

PRINCE REVISES PLAN

Henry of Russ Stops to Visit Friend in Maryland.

WILL REACH CAPITAL TO-DAY

Royal Visitor Expects Arrangements Made for His Entertainment—To Be the Guest of the German Embassy at a Luncheon for Twenty To-day.

Prince Henry of Russ, of the German imperial family, who is on his return from his visit to the United States, failed to arrive in Washington yesterday.

He will get here to-day, and be met at the depot by the third secretary of the German Embassy, Dr. von Kullmann, who will accompany him to his hotel.

The prince changed his plans and stopped off last night, on his way to Washington, at the estate of William T. Woodward, in Prince George's County, Md. His stopping at the residence of Mr. Woodward last night has caused some changes in the programme arranged for his welcome. He was not expected to visit Mr. Woodward until after he had been received here.

Ambassador Speck von Sternburg announced last night that the prince would arrive in this city some time in the night, and that he would be the guest of the German Legation this afternoon at a luncheon. The table will be set for twenty.

This afternoon, it is said, Prince Henry will visit and inspect the Washington Navy Yard. Beyond this no arrangements have been made for his entertainment in this city. It is also said that he will leave this city to-morrow night for New York, and for Hamburg Tuesday morning.

Wants No Formality.

The prince has expressed a desire that there should be no formal entertainments given in his honor, as the purpose of his visit to the United States is principally to inspect the shipping and manufacturing interests of this country, and he desired that his wish should be complied with during his short stay in this city, and therefore, his visit to the United States has been without the usual pomp which marks the visits of the other members of Europe's royal families.

The State Department has received no official announcement of the prince's coming. He is accompanied by Lieut. Franz Rintelen, who will make his stay while here with the prince.

Prince Henry, in his capacity as naval attaché to the German Embassy, has been in China for over a year. Being granted a leave of absence of several months by Emperor William, he decided to return to his native land by the way of San Francisco and to make a tour of the United States, making only two stops on his way from the Pacific Coast.

Visited Mrs. Livingstone. While in Philadelphia last week he was the guest of Mrs. Livingstone, and his time was absorbed by society. Yesterday before leaving for Washington he made a tour of Cramps ship yards, looking carefully over the most modern improvements for the construction of the greatest battle ships to the buildings of a mere pleasure yacht.

The prince is greatly interested in machinery, and is considered a mechanical expert of great ability, having spent part of his youth in the Imperial shipbuilding yards in Kiel.

Sues on Contract.

William H. Schmidt, of Newport, R. I., yesterday filed a petition in the District Supreme Court against Abbey H. Phelps, of this city, to require her to specifically perform a written contract to sell Mr. Schmidt lot 78 in Dennison and Leighton's subdivision of Mount Pleasant and Pleasant Plains. Mr. Schmidt, it is claimed, agreed to convey to Mrs. Phelps the Hixley apartment house, subject to certain circumstances, in consideration of which Mrs. Phelps agreed to transfer lot 78 in Dennison and Leighton's subdivision to Schmidt. Schmidt asserts he has fully carried out his part of the contract and tendered the deed to his property to Mrs. Phelps. He alleges she repudiates the contract and declines to fulfill it.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, Weather Bureau, Washington, Saturday, Nov. 3, 1906.—3 p. m. The barometer continues high over the eastern portion of the United States, and is highest over Ontario. A strong wind from the west is entering the Pacific coast, and a minimum temperature of 23.9 inches at Tahiti, Hawaii. There has been a light but general rise in temperature to all parts of the Pacific coast. Fair weather has continued over the Eastern States, and the southern portion of the Florida Peninsula, where heavy rain has fallen. Scattered rains have occurred in areas from the Mississippi Valley to the Pacific coast.

Fair weather will continue Sunday east of the Mississippi, except over the southern portion of the Florida Peninsula. West of the Mississippi the weather will be more or less cloudy and unsettled, with rain in the Southwestern States, and from the Middle Atlantic coast over the Northern Rocky Mountain districts. There will be a further slight rise in temperature from the plateau regions to the Atlantic coast.

During Sunday the winds along the New England coast will be fresh from the Northwest, on the Atlantic coast light and variable, with fresh from the South Atlantic and Gulf coasts light to fresh from east to northeast, and on the Great Lakes light to fresh.

