

CEARS HEARST

CONTINUED FROM FIRST PAGE

Increase of "successful" business... have enormously increased their capitalization beyond either their investment or the value of their property fairly used in business.

One of the great obstacles to the progress of these evils has been the unwillingness or inability of the States to control corporations doing business in all the States.

War Waged by the President. Let me tell you that our own State is not blameless in this respect, and that we need a Hughes at Albany with the skill and courage to deal with that subject as he dealt with the insurance subject.

Rate Tax Justified. Under this statute also it was necessary to sweep away defenses which stood as a barrier to general presentation.

Taken Up by Federal Government. For the accomplishment of this due measure of control, which from time immemorial our laws have recognized as necessary, the government of the United States has taken up the task where the several States have failed, and is performing and purposes to perform its duty not beyond but to the full limit of its constitutional power.

Trusts That Have Been Curbed. The Northern Securities Company, which sought to combine and prevent competition between two great continental railroads, has been forced to dissolve by the judgment of the Supreme Court of the United States.

The combination of paper manufacturers in the territory from Chicago to the Rocky Mountains has been dissolved by the judgment of the Supreme Court, and the combination of the West has been dissolved in like manner.

The "Immunity Bath." The salt combination has been indicted and convicted and fined for failing to obey the injunction against its operations.

William Randolph Hearst, the Man. You know all about his newspapers, but there is much you do not know about Hearst himself, and the man who makes his newspapers.

William Randolph Hearst, the Man. You know all about his newspapers, but there is much you do not know about Hearst himself, and the man who makes his newspapers.

William Randolph Hearst, the Man. You know all about his newspapers, but there is much you do not know about Hearst himself, and the man who makes his newspapers.

William Randolph Hearst, the Man. You know all about his newspapers, but there is much you do not know about Hearst himself, and the man who makes his newspapers.

William Randolph Hearst, the Man. You know all about his newspapers, but there is much you do not know about Hearst himself, and the man who makes his newspapers.

New Jersey statute was just as much a violation of Federal law as if there had been no incorporation.

In the Beef Trust case the Supreme Court held that, although the business of manufacture was carried on within the limits of a single State, yet the purchase of the raw material in different States and the sale of finished product in different States brought the business within the interstate commerce clause of the Constitution.

After the Elkins anti-rebate law was passed by Congress in 1903, it was supposed, and the Interstate Commerce Commission reported, that the railroads had substantially abandoned giving rebates.

Thereupon the Department of Justice began active prosecutions for the enforcement of the law. Fifty-three indictments have been found against hundreds of defendants and covering many hundreds of transactions.

Under this statute also it was necessary to sweep away defenses which stood as a barrier to general presentation.

Overcapitalization is an evil peculiarity of the control of State governments, and one for which we ought to have in every State capital a man who can do what Mr. Hughes has shown himself capable of doing.

Pure Food and Meat Inspection. Nor should other evils with which the Federal Government is grappling be forgotten—the pure food act and the meat inspection act of the last session of Congress.

Underlying both of these and necessary to both is political purity, for without that neither legislatures nor courts can be pure.

How stands his record as a legislator? He has had opportunity to prove his capacity and sincerity in that field.

His Record in Congress. What did he do? Why, he did nothing; during the three years that he has been in Congress that year has been in session 47 days; there have been 186 recorded votes by you and may; he was present and voting at but 22, and present without voting at two; leaving 169 out of the 186 roll calls from which he was absent, and 42 out of the 467 days of legislative session when there is no evidence of his presence; his voice was heard in that Congress in those three years but once, and that was for ten minutes in a personal explanation regarding an article published in the New York American; he did not even contribute a motion to adjourn to the business of Congress.

William Randolph Hearst, the Man. You know all about his newspapers, but there is much you do not know about Hearst himself, and the man who makes his newspapers.

William Randolph Hearst, the Man. You know all about his newspapers, but there is much you do not know about Hearst himself, and the man who makes his newspapers.

