REDFIELD ORDERS DISASTER PROBED

Charges of Negligence Made Against Captain Osman Berry of Nantucket.

STATEMENT GIVEN OUT Philadelphia Inspectors to Hear the Evidence for Sufficient Reasons.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—Secretary Redfield late today directed charges of negligence be preferred against Captain Osman Berry of the Merchants & Miners' steamship Nantucket, which collided with and sank the Old Dominion liner Monroe, with a loss of forty-one lives, off the Virginia coast last Friday.

Secretary Redfield had previously conferred with Assistant Secretary Sweet, Solicitor Thurman, Inspector General Usher and Commissioner Chamberlain of the bureau of navigation, and with them went over the evidence taken aboard the Nantucket. The possibility of higher officials of the department of commerce going to Norfolk to take further testimony, and on board the Nantucket, was discussed.

The secretary announced that evidence brought out by the inspectors' preliminary inquiry, held on board the Nantucket, while that vessel was making her way into Norfolk with the Monroe's survivors aboard, tends to show that there was negligence on the part of Captain Berry. He added, however, that it would be quite improper to pass on that question at this time, further than to decide that there is sufficient evidence to require that charges be preferred against Captain Berry, and that the question of negligence should be made the subject of further investigation.

While the charges against Captain Berry are under investigation, a special committee of the department, George Usher, supervising inspector general of the steamboat inspection service, and E. J. Chamberlain, supervising inspector of navigation, will inquire into the facts and conditions surrounding the collision with the view to suggesting action by the department of commerce on the lessons taught by the disaster.

Official Statement.
A statement from the department announcing the results of today's conference said: "The department has given instructions to Inspector Tapley to prefer charges against Captain Berry. The board of local inspectors at Philadelphia will hear all the testimony which may be produced on both sides and render its decision. An appeal may be taken from the decision of this board to the supervising inspector of the Philadelphia district, and a further appeal may be taken to the supervising inspector general of the local board of inspectors at Philadelphia. It has been asked to conduct this investigation, because neither vessel sails from that port, and because the local board at Norfolk will appear as bringing charges through the testimony taken by it as above described."

Will Await Report.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—Representative Marshall of Minnesota asked for congressional investigation of the Monroe-Nantucket disaster today, but the house merchant marine committee decided to take no action until the steamboat inspection service has reported its findings.

Both officials displayed a keen desire to aid the state in finishing these projects and putting them in full operation. ## Thomas Releigh Missing When Murder Trial Is Called.

HOUGHTON, Mich., Feb. 2.—Only five defendants responded when the case of the six deputies charged with the murder of two striking copper miners was called in the circuit court today, and the $5000 bond of Thomas Releigh, the missing defendant, was forfeited.

Counsel announced that the other men were ready to go to trial and the case proceeded. No difficulty was experienced in obtaining unbiased jurors and when court adjourned tonight eleven men occupied seats in the jury box, but neither side had exercised any of its peremptory challenges.

As the regular panel was exhausted today, Judge R. C. Flannigan ordered a special venire of 100 men to be procured. Judge Flannigan, who sat in the Roosevelt hotel case at Marquette last spring, is presiding because Judge O'Brien is distantly related to one of the defendants.

Releigh's disappearance was the most interesting development of the day. Although he had not been seen here since last Wednesday night, his bondsmen did not learn until today that he would not appear when his case was called. Releigh was at liberty under $10,000 bond, but only half of this amount was forfeited, because the accused deputies are to have two trials, one for the murder of each of the slain men.

Special Prosecutor George E. Nichols announced that Releigh might be present when the second trial begins. The men on trial are James Cooper, William Groff, Arthur Davis, Harry James and Edwin Robinson. Releigh, Cooper, Groff and Davis are employees of the Waddell-Mallon corporation of New York, the other men are deputy sheriffs employed by the county.

Efforts have been made to apprehend Releigh and have him returned here for trial. He came here from Detroit last July, when the strike began, and has been in this territory continuously since that time. The five other defendants expressed great concern over Releigh's absence, as they were fearful that their bondsmen would surrender them to the sheriff and have them returned to jail. Prospective jurors were closely questioned by opposing counsel as to their local affiliations. Three of those tentatively admitted membership in the "Citizens' alliance." Another admitted that he belonged to the Western Federation of Miners.

inch guns to battleships armed with 12-inch or 13-inch guns.

