SHAW DECLINES TO GIVE AID

Secretary of the Treasury Does Not Believe Business Interests Are Suffering Harm from Conditions of Money Market—Twenty Per Cent Asked During Day for Call Money.

New York, Nov. 12.—In addition to the stringency of the money situation and to other causes making for a greater or less degree of uneasiness in the stock market, affairs, Wall street was forced to take notice to-day of the demands now making for larger pay on the part of employees of many of the country's leading railway systems.

Circumstances of this sort, it must be said, would not have been of themselves considered, under ordinary conditions, as potent influences of adverse bearing on the stock market. Since it appears to be the prevailing belief that not only will the increases in pay be voluntarily granted by so many large railway and industrial corporations to the men in their employ something like a general movement of this kind is underway, it is realized, however, that all corporations are not as readily able to increase wages as the Pennsylvania Railroad and the Standard Oil Company, and in some cases an elevation of wage scales will work hardship to the corporations concerned.

It developed after the close of the stock market on Saturday that the firm on the line of the Erie are now voting the question of whether or not they will accede to an increase of pay that the company has thus far refused to grant. The statement of the president of the Erie company published in to-day's afternoon papers showed with what difficulty the company could enter upon any such enlarged distribution of wages as is asked for.

Market Is Little Depressed.

Nevertheless, it is an old and well-tested adage in the financial district that it does not do to sell stocks because of labor troubles or rumors of labor troubles, and neither the Erie issues in particular nor the railway list of securities in general were materially depressed by liquidation proceeding from fears of this nature.

The sole force operating against the stock market to-day was the continued strength of rates for the use of money. The active stocks opened generally about a point lower than they closed on Saturday, the fall being induced by lower quotations from London and the moral certainty that before the day was over something of a money squeeze would be experienced.

Pessimistic sentiment was also increased by the publication of dispatches from Washington declaring that the Secretary of the Treasury had affirmed in the strongest manner his determination not to make intervention in any way for the relief of the market, and that he was proved to him that business interests were suffering greater harm from the existing conditions of affairs than they new seemed to be.

Call Money at 20 Per Cent.

During the first hour on the stock exchange liquidation for the account of London was the feature of business, the sales made by foreign houses being, as was estimated, about 30,000 shares. In London the discount rate in the open market rose for the first time to the full level of the 6 per cent rate established by the Bank of England, while the charge for carrying American stocks until the next financial settlement there varied between a "contango" of 7 and 9 per cent, or was, in other words, fully as high as it has been at any time since the Bank of England began to apply pressure to the money market.

The first bid made for call money to-day for stock exchange use was 10 per cent and from this the rate rose steadily until a little after midday, when 20 per cent was asked. The great bulk of necessary borrowing was then, as appeared, completed, and the rate was quoted at only 4 per cent just before the close of business. Most of the money lent during the day was put out above 15 per cent. The history of the day's stock market was, therefore, that prices declined slowly, while the rise in money was going on and rallied with like hesitation when money rates receded.

Net final recessions of more than a point were shown in most of the principal issues. A decline of 7 1/2 points on dealings of only 700 shares in Tennessee Coal and Iron stock was excepted, there were no very notable price changes in any stock; nor were there any notable instances of repeated liquidation in any corner of the market. The selling of stocks that went on appeared to be of a merely dribbling sort.

Despite the fact that Secretary Shaw has taken upon the question of relieving the money market, the belief is yet strongly and commonly entertained that help of this sort will be of little avail, but it is pointed out that such assistance, in order to be effective, ought to take the form of a deposit out and out of public money of the national banks, since an advance in the government to purchase some of the 4 per cent bonds maturing in 1937 would find many of these bonds serving as a basis of bank note circulation, or so placed, in other words, that they cannot readily be retired.

NEW YORK MONEY.

New York, Nov. 12.—Money on call opened at 10 per cent; highest, 10; lowest, 4. Most of the day's loans were at 10 per cent. Time money at the opening of the week was rather scarce. Some business was done, however, 7 per cent for 60 to 90 days; 6 1/2 per cent for three and six months. Miscellaneous money market conditions. A moderate amount of desirable paper was in the market. Rates were more or less nominal, and were quoted at 6 1/2 per cent for 30 to 60 days, followed by 6 1/2 per cent for 60 to 90 days, followed by 6 1/2 per cent for 90 to 120 days, followed by 6 1/2 per