William Randolph Hearst, the Man. You know all about his newspapers, but there is much you do not know about Hearst himself, and the man who makes his newspapers.

William Randolph Hearst, the Man. You know all about his newspapers, but there is much you do not know about Hearst himself, and the man who makes his newspapers.

William Randolph Hearst, the Man. You know all about his newspapers, but there is much you do not know about Hearst himself, and the man who makes his newspapers.

William Randolph Hearst, the Man. You know all about his newspapers, but there is much you do not know about Hearst himself, and the man who makes his newspapers.

William Randolph Hearst, the Man. You know all about his newspapers, but there is much you do not know about Hearst himself, and the man who makes his newspapers.

VILLIFICATION OF PUBLIC MEN IN MR. HEARST'S NEWSPAPERS.

Joseph H. Choate, the leader of the American bar, whose honored and distinguished career is known the world over, has been the pride of all true Americans, is stigmatized as "a servile lickspittle of corporations."

George B. McClellan, Congressman, mayor of New York, and worthy heir of an honored name, as a "fraud mayor," "office thief," and "the dead cat in the City Hall."

Alton B. Parker, chief justice of the State, candidate of the Democratic party for the Presidency, as "a cockroach, a waterbug."

John Sharp Williams, leader of the Democratic party in the House of Representatives, as "a railroad attorney."

John Hay, the great Secretary of State, the cherished friend of Lincoln— noble, pure, virile American, lover of his country and his kind, whose authorship has adorned our literature, and whose wise, strong statesmanship has lifted high the prestige of America throughout the world.

Others doubtless did the work Mr. Hearst was sent to Washington to do, but it is of public interest to know that this man who offers himself for a great public office on the strength of what he has written in the newspapers about legislative reforms and the duties of a public officer, failed to perform his own duty as a public officer—the only office he has ever held.

How does he stand regarding the courts? There, indeed, if he is to be taken at his own estimate he should be found inflexible and independent judiciary should be his dearest hope.

His own corporate manumement shows the insincerity of his professions. Not only does he conduct his extensive newspaper business through corporations, but he has established separate corporations for separate newspapers and he has established a holding corporation to hold the stock of these separate corporations.

It is seldom indeed that a man so young, whose public career has been so brief, so small a portion of whose life is known at all to the public, has furnished such convincing proofs of his unfitness for office.

The worst of Mr. Hearst is that with his great wealth, with his great newspapers, with his army of paid agents, for his own selfish purpose, he has been day by day and year by year sowing the seeds of dissension and strife and hatred throughout our land; he would array labor against capital and capital against labor; poverty against wealth and wealth against poverty, with bitter and vindictive feelings; he would destroy among the great mass of our people that brotherly and friendly spirit, that consideration for the interests and rights of others, that brotherhood of citizenship which are essential to the peaceful conduct of a popular government; he would destroy that respect for law, that love of order, that confidence in our free institutions which are the basis of our true freedom.

It is not the calm and lawful redress of wrongs which he seeks. It is the turmoil of inflamed passions and the terrorism of the mob, the spread of the spirit of revengeful force; he spreads the seeds of discord, and he is guided by the selfish motives of the revolutionist, and he would plunge our people into the turmoil and discord of perpetual conflict out of which the republics of South America are now happily passing.

Does any one question the justice of these statements? Then let him turn to the pages of the newspapers through the ownership of which Mr. Hearst is pressing his political fortunes.

What public servant honored by the people's trust has he not assailed with vile and vulgar epithets; what branch of our free government has he not taught his readers to believe a corrupt agency of oppression?

And to this: "The board of elections has already begun its disgraceful and discreditable work. It has allowed the people's petitions entrusted to its care to be marked and mutilated and destroyed. It has thrown out petitions by the score, and its action has been sustained by the courts even as the courts last year decided that you, as citizens, had no right to have your votes honestly counted, but must abide by its returns, no matter how false, of corrupt election officials."

