Work of Congress Reviewed by Commissioner.

MUCH LEFT TO WORK FOR

Macfarland Says in General Appropriations of Session Just Closed Were Satisfactory and Much Good Will Come of Them—Several Requests, However, Not Granted.

While regretting the failure of Congress to bring the railroad locomotives under the smoke law, the omission of the bill giving the Commissioners supervision over the street railway companies, and the adverse action relating to several important appropriations, Commissioner Macfarland yesterday stated that the District appropriations in general were satisfactory, and that much good will come of them.

"The Fifty-ninth Congress did good work for the District of Columbia. Measures which the Commissioners and the people had been pressing for were given by the Congress which ended to-day. All our extraordinary projects of physical improvement begun during the past six years have been or will be completed with the appropriations of this Congress, including the District government building, the filtration plant, the sewage disposal system, the elimination of grade crossings and railway terminal work, and good provision has been made for the next large undertaking, that of providing proper sewer facilities for the suburban portions of the District. Congress has also provided $5,000 for plans for the park treatment of Rock Creek south of Massachusetts avenue.

Cause for Regret. "We regret, of course, that it did not provide the appropriations asked for the legal investigation necessary as a condition precedent to the Anacostia flats improvement and for the preliminary investigation and survey for increasing the water supply. We regret, too, the failure of the appropriations for the four park projects and that for the purchase of the land on Fifteenth street, which was to provide sites for the new government buildings in execution of the plan for the conversion of the land south of Pennsylvania avenue into a park full of government buildings. We regret also that provision was not made for the street car service to the Union Station, and to bring the railroad locomotives under the smoke law.

Important Omission. "An important omission was that of the bill giving the Commissioners supervision of the street railway cars, schedules, and transfer arrangements, under which the service would have been improved. Then, too, we ought to have had the municipal hospital for chronic cases now overcrowded in the makeshift hospital between the jail and the workhouse. Legislation regulating child labor, requiring the cleaning of sidewalks, better protecting the savings banks and their depositors, regulating the usurious money lenders, providing the first branch library, regulating the so-called assessment life insurance, and some other measures, must be worked for in the next Congress. To that Congress we must appeal for the separate high-pressure water mains which are essential to the proper protection of the heart of the city from fire, the improvement of the water front, the street lighting, and the municipal services in other ways.

Improvements Made. "But, besides the things mentioned above, under the legislation and appropriations of the Fifty-ninth Congress, the Home for the Aged and Infirm has been completed, opposite Alexandria, the Industrial Home School for Colored Children is approaching completion, and plans have been prepared for a tuberculosis hospital on the municipal hospital site on Brightwood avenue. The Police Court building, several school and fire department buildings, and the crematorium have been completed. "The Connecticut avenue bridge will be completed in the coming fiscal year, the Potomac River bridges have been finished, and the new revisions of Massachusetts avenue and Sixteenth street have been carried to the boulevard scale. An important improvement in the gas street lighting has been made by the transformation of the gas lamps from 22-candlepower to 60-candlepower, and the beginning of the installation of free water meters in residences to the advantage of the water consumers, and the saving of the water supply, has been made. The teachers, firemen, and policemen have received increased pay.

Legislation for Health. "Legislation for the health and the moral beauty of the community unequalled in former Congresses was enacted. The first session passed our bills to deal with insanitary buildings, and to widen alleys into minor streets, with the necessary appropriations, under which much has been already accomplished; a modern and model law regarding the sale of poisons and the practice of pharmacy, a juvenile court and probation law, an effective compulsory education law, one for the regulation of employment agencies, and another for reaching nonresident owners having nuisances on their property, and the law bringing savings banks under the supervision of the Comptroller of the Currency, which has already saved the interests of those dealing with two banks. "The second session made permanent provision for the municipal playgrounds, passed the registration of nurses' bill, the bill providing for the examination and registration of veterinary surgeons, and bills for the improvement of the registration of births and of the reports of minor contagious diseases, and strengthened somewhat the force of the health department, so much overworked and undermanned. "Other Things Accomplished. "Other things done by Congress at the last session were provision for reports by the gas and electric light companies, for uniform condemnation proceedings and the regulation of building lines, for larger repairs of the asphalt streets, for an addition to the Eastern Market House, for official designation tags for automobiles, and for a new truck company for the fire department, to be located in the Southwest section, together with a chemical engine company house for Langdon; also for the rebinding and preservation of the old court records, and the improvement of the records of the Register of Wills. "In general, the appropriations were satisfactory and much good will come of them. But there is still much left to work for at the next session of Congress."

Asphalt Plant Abandoned. In view of the fact that the District appropriation bill for the next fiscal year contains a provision permitting the District authorities to contract for sheet asphalt at the rate of $1.50 instead of $1.65 a square yard, the Commissioners have abandoned the proposed establishment of a municipal plant. The $90,000 appropriation for this work has been lying idle because of the inability of the Commissioners to secure bids within the former limit, and it was because of these conditions that it was proposed to establish a District asphalt and cement plant. An item for the plant was included in the Commissioners' estimates which was eliminated by Congress, and provision made to increase the limit of the cost of asphalt to 15 cents a square yard. Bids for the work will be advertised for within a few days.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD Bulletin. WERE WASHINGTON TRAVELING TO-DAY.

It was a rough road the youthful Washington traveled on that journey from Virginia to the head of the Ohio in 1753. How long it took him is a question, but we know he didn't make the jump over night or in a Pullman car.

To-day men make the trip from Washington to Pittsburgh with all the comforts of home, in less than ten hours. The road is smooth, the appointments luxurious, the scenery picturesque, and matchless meals are served on the trains at timely hours.

"The Pennsylvania Limited" leaves Washington at 12:01 noon, and arrives Pittsburgh 9:45 P. M. There are eight other trains to Pittsburgh every day, those leaving at 7:40 and 10:40 P. M. having through sleeping cars.

From the stockade of the English traders in 1754 to the Pittsburgh of to-day is a long leap. Then the "Gateway to the West," it is now the "Iron City of America"—the chief center for the manufacture of iron and steel products. Its six hundred thousand inhabitants are busy and progressive people, and the surrounding country for miles is full of industries.
