IN THE SOCIAL WORLD

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Glover Entertain at Dinner.

VICE PRESIDENT THEIR GUEST

Marriage Announced of Casper Crowninshield by Miss Grace Snelling, of New York, in London—Mrs. Madden and Miss Madden to Hold Reception—Other Events.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Glover entertained a large company at dinner last evening, in honor of the Vice President.

Mrs. Fairbank, who is passing some time at Atlantic City, is reported as already having returned by the air of that resort.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick I. Allen entertained a dinner company of fourteen last evening, and will entertain at a larger company this evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Aulick Palmer entertained at a dinner party for young people last evening at the Allib Club, when the guests were the friends of their daughter, Miss Palmer. Dr. and Mrs. James F. Mitchell chaperoned the company in the absence of the hosts. The young people present were Miss Oliver, Miss Perle, Miss Marion Leutz, Miss Upham, Miss Westmore, Miss Shelby Converse, Miss Ada Newlands, Miss Harriet Wadsworth, Glad Blair, Mr. Wyeth, Lieut. Shackford, Lieut. Holmes, Frank Ellis, Chaucey Hackett, Mr. Du Pont, and Phelps Brown.

Mrs. Arthur Ramsey, of Fairmont Seminary, entertained a distinguished company yesterday afternoon in honor of Dr. Edward Howard Griggs, who is delivering a course of lectures at the Church of the Covenant, and incidentally receiving many charming attentions from the intellectually inclined members of society. Receiving with Mrs. Ramsey and the guest of honor were: Mrs. Shaw, wife of the Secretary of the Treasury; Mrs. Needham, wife of the president of the George Washington University; and Mrs. William T. Harris. In the dining-room Mrs. Wallace Radcliffe, Mrs. Robert T. Hall, and Miss Westcott did the honors.

The Misses Helene and Lillian Travers Maguire were the hostesses at a delightful musicale last evening at their home, on U street, when twenty or thirty guests enjoyed a programme of vocal and instrumental music of a very high order. Mrs. Fannie AtLee Gage and Miss Hilda Bostrom, sopranos; Miss Clarke, mezzo soprano; Mr. Henry Statham, baritone; Mr. Barton Burr, tenor; Mr. Joseph Battle, tenor, contributed to the programme, as did the two hostesses, as well as their brothers, Messrs. Thomas and Joseph Maguire, violinist and pianist, respectively. Miss Helen Lyon also gave some piano numbers.

A seated supper was served, after the music, at which the very elaborate floral decorations were entirely in pink roses, with a favor for each of the guests in the form of a miniature musical instrument. The fees were also in the form of banjos, guitars, and harps. The large table at which the guests were seated had as its centerpiece a huge heart of roses.

Mrs. J. Sylvester Phillips entertained at a numerous attended reception, yesterday afternoon, when she was assisted by Miss Adelaide Large, of Pittsburg, who is her guest. The company of assistants in the drawing-rooms and dining-room included Miss Pauline Pearce and Miss Ewing, with a number of the older girls of the Leide-Phillips School. An orchestra, playing in the palm-screened recess of the hall added to the pleasure of the afternoon. In the dining-room, which was charmingly decorated in pink carnations and Eriogonias, the following were present: Mr. and Mrs. J. Emerson Rose did the honors.

Miss Eloise Davis, of New York, is the guest of Mrs. William Barrett Ridgely, who will give a luncheon in her honor at the Chevy Chase Club on Sunday.

Mrs. F. M. Hatch entertained at another prettily appointed luncheon yesterday, at her apartment at Stoneleigh Court. The guests were: Mme. de Quesada, wife of the Cuban Minister; Mrs. Gessala, wife of the German Minister; Mrs. Bulkeley, wife of the Senator from Connecticut; Mrs. Weeks, Mrs. Sibley, Mrs. Talbot, Miss Houghton, sister of Mrs. Bulkeley; Mrs. Knapp, and Mrs. Marye.

The marriage is announced by cable of Mr. Casper Crowninshield, of this city, to Miss Grace Snelling, daughter of the late Edward Snelling, of New York. The ceremony took place Thursday at Naples, where the bride and her mother recently arrived from Rome.

The bridegroom is well known in society, being the son of Rear Admiral and Mrs. A. S. Crowninshield. He is at present American consul at Castellamare, Italy.

The many friends of M. and Mme. Juan Riano, the former for many years first secretary of the Spanish Legation in this city, who have recently occupying the same position in Paris, are much pleased by the news of his promotion to the post of Minister to Norway and Denmark, which is reported by cable. Mme. Riano, who was Miss Alice Ward, one of the best liked of resident belles, is expected to arrive in New York to-day, and come direct to Washington for her annual visit to her grandmother, Mrs. John S. Ward, of Connecticut avenue.

Miss Caroline Warfield, daughter of the governor of Maryland and Mrs. Warfield, sailed this week to join her schoolgirl sister in Paris.

Mrs. Madden and Miss Madden, wife and daughter of Representative Martin B. Madden, of Illinois, will hold a large reception this afternoon at the Highlands, where they will be at home from 4 to 6. They will be assisted by Miss Joseph Sutherland, wife of Senator Sutherland; Mrs. Howard Malcolm Snapp, wife of Representative Snapp; Mrs. William J.

DIPLomat TO MARRY

Nicaraguan Minister Is Engaged to Miss Fleming.

LATEST ROMANCE IN SOCIETY

Not Formally Announced, but Practically Admitted by Interested Parties—Both Have Figured in Broken Engagement—Bride-to-be Daughter of Col. and Mrs. Fleming.