And to this: "The effort is being made now by the criminal trusts to crush out the power of the people in the American government. These trusts control your parties, control your primaries, control your public officers, and deny you the right to any government that will express the popular will. You are deserted and betrayed by the public officers that should sustain you, and by the so-called free press that should support you."

And to this: "The effort is being made now by the criminal trusts to crush out the power of the people in the American government. These trusts control your parties, control your primaries, control your public officers, and deny you the right to any government that will express the popular will. You are deserted and betrayed by the public officers that should sustain you, and by the so-called free press that should support you."

VILLIFICATION OF PUBLIC MEN.

Joseph H. Choate, the leader of the American bar, whose honored and distinguished career is known the world over, has been the pride of all true Americans, is stigmatized as "a servile lickspittle of corporations."

George B. McClellan, Congressman, mayor of New York, and worthy heir of an honored name, as a "fraud mayor," "office thief," and "the dead cat in the City Hall."

Alton B. Parker, chief justice of the State, candidate of the Democratic party for the Presidency, as "a cockroach, a waterbug."

John Sharp Williams, leader of the Democratic party in the House of Representatives, as "a railroad attorney."

John Hay, the great Secretary of State, the cherished friend of Lincoln— noble, pure, virile American, lover of his country and his kind, whose authorship has adorned our literature, and whose wise, strong statesmanship has lifted high the prestige of America throughout the world.

Others doubtless did the work Mr. Hearst was sent to Washington to do, but it is of public interest to know that this man who offers himself for a great public office on the strength of what he has written in the newspapers about legislative reforms and the duties of a public officer, failed to perform his own duty as a public officer—the only office he has ever held.

How does he stand regarding the courts? There, indeed, if he is to be taken at his own estimate he should be found inflexible and independent judiciary should be his dearest hope.

His own corporate manumement shows the insincerity of his professions. Not only does he conduct his extensive newspaper business through corporations, but he has established separate corporations for separate newspapers and he has established a holding corporation to hold the stock of these separate corporations.

It is seldom indeed that a man so young, whose public career has been so brief, so small a portion of whose life is known at all to the public, has furnished such convincing proofs of his unfitness for office.

The worst of Mr. Hearst is that with his great wealth, with his great newspapers, with his army of paid agents, for his own selfish purpose, he has been day by day and year by year sowing the seeds of dissension and strife and hatred throughout our land; he would array labor against capital and capital against labor; poverty against wealth and wealth against poverty, with bitter and vindictive feelings; he would destroy among the great mass of our people that brotherly and friendly spirit, that consideration for the interests and rights of others, that brotherhood of citizenship which are essential to the peaceful conduct of a popular government; he would destroy that respect for law, that love of order, that confidence in our free institutions which are the basis of our true freedom.

It is not the calm and lawful redress of wrongs which he seeks. It is the turmoil of inflamed passions and the terrorism of the mob, the spread of the spirit of revengeful force; he spreads the seeds of discord, and he is guided by the selfish motives of the revolutionist, and he would plunge our people into the turmoil and discord of perpetual conflict out of which the republics of South America are now happily passing.

Does any one question the justice of these statements? Then let him turn to the pages of the newspapers through the ownership of which Mr. Hearst is pressing his political fortunes.

What public servant honored by the people's trust has he not assailed with vile and vulgar epithets; what branch of our free government has he not taught his readers to believe a corrupt agency of oppression?

And to this: "The board of elections has already begun its disgraceful and discreditable work. It has allowed the people's petitions entrusted to its care to be marked and mutilated and destroyed. It has thrown out petitions by the score, and its action has been sustained by the courts even as the courts last year decided that you, as citizens, had no right to have your votes honestly counted, but must abide by its returns, no matter how false, of corrupt election officials."

And to this: "The effort is being made now by the criminal trusts to crush out the power of the people in the American government. These trusts control your parties, control your primaries, control your public officers, and deny you the right to any government that will express the popular will. You are deserted and betrayed by the public officers that should sustain you, and by the so-called free press that should support you."

