The "Simplicity" Automatic Davenport Sofa Bed.

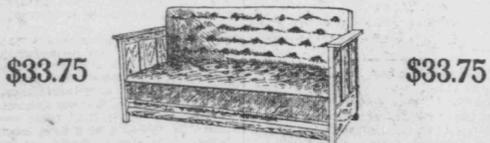

THE "Simplicity" is unquestionably the most popular Davenport Bed on the market to-day. In point of style, workmanship and finish, coupled with ease and certainty of adjustment, it embodies all that is most desirable at the least possible cost.

It is most easily adjusted. The action is automatic. Simply lift the seat, from the front, and the back goes down; the seat is then returned to the original position and all is ready for the bedding. And it is just as easily returned to its former position.

It can be taken apart for delivery, when necessary, and by this means it can be taken through a small door or window, or up a winding stairway, and is consequently available for apartments that cannot be reached with an ordinary Davenport.

Debutante Teas Keep Fashionable Set Busy.

MISS GHEEN IS PRESENTED

Miss Anne Goldsborough and Miss Louise Ryan are also formally introduced—Good Shepherd Sale at Rauscher's Attracts Throng of Visitors—Mrs. Clement Gives Dinner.

Mrs. Roosevelt returned last night from New York, where she has been spending a few days doing Christmas shopping.

Three debutante teas, with the sale and tea in aid of the House of the Good Shepherd at Rauscher's and an afternoon musicale at the home of Mrs. A. S. Worthington, kept society busy yesterday, and gave quite a midseason air to the uptown streets and avenues. Each of the balls was welcomed by the large companies amid the usual fragrant surroundings of roses and violets.

Mrs. Edmund K. Goldsborough presented her third daughter, Miss Anne Francis Goldsborough, to one of the largest companies of the afternoon, the several hundred guests representing the oldest resident circles, in which both host and hostess have been identified from their birth. Their daughter, one of the four native Washingtonians in this year's garden of girls, Miss Goldsborough wore a handsome toilet of black silk and lace; the debutante a creation of white liberty silk, made with sun-pleated skirt, and bodice profusely trimmed in lace. From the scores of bouquets sent her, she carried a large bunch of pink roses. In the dining-room Mme. van Swinderen, wife of the Minister from the Netherlands; Mrs. Henry Cleveland Perkins, and Miss Kibby did the honors. Miss Anne Rafferty, of New York; Miss Mary Tilghman, and Miss Bessie Bateman, of Maryland, who are guests, and as stated, with the following young people of Washington: Miss Marion Leutz, Miss Frederica Morgan, Miss Molly Dodge, Miss Alice Shepard, Miss Evelyn Chew, Miss Joanna Schroeder, Miss Katherine Jennings, Miss Jean Crosby, Miss Stephanie Treseott, Miss Cary Crawford, who has just returned from Philadelphia; Miss Mary Southerland, and Miss Madeleine Bradley.

The tea of Mrs. Gheen, wife of Rear Admiral Gheen, served the double purpose of introducing Miss Florence Gheen, and welcoming to their new home on New Hampshire avenue the many old friends of this interesting family, who are now residing permanently in Washington. Mrs. Gheen and her daughter received alone, the former wearing a handsome gown of white crepe, and the latter a blue liberty silk gown. The admiral was at home to greet many of the guests, who naturally represented very fully the naval contingent in society. In the dining room, which was decorated in pink roses, a corps of waiters attended to the wants of the company. Mrs. Gheen dispensing with the usual company of assistants.

Mrs. Arthur B. Ryan introduced her fourth daughter, Miss Louise Ryan, at a tea at her home on Sunderland place. The hostess wore a handsome gown of black crepe de chine, the debutante white point d'esprit, with elaborate trimming of ribbon and lace. The latter also carried pink roses. Assisting in the reception were Mrs. Martin, wife of Pay Director J. R. Martin, of the navy yard; Mrs. Clephane, the married daughter of the house; Miss Elsie McLean, the Misses Abbott, Miss Driggs, Miss Hastings, Miss Barry, Miss Helen Downing, Miss Mason, Miss Raymond, Miss Clabaugh, and the Misses Ryan and Miss Politzer, of New York. Mrs. Willis Moore and Mrs. Eberle did the honors of the tea table.