Special Forecast. Storm warnings are displayed on the Washington and Oregon coasts.

DOCTOR DRUGGED AND ROBBED.

Young Samaritan from Charlottesville Fell Among Philistines.

A young physician from Charlottesville, W. Va., who came to Washington Friday afternoon with a patient who was to be operated on, awoke yesterday morning in a bewildered condition. He was sure he had gotten rid of his patient somewhere, and had a recollection of spending the afternoon with some friends, but from the end of the first turn at a local theater his mind is a blank.

His story is that he was standing in the lobby of the National Hotel about 6 o'clock when an affable stranger approached him and grasped his hand. The doctor greeted the stranger with cordiality when he learned that they had many mutual acquaintances in Virginia. The stranger suggested a drink and the doctor assented; also when a theater was suggested by the stranger. After the first turn at the theater the pair sought out an oyster house, and although the doctor was able to eat a dozen raw, the stranger preferred a little liquor.

Soon after the physician began to forget things, and toward midnight attracted the attention of a police officer, who soon had him speeding to the hospital in an ambulance. In the morning the doctor discovered that he had not only lost his friend, but that $20 and his railroad ticket had also taken their departure.

Dr. White and Jones, of the Emergency Hospital, found the doctor had really been drugged, and Detectives Pratt and Hewitt are now investigating the case.

BOARD OF TRADE ELECTION

Ten Directors Will Be Voted For at Coming Meeting.

Feeling Exists that "New Blood" Should Be Injected Into Body. Much Interest Being Shown.

The annual meeting of the Washington Board of Trade will be held at the New Willard Monday evening, November 12, at which time ten directors will be elected to serve three years.

The names of the directors whose terms will expire are: W. P. Elton, W. V. Cox, R. N. Harper, John R. Larner, P. L. Moore, Theodore W. Noyes, R. Ross Perry, J. H. Small, Jr., George M. Sternberg, and J. H. Vainer.

Under the by-laws of the Board of Trade it is necessary to send in the names of persons to be nominated for official positions to the secretary some time in advance of the election. This has been done, and the list of directors to be voted for are the above-named and the following:

John L. Weaver, real estate (Weaver Bros.); W. T. Gallier, lumber merchant; Edgar D. Shaw, editor Washington Times; Edwin C. Graham, president National Electrical Supply Company; L. J. Adams, lawyer (Baldwin & Adams); Byron S. Adams, printing and engraving; Scott C. Bonn, editor Washington Herald.

It is said there is a feeling among the members of the Board of Trade that the time has come when "new blood" should be injected into the directorate of the body, and these more have been put forward. It is said, from among those who are representative of the new spirit of enterprise which has manifested itself in the District during the past six or seven months.

It is argued for the newly nominated members that they are all men of affairs and have the best interests of the National Capital at heart, and that they represent the progressive business of the city at heart; that they are no less progressive than those named, and that the affairs of the association can be best conserved by leaving it in their experienced hands.

The annual meeting bids fair to be largely attended, and it goes without saying that great interest will be taken in the election.

ARREST SIDEWALK BLOCKERS

Police Take In 45 Negroes Who Congregated on Seventh Street.

Fifteen Fervish Ball and the Rest Spend Night in Jail—Authorities Determined to Stop Nuisance.

Forty-five negroes were arrested on Seventh street northwest, between K and Q, by officers of the Second precinct last night. They were charged with various offenses, the principal one being obstructing the sidewalk and disorderly assembly.

Fifteen of the prisoners deposited collateral to the amount of $3 each, and the other thirty are locked up in the Second precinct station, awaiting trial in the Police Court Monday morning.

As a consequence of these wholesale arrests the station was crowded and cell space put at a premium.

Last Saturday night thirty-eight arrests of negroes were made in the same section for the same offenses. Frequent complaints have been received that the negroes blocked the sidewalks completely along this section of Seventh street, and made it unpleasant for women who found it necessary to pass that way.

The police are doing their best to abate this nuisance, and in stating the arrests will be continued until better conditions prevail. This part of Seventh street has long been a congregating place for negroes from all sections in the city, and its relief from present conditions will be a great comfort to those living in the vicinity.