And to this: "The effort is being made now by the criminal trusts to crush out the power of the people in the American government. These trusts control your parties, control your primaries, control your public officers, and deny you the right to any government that will express the popular will. You are deserted and betrayed by the public officers that should sustain you, and by the so-called free press that should support you."

W. B. MOSES & SONS, Inc. This $42 Brass Bed, $31.50. A carload of beds of this pattern arrived Thursday. The samples are now on the floors. One of the most attractive design shown. Two-inch continuous posts, heavy fillings. Our contract with the manufacturer—the largest maker of Brass Beds in the world—puts us in the unique position of being able to retail beds at what most dealers pay wholesale. W. B. MOSES & SONS, Inc. F Street, Corner 11th.

nation when the fatal blow had been struck and that strong and gentle spirit had departed, lauded the dead President to the skies, and said of him in the New York Journal: "Nowhere in the history of great men's lives, or of great men's deaths, can be found such resignation and deep religious faith as marked the last hours of William McKinley. He faced the other world and the other life with the quiet, confident hope of a man who has done his best. Slowly the heart's strength died out. It had carried him through two wars, through many political battles, through many long days of toil, through many years of hard work and serious purpose, through the life of a simple Christian citizen. He worked hard. He interested himself in his country's welfare. He succeeded; he reached the highest place in the nation. He exercised and represented the greatest of earthly powers. He was called a second time to the highest position that men can give to any man. He ended his life as he began it—a simple, Christian citizen."

Not Guiltless of McKinley's Death. Is there no one left who loved McKinley? Are there no working men left in New York who cannot see with satisfaction the reign of peace and order that is not guilless of McKinley's death? The same kind of teaching is being continued month by month and day by day in the Hearst journals. Its legitimate consequence, if continued, must be other weak dupes playing the role of Czolgosz; other McKinleys stretched upon the bier; discord and bloody strife in the streets and in the homes; anarchy throughout our fair land. It is not the spirit of Washington and of Lincoln; it is the spirit of malice for all and charity toward none; it is the spirit of anarchy, of communism, of Kishinef, and of Bismarck.

Men of New York, do you love your country? Are you not proud of your country? Are not its liberties, its justice, its equal laws, the best that weak and erring men have ever yet attained in this world? Have not those of you who have come to us from other lands found better conditions of life, better employment, better wages, greater personal independence and dignity, better opportunities for your children than ever before? Do you wish to join your voices to that which declares this freest of republics, this freest result of government by the people, to be all vile and rotten and disgraceful?

God Forbid His Election. The public knows the character of Mr. Hearst only by the newspapers he publishes, and God forbid that we should set up in the high station of governor of New York, for the admiration and imitation of our children, the man whose character is reflected in the columns of the New York Journal and the New York American.

The immediate and necessary effect of Mr. Hearst's election would be to deprive the President of the means of governing the State of New York; it would be to strengthen the President's enemies and opponents and to weaken and embarrass him in the pursuit of his policy.

Help the President. I beg the workmen of New York who may hear or read my words to think upon these questions. Do you believe in President Roosevelt? Do you agree with his policy in pursuing and preventing corporate wrongdoing? Do you wish that he may be able to continue that policy with power and success?

Murder Charged History. "There has been much assassination in the world, from the assassination of some old rulers who needed assassination to the assassination of men in England, who, driven to steal by hunger, were caught and hanged most legally."

Roosevelt's View of Hearst. President Roosevelt and Mr. Hearst stand as far as the poles asunder. Listen to what President Roosevelt himself has said of Mr. Hearst and his kind. In President Roosevelt's first message to Congress, in speaking of the assassin of McKinley, he spoke of him as indicted "by the reckless utterances of those who, on the stump and in the public press, appeal to the dark and evil spirits of malice and greed, envy and sullen hatred. The wind is sown by the men who preach such doctrines, and they cannot escape their share of responsibility for the whirlwind that is reaped. This applies alike to the deliberate demagogue, to the exponent of sensationalism, and to the reckless visionary, who, for whatever reason, apologizes for crime or excites amiles discontent."