The Good Shepherd sale as usual attracted a large and fashionable attendance, the tables being cleared of their wares long before the closing hour. Mrs. White, the president of the board of managers, poured chocolate, and Mrs. George Howard served tea, the Misses Cullen, ice cream and cake, and Miss Fannie Whelan presided over the Good Shepherd table, where the home-made needle work was the chief feature, with the home-dressed dolls a close second in popular favor.

Each table had a large corps of assistants, numbering many of the most prominent young women of official and resident society.

Mrs. Worthington repeated her very attractive musical tea yesterday afternoon, with a different programme of songs, and a second company of guests, the hostess taking this means of giving all her friends an opportunity of hearing Miss Margaret Keyes, of New York, who furnished the chief interest of both afternoons.

NEWLANDS' DAUGHTER ILL.

Senator and Wife Hasten to Her Bedside in Berlin.

Senator Francis J. Newlands, of Nevada, and his wife, sailed for Europe yesterday on the French Line steamship Lorraine, in response to a cablegram reporting the serious illness of his daughter, Fran von Breslow, who resides in Berlin. The Senator was apparently much concerned about the illness of his daughter, as he left in great haste.

At Senator Newlands' residence last night no information could be gained as to the condition of his daughter, the inmates apparently knowing nothing further than what was contained in the original cablegram.

MINIATURE WHITE HOUSE.

District Seeks Funds for Exhibit at Jamestown.

The White House in miniature will be a feature of the Jamestown Exposition if the appropriation of $25,000 which will be asked of Congress by the Commissioners is favorably acted upon.

This sum was decided upon yesterday after a conference with Thomas W. Smith, chairman of the joint committee of the Board of Trade, the Business Men's Association, and the Jobbers and Shippers' Association.

It was argued by Mr. Smith, as a result of a personal observation upon the ground, that the erection of the building and its maintenance could be creditably made, leaving a sufficient margin of the $25,000 for the preparation of the necessary models and photographs. Mr. Smith reported fully on the visit to the grounds, describing particularly the advantageous site proposed for the District of Columbia building, in the portion set aside for State buildings and directly on the water front. Messages were delivered from the exposition officials expressing anxiety to have the District properly represented and their desire to help promote such a project.

It was not possible, Mr. Smith said, according to the exposition officials, to arrange a collective District exhibit in any other than a special building.

In view of the neighborhood interest Washington has in the Jamestown Exposition, the Commissioners agreed that the city should be represented, especially as the building would minister to the comfort of thousands of Washingtonians who will visit Jamestown.

DO THEY LOOK ALIKE?

The two dromios of the theatrical profession, Ed. Rosenbaum and S. Goodfriend, are in town. These two theatrical men have been friends for years, and have enjoyed some fun through their being so frequently mistaken for one another in various cities. Both wear full beards, and are of about the same size. When they wear derby hats the resemblance is said to be very strong, and the only distinguishing mark between them usually is that Goodfriend generally sports a silk tie. When they have their hats off it is different. Goodfriend's hair is parted near the middle, and Rosenbaum's hair is parted forever.

A young man, from his accent evidently a foreigner, stopped Mr. Goodfriend when coming out of the Columbia Theater yesterday afternoon, and said: "Can I haf—"

Goodfriend, expecting a touch, said sharply: "What?"

"Five dollars," replied the young man.

"What for?" asked Goodfriend.

"Why, you know I paid you last week that money I owed you," replied the stranger.

Goodfriend realized at once that he was evidently a member of the chorus of "The Free Lance" company, and said: "Well, I don't know. I'll see about it later."

"When?" asked the chorusman.

"You come around and see me about 4 o'clock this afternoon," replied Goodfriend.

At that hour there was a knock on Mr. Rosenbaum's door at the Raleigh Hotel. In answer to Mr. Rosenbaum's bidding to enter, the chorusman stepped into the room.

"Well, what do you want?" inquired Rosenbaum.

"Oh, I come around to get that $5 what you told me to do this morning," Rosenbaum realized the situation at once, and responded favorably to the young man's touch for an advance.

The one fortunate thing about this mutual resemblance is that the two managers have had only amusement, and never any trouble, over their resemblance to one another. Once or twice each has reaped an advantage, but, on the whole, it is a "stand-off" in this respect. Perhaps the most amusing mistake in