Negro Has Smallpox. Carl Landen, colored, 314 P street southwest, found to be suffering from smallpox, was removed to the smallpox hospital.

Eight other occupants of the house, two men, three women, and three children, were removed to the quarantine ward, but thus far none of the party has shown any symptoms of the disease. This is the first case called to the attention of the officials since July 3.

Boy Returns Home. Preston H. Lynn, the fourteen-year-old boy who disappeared from home, 233 McLean avenue, on October 23, returned home yesterday afternoon, apparently none the worse for his short sojourn. He would make no statement as to his whereabouts.

WANT EXONERATION

Mrs. Alexander's Grandchildren Seek to Clear Names.

ANXIOUS FOR POLICE INQUIRY

Claim Statement of Aged Woman Permits Suspicion to Rest on Them. Factions Have Separate Schedules for Meal Hours—Live in Different Parts of Mansion.

Formal demand was made upon Mrs. Columbus Alexander yesterday by her grandchildren for a statement exonerating them from any suspicion possible in connection with the thefts which have been occurring in the Alexander home, and which have divided the household into two bitterly opposed factions.

This demand was made, as forecast in The Herald yesterday, because the Fendall Alexander children believe they have been placed in an unjust light by the statement issued by Mrs. Alexander a few days ago, which has since been interpreted by them as being intended solely as an exoneration of Mrs. Catherine F. Russell, the only surviving child of Mrs. Alexander.

The demand was made by a grandson of the aged woman, James Alexander. He is one of the two members of the Fendall Alexander faction that are not living at the homestead in Georgetown. He is at present a resident at 2115 P street.

While he has hitherto kept out of the imbroglio, he decided yesterday that matters had gone so far as to warrant decisive action, and on behalf of his brothers and sisters he went to his grandmother and, explaining the situation as it is, asked her to give him a statement for publication that would clear all suspicion from his nearest relatives.

Grandmother Refuses. Mrs. Alexander, however, was firm in her determination not to say anything more regarding the matter. She assured him she wished to restore peace in the family, but did not feel inclined to add to what she had already given out. As the result of her determination, Mr. Alexander last night issued a short statement in lieu of the one he sought from his grandmother, which was worded as follows:

James Alexander's Statement. "In view of the fact that Mrs. Columbus Alexander has seen fit to issue a statement completely exonerating Mrs. C. F. Russell, because of the influence exercised over Mrs. Alexander by Mrs. Russell and her daughters, who came here for that purpose, I wish to state that I favor a full police investigation of the robberies.

"I am desirous that nothing be left undone to fix the guilt on the proper parties, inasmuch as I feel that the statement given out the other day by my grandmother is so worded that it casts a reflection on my brothers and sisters, who are living in the same house with Mrs. Alexander.

"I know that they are absolutely innocent, and I know that no suspicion has been directed toward them, but I do not wish the public to get the wrong impression regarding them through the peculiar wording of the statements made by grandmother.

The other daughters referred to are Mrs. Emily and Mrs. Hays. The former lives at Florence Court, and her sister, Mrs. Hays, is a resident of Westbury, Long Island, to which place she has now returned.

Just what will be the outcome of the statement made by James Alexander is uncertain, but that it will bring the struggle between the two factions to a head is hardly to be doubted.

The situation in the famous old Alexander home has already reached a point that is absolutely without parallel.

Family Splits Up. Now, that her two daughters are no longer with her, Mrs. Russell is left to represent her side of the struggle alone. She is constantly with Mrs. Alexander, caring for her various wants and ministering to her in every way.

On the other side are Mrs. Fendall Alexander and her children, to the number of five. Between Mrs. Russell and the others there is absolutely no intercourse. They have separate sides of the house, and the only portion of the mansion used in common is the dining-room, and to avoid embarrassing them they have arranged separate schedules for meal hours.

Different Meal Hours. The time table is as follows: 7:30 a. m.—Mrs. Russell and Mrs. Alexander have breakfast. 8:00 a. m.—Mrs. Fendall Alexander and her children have their breakfast. 12:30 p. m.—Luncheon for the Fendall Alexanders. 1:30 p. m.—Former dinner hour of Mrs. Russell. 4:00 p. m.—Present dinner hour of Mrs. Russell. 6:30 p. m.—Dinner hour of the Fendall Alexanders.