The latest international romance to attract the attention of society is that of Senator Corea, the Minister from Nicaragua, and Miss India Bell Fleming, a debutante of the past month, whose engagement, although not formally announced, is practically admitted by both interested parties, and likely to receive the official announcement of the parents of Miss Fleming in the near future.

Miss Fleming is the only daughter of Col. and Mrs. Robert I. Fleming, the former a veteran of the Confederate army, whence he gets his title, while on her maternal side she is descended from Col. Vedder, an officer of the regular army and the uncle of the celebrated painter, Ellhu Vedder. Although a debutante and just nineteen, she is already the heroine of a broken engagement, made and ruptured during her last year at school. She was graduated last June from the same fashionable seminary that educated the Misses Shonts, and, like them, is an heiress.

No Formal Announcement. In making no formal announcement of their daughter's engagement, until ready to name the wedding day as well, Col. and Mrs. Fleming are following the foreign fashion, with the result that the wedding cards are now expected within a few weeks of the announcement of the engagement.

Mr. Corea's promotion to a European post is said to be in prospect, and until that is decided no day will be named for the wedding. Col. and Mrs. Fleming recently gave a large dinner party in the Minister's honor, which was accepted by their friends as a virtual acknowledgment and mark of approval of their daughter's choice.

Mr. Corea, Senator Don Luis F. Corea, E. E. and M. P., to give the bridegroom-to-be his proper designation, is one of the best known Latin-Americans in Washington, having represented his country as Minister since 1899, and even previous to that having been attached to the legation over which he now presides. He is considerably under forty years of age, an accomplished linguist and popular with a large official circle.

Never Prominent in Society Here. He enjoyed the friendship of the late Secretary of State Hay to an unusual degree, but has never been prominently identified with society in Washington, although at one time he was rather conspicuous in the Southern set in New York.

His engagement to Mrs. Lee Jordan, of Macon, Ga., announced and broken with much more publicity than usually accorded the love affairs of even a bachelor diplomat, is still fresh in the public mind. Mrs. Jordan, who has since married, spent considerable time in Washington during her engagement to the fascinating Nicaraguan, coming on one occasion to attend the President's diplomatic reception in her character as the young minister's fiancée.

SUES FOR SON'S DEATH. W. G. Cleveland Charges Negligence of Gen. Harries and Others.

William G. Cleveland, administrator of the estate of Melvin L. Cleveland, his son, began suit yesterday against Gen. George H. Harries, William E. Bleo, and Frank S. Durston for $100,000 damages for having caused, as Mr. Cleveland alleges in his declaration, the death of his son.

Cleveland's attorneys, Rossa F. Downing and George A. Berry, state that Gen. Harries assumes and undertakes the rank and duties of brigadier general in command of the National Guard of the District of Columbia, and that Bleo and Durston occupy the rank of navigating officer and ensign, respectively, of the Naval Battalion of the District of Columbia. It is further alleged by Cleveland that on November 25 last Gen. Harries ordered a cruise "for his own personal pleasure and gratification," of the United States steamship Onida down the Potomac River, on which he was accompanied by Bleo and Durston, and that he ordered Melvin Cleveland, now dead, to enter a launch which was being towed by the Onida for the purpose of steering the same.

Mr. Cleveland alleges that the launch, through the negligence and incompetency, lack of skill and experience of Gen. Harries, Bleo, and Durston, upset, overturned, and capsized, and that his son Melvin was thrown out of the launch and drowned in the Potomac River.

Italian Ambassador Delivers Lecture Before Washington Comitata. Baron Edmondo Mayor des Planches, the Italian Ambassador, delivered a lecture before the Washington Comitata of the Dante Alighieri Society last night at the embassy on New Hampshire avenue.

In speaking of American appreciation of Dante, Mayor des Planches said that on a visit to the White House he noticed that the President's edition of Dante was one of the most thumbed in the Library. He compared the personality of President Roosevelt to that of the poet, inasmuch as both were men of great strength of character and endowed with remarkable power of restraint. The local society is a branch of that in Italy which has 32,000 members, and 150 comitati, of which six are in the United States.

SENATOR'S WIFE FILES SUITS

Mrs. Platt Charges Newspapers Published Libelous Articles.

Demands $300,000 from the Washington Post and $200,000 from the Washington Times.

Mrs. Lillian T. Platt, wife of Senator Platt, of New York, began suit yesterday against the Washington Post Company for $300,000 damages, which she claims she sustained through the alleged publication of malicious and defamatory libel. Mrs. Platt at the same time filed suit against the Washington Times Company for $200,000 damages for the publication of alleged libelous articles.

Mrs. Platt states that she is an absolutely honorable woman and that the publication of the alleged libelous articles are false and without foundation in fact, and that they have injured her good name, fame, and reputation among her friends and the public.

The articles referred to by Mrs. Platt in her declaration, which was filed by Attorney H. Winslow Whitley, were published in the Post and the Times, and were alleged to have been copied and republished from a New York newspaper. The stories, regarded by Mrs. Platt as libelous, bore headlines as follows: "May Divorce Senator," "Mrs. Platt, Plaintiff, Sues," "Couple Give Out Details," "Attorney Carmody Says Story of Trouble Had Nearly Resulted in Tragedy," "at Statesman's Country Home Is Substantially Correct," and "Couchman Involved Said to Be in High Favor With Mrs. Platt."

The Post is sued on three and the Times on two counts, each for $100,000.