It was further developed that, according to this comparison in the navy year book, the tonnage of the German battleships was from 10,974, which was the smallest, to 13,991, which was the largest of twenty German battleships, and that of twenty-seven American battleships the smallest was 11,346 and the largest was 18,000 tons. The secretary admitted that, so far as the tonnage of the battleships was concerned, the American navy was greater than that of the Germans, as well as an excess of seven battleships in favor of the American navy.

In regard to the armament of the German twenty battleships, it was developed that ten of them were supplied with four 12-inch guns, four 11-inch in caliber and the other ten each with four guns 11 inches in caliber, while the twenty-seven American battleships are each armed with four 12-inch or 13-inch guns, showing the great superiority of the American battleships in point of the power of guns.

Comparing the dreadnoughts of the German with those of the American navy, it appeared that according to the year book, that the German navy has thirteen and the American has only seven. This result is brought about by the fact that the German dreadnoughts four ships which are armed with 11-inch guns, while all of the dreadnoughts in the American navy are armed with 12 or 13-inch guns. The result was further brought about in the year book by taking out of the German navy the largest dreadnought and the South Carolina, each of which has a tonnage of 16,000 tons and each of which is armed with eight 12-inch guns. The largest American dreadnought is the USS Oregon, which has a tonnage of 22,345 tons and the largest 24,560, while the American navy the lowest tonnage is 16,000 and the highest is 27,000 tons.

Comparing the dreadnoughts of the German with those of the American navy in point of guns, it was developed that four of the German dreadnoughts each has an armament of 12-inch guns, and the other five each an armament of ten 12-inch guns, while in the American navy it appeared that two had an armament of 12-inch guns, two had four, ten 12-inch guns; two of twelve 12-inch guns, and two of ten 14-inch guns, showing the great superiority of the American dreadnoughts in the caliber and power of their guns.

Comparison Made.
Comparing the two navies with reference to dreadnoughts now building, it appeared that the smallest dreadnought now being built in the German navy is 12,000 tons, and the smallest building in the American navy is 27,000 tons; that the largest dreadnought building in the German navy has a tonnage of 25,000, and the largest building in the American navy have a tonnage of 31,400, or an average of 24,000 tons. Comparing the dreadnoughts now building, further, with reference to the armament of the German navy, the largest German dreadnoughts now building have each ten 12-inch guns and that the two largest building have each eight 13-inch guns, while all of the dreadnoughts now building in the American navy have 14-inch guns, and that the largest dreadnought now building has twelve each.

It was further developed, in comparing the two navies with the Japanese navy, that the American navy has thirty-nine battleships and the Japanese navy only nineteen, including the two light navies that are built and building.

Armor Plate Trust.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—Secretary Daniels is convinced there is a worldwide armor plate trust which has divided the globe, "like all Gaul, into three parts," as a result of the monopoly of the armor plate trust, the secretary has informed the public naval affairs committee, the navy department, in its efforts to balk the exportation of armor plate to the German navy, that the armor plate trust is a trust of armor plate producers, has been unable to get a bid from foreign manufacturers.

Although you cannot establish it," the secretary told the committee, "there is no doubt of an armor plate trust all over the world. That is to say, the people abroad who make armor plate will not come here and submit bids, because they know if they do our manufacturers will go there and submit bids. They have divided the world, like all Gaul, into three parts."

"Would you be willing now to build two more battleships with the knowledge that these corporations could beat the government out of much money on armor plate, rather than wait till we could get a reasonable price?" asked Representative Witherspoon of Mississippi.

"I hope," Mr. Daniels replied, "that at the next bidding we can get the prices down, even if we do not build our armor plant. But with salps getting old and the necessity for keeping our navy up to a high standard, I think we had better submit to it for one time than to stop."

Full Quota in Navy.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—For the first time since the civil war the enlisted complement of the navy allowed by law has been filled, and hereafter only specially qualified applicants for the navy will be accepted.

Secretary Daniels made this announcement today in a public office. He attributed it to the adoption in the navy of the general system of education of the enlisted men, to the popularity of the recent European cruise of the fleet, and to the knowledge on the part of young men of the approaching cruise of the Atlantic fleet to the South American expedition.

The secretary received a number of reports indicating that the daily schools aboard ship are successful beyond expectation, and that the men are enthusiastically supported by the enlisted men.

EAT LESS MEAT IF BACK HURTS

Take a glass of Salts to flush kidneys if bladder bothers you.

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked, get sluggish, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region, rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.