Always the same. Tharp's Pure Berkeley Rye. 812 F St. N. W. Phone Main 1141. Special Private Delivery.

show Hearst's lack of interest in behalf of his constituents, the first of two unadvised incidents occurred. Mr. Root was producing figures giving the number of times Hearst had missed roll-calls in the lower branch of Congress, when a man in the gallery jumped to his feet and cried: "That's a lie!" The crowd shouted for his removal, but Mr. Root asked the policeman to permit him to remain, and the speaker soon showed his interruptor how he was laboring under a misapprehension of the facts.

When Mr. Root referred to Hearst and his newspapers as being responsible in large measure for the assassination of McKinley, two men, seated on the stage near the speaker, jumped to their feet and shouted: "That's not so! McKinley's death. Let him rest!" Two policemen hustled the intruders into the street. The incident caused considerable excitement for a few moments.

Subsequently it was reported that the interruptions were the result of a plot concocted and having for its object an attempt to break up the speech. After the meeting a New Yorker in the audience related to a group of reporters that he recognized the interrupters as passengers who traveled with him from New York to-day, and he had overheard them rehearse the details of the plan to confuse Secretary Root.

Mr. Hughes also spoke from the same platform and was accorded a rousing reception. GRIGGS HITS OUT AT TAFT Declares Secretary in Going to Idaho Aids Mormonism. Democratic Chairman Enters Protest and Says Move Indicates Resort to Heroic Measures.

So indignant is Chairman J. M. Griggs, of the Democratic Congressional Committee, because Secretary Taft is going to Idaho to help out the Republican ticket, that he has penned the following observations: "I note with sincerest regret that my good friend, Secretary Taft, has been ordered to Idaho to make speeches in behalf of the administration, when it is that he is going there for the purpose of advocating something this administration has popularly been supposed to denounce and abhor."

"When the President sends his best man into Idaho to assist his administration, he is doing nothing except helping to propagate the Mormon faith and advocating the Mormon Church, because the Mormon Church is the Republican party of Utah and Idaho. To this I enter my solemn protest in behalf of the Democratic party, which is opposed to the Mormon faith, the Mormon Church, and its polygamous practices and teachings."

"It is an indication of the extremity of the Republican party in this campaign, when it sends its heavy-weight to endorse Mormonism, and thereby hold only one member of Congress from that State and possibly one from Utah."

"It evidences the fact that my good friend Senator Fred Dubois is making a fight in Idaho and the Mormon country that has frightened the souls of our Republican adversaries and impels them to use heroic measures."

"If the good women of this country, who abhor polygamy and Mormonism, can look on this spectacle of the champion of this administration in the person of Secretary Taft, for whom I have the highest personal regard, going into Idaho to further seal the pact between Republicanism and Mormonism with complacency, then I will be astonished, and can only cry that 'This is a d-d wicked world we live in Sir Oliver.'"

Dover Predicts Hughes' Election. That Charles E. Hughes, Republican candidate for governor of New York, will carry that State by a plurality of at least 100,000 is the prediction of Elmer Dover, secretary of the Republican National Committee. Secretary Dover is here on route to Ohio, where he goes to vote. He was in New York Wednesday, and discussed the political situation with a large number of well-informed leaders. He bases his prophecy on the fact that Hughes has the data gathered by them. In the opinion of Mr. Dover, the Republicans will have a majority in the next House of from 40 to 60.

William Randolph Hearst, the Man. You know all about his newspapers, but there is much you do not know about Hearst himself, and the man who makes his newspapers. Read next Sunday's issue of The Washington Herald. It will tell you about the men and the methods that have precipitated the bitterest and most notable campaign in the history of American politics. November 4 is the date, and The Washington Herald the paper.