer and Miss Rhea Jensen. Supper was served in the dining-room, where decorations were in violet and white. A large basket of violets over a lace centerpiece formed the table decoration. Talles and place cards matched. SAGE TEA BEAUTIFULLY DARKENS THE HAIR WHEN FADED AND GRAY

Mixed With Sulphur Makes Hair Soft, Lustrous and Cures Dandruff.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and abundant with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. But brewing at home is messy and out-of-date. Nowadays skilled chemists do this better than ourselves. By asking at any drug store for the ready-to-use product—called "Weyth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy"—you will get a large bottle for about 60 cents. Some druggists make their own. It is usually too sticky, so insist upon getting "Weyth's," which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is especially adapted for dandruff, dry, feverish, itchy scalp falling hair.