By this plan the two factions manage to avoid each other most of the time, but the strained relations are making it difficult to maintain even this condition of affairs for any length of time, and as suggested by The Herald yesterday, some action will probably be taken soon by the grandchildren to relieve this strange state of affairs.

It should be mentioned, in passing, that so far as can be learned Mrs. Fendall Alexander is not taking active part in the controversy, and would be content to drop the whole matter if it would serve to restore peace in the family.

ST. LOUIS SHORTAGE.

Subtreasury Loss There Is $61,500 and Disappearance Is Baffling.

Gideon C. Bantz, the examiner sent by the Treasury Department to St. Louis to investigate the reported shortage in the subtreasury there, returned to Washington yesterday and informed the department that the full amount named—$61,500—is missing.

Just who got the big sum is not known yet, but the investigation to determine the guilt is to be continued.

The examiners have not been able to find it even, just how the money was taken, but apparently it was prepared at once. The Treasury officials are extremely reticent regarding the affair, and aside from confirming the fact of the shortage being proven, refused to discuss the case. They decline especially to say what will be done in the case of young Dyer, the thief who was suspended at the time the shortage was discovered. He is said to have known of the trouble two days before he prepared it, but whether or not the inquiry has connected him to a more serious extent with the loss of the money cannot be learned.

Fight to Preserve Erdman Act. The Department of Justice is taking steps to preserve the Erdman arbitration act from destruction by district judges. This act was written by Attorney General Olney under the Cleveland administration, and it forbids interstate carriers from enforcing blacklists. Several cases under this act are scheduled for trial in the near future at Nashville, Tenn., and in Kentucky.

CRAZED BY CIGARETTES.

Roy McKnight's Father Says Boy Is Not Responsible for Acts.

The case against Roy A. McKnight, the man who was accused of passing a worthless check on C. J. Hunt, was nolle prossed in the district attorney's office yesterday morning. C. D. McKnight, the father of the boy, arrived here early yesterday and went immediately to the City Hall, where, after stating the case fully to District Attorney Given, he was told that he might take his son with him. In the meantime the pretty little bride was waiting with tear-dimmed eyes to hear the verdict, and when it was announced she immediately conveyed the glad tidings to her spouse.

The elder man told a pathetic story. He said that his boy was insane, and had but lately escaped from a sanatorium in Virginia, where for the past year he had been incarcerated. The physicians, he stated, had pronounced the boy to be mentally deranged and in no way responsible for his actions. The father said: "My boy has cost me over $3,000 in two years, and I attribute his actions to the excessive use of cigarettes."

The young couple and the father left yesterday afternoon for Virginia, where he will place the boy in an asylum, much against the will of the young bride, who wished to stay with him. The family of McKnight are prostrated with mortification and grief, although they feel that the young man is not responsible for his actions.

CUPID FINDS NO WAY OUT

When License Is Refused, Couple Comes Back Unwed.

Andrew Hartley Is Under Age, and Maryland Law Will Make No Concessions. The disappointed couple at Rockville were due to the cold unfeelingness of the law. Hartley being refused a license because he was not quite twenty-one years of age. The couple returned to Washington, Hartley announcing his intention of getting the written consent of his parents and returning to have their happiness made complete. Up to a late hour last night, however, they had not reached the stage where they may live happily ever after. The cause of the delay could not be learned.

Hartley is employed as a pressman on one of the local afternoon papers, but was not in when a reporter called last night. He is a son of Lieut. Hartley, of the First precinct, and when the lieutenant was seen, and discovered the nature of the questions being asked, he was immediately seized with a bad case of reticence.

He admitted that he had knowledge of his son was calling upon an young lady, and that the affair was getting "sweet," but if he did not have any objections to his son getting married, but he had not been approached on the subject. Whether or not he had or would give his written consent, he refused to divulge, but volunteered the statement that he had eaten breakfast with his son in the morning, and he supposed he would go out that he had gone to his work.

"No wedding bells for them—not yet, but soon." Andrew J. Hartley and Miss Mary A. Gibson, a young couple of this city, who went to Rockville, Md., Thursday afternoon to be made one, have not yet been united in wedlock.
