CONFESSION TO BIG LOSS

Police Captured Kidnapers a Young Sicilian woman, Ross Campinelli, was in another cell. She is Victor's wife, and has been positively identified by Salvatore Saitta...

New York, April 29.—At a meeting of the trustees of the Trust Company of America, held this afternoon, a statement was issued setting forth that "securities of the market value of $750,000 were abstracted by the assistant loan clerk of the company."

This statement was made public after the trustees had decided that the public should be informed of the full extent of the robbery that was effected by W. O. Douglas and Broker C. M. Bennett.

The face value of the securities, a trustee said after the meeting, was about $800,000. In addition, he said that the company had fortunately recovered a large amount of securities that Douglas had packed away on the premises so that he could grab them when he got ready.

"While Douglas really had these additional securities," said this trustee, "they were never exactly out of the physical possession of the company."

Douglas had removed the securities and hid them. The meeting of the trustees to-day was well attended and lively. It was simply announced after the meeting that in fifteen days there would be a meeting of the stockholders of both companies, at which a new board of trustees for the enlarged Trust Company of America would be elected.

One of the trustees said that there would be no let-up in the prosecution of Douglas and his associates.

State Superintendent of Banks Charles H. Kepp had this to say: "We shall begin at once the examination of all the securities of the New York trust companies."

FEAR INSULT TO LEO'S BODY

Transference of Dead Pontiff to Be Made Secretly.

Cardinal Saitta Advises Against Allowing Italian Troops to Act as Escort.

Rome, April 29.—It has finally been decided that the body of Pope Leo will be transferred to the Church of St. John Lateran at night and as privately as possible.

The Pope, conversing with Cardinal Saitta, said he was convinced he wishes if privacy were observed, Cardinal Saitta and the other members of the Sacred College comprising the funeral commission occurred in this.

Cardinal Saitta says that if the procession was public no number of troops the government might supply could prevent a hostile demonstration if evildoers present designed such a demonstration, inasmuch as even a single disrespectful shout would constitute an outrage upon the corpse.

It is feared that in pursuance of the plan of secrecy, the body of Pope Leo will be removed from its temporary tomb in St. Peter's at night and carried in the early morning to the Church of St. John Lateran, where it will be laid in one of the chapels reserved for the depositing it beneath the monument to his holiness.

Even Tadolini, who designed the monument, will not be informed of the date of the funeral, and it is probable that he will be misled by an indirect intimation of a fictitious date.

FUNERAL OF ADMIRAL KAUTZ.

Ashes of Late Naval Officer Interred in Arlington.

The ashes of Rear Admiral Kautz, United States Navy, retired, who died in Florence, Italy, on February 4 last, were interred in Arlington Cemetery yesterday.

The ceremonies were strictly private, only the members of the family and intimate friends being present. The committal services of the Protestant Episcopal Church were read by Chaplain Bayard, of the navy.

Admiral Kautz was born in Georgetown, Ohio, in January, 1829, and entered the United States navy as a midshipman in 1847. He served throughout the war on various men-of-war, and was instrumental in bringing about the first interchange of prisoners.

While acting as captain of the brig Hannan Balch, in June, 1861, he was captured by the privateer Winslow, and the following October was released on parole from Castle Thunder for the purpose of securing an exchange. President Lincoln at first refused the request, and Kautz was returning to surrender himself when the exchange was authorized.

Admiral Kautz was retired from active service in January, 1891. His remains were brought home from Florence on the cruiser Baltimore.

EDDY NAME FORGED?

Serious Charge Is Made in Christian Science Suit.

VARIOUS SIGNATURES DIFFER

Writing of Christian Science Founder's Name to Deed of Trust Said to Be Unlike that in Letters to Son—Witness Admits Making Statement "To Oblige an Intimate Friend."

Concord, N. H., April 29.—That Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy's signature has been forged is the latest allegation made by attorneys for her relatives, who charge that the Christian Science founder is in the hands of conspirators. Former Senator Chandler, of counsel for the relatives, has hinted before that her name to different documents was not written in the same manner, but that the lawyers are not hesitating to make the accusation direct.

One of the lawyers said: "Mrs. Eddy's alleged signature to the trust deed lately filed establishes, we contend, the fact that most daring forgeries have been resorted to. It is not the signature we have on letters to Mrs. Eddy's son, which she wrote to beg him to return all the papers that bear her signature, and offering him 'handsome presents' if he complied."

Several Signatures Differ. "The trust deed was filed within three days of the date we brought our suit. The letters have been written within the past three weeks. We are certain in our minds this trust deed signature is not the same as those signed to the many communications of Mrs. Eddy in her church, with which Christian Scientists all over the world are acquainted. If the trust deed handwriting is genuine, the others are not. If the others are genuine, then who signed the trust deed which put her wealth in the hands of three men?"

Not only are detectives at work upon the puzzle of the Eddy signatures, but others are searching for further evidence of fraud. Since the first publication of Mrs. Eddy's feeble condition several men prominent in various walks of life have made public statements in emphatic denial. Some of these men are influential Christian Scientists, others are merely close friends of Eddy and his associates, while some are intimately identified with the business affairs of the church, though not included in its actual membership.

Denies Seeing Mrs. Eddy. These men have asserted that they have seen and conversed with Mrs. Eddy, and that she is clear in mind and strong in body. It is now known upon direct evidence that one, at least, of these witnesses made his public statement "to oblige a friend" and without having seen Mrs. Eddy.

One witness of high personal character, who is being kept in the background by Senator Chandler's tactics, has said that this statement was prepared in a certain home in Concord, to which the signer was summoned at night, and where he affixed his signature without any personal investigation of the facts, and relying solely upon representations made to him by the interested parties.

In the light of other newly obtained evidence, Senator Chandler is confident that others who have been testifies permitted to see Mrs. Eddy in order to deny the charges made by the relatives of her physical and mental collapse, have been deceived through a false impersonation. It is alleged that these visitors did not see the real Mrs. Eddy, but a woman who impersonated her, dressed in imitation of the enfeebled original.

Adjt. Crawford Declares His Books Are Always Open.

Adj. H. G. Crawford, of the Salvation Army, manager of the Industrial Home, at 121 Pennsylvania avenue, takes exception to the statements, inspired by the organ of the Associated Charities, in the editorial columns of The Washington Herald, saying that they misrepresent true conditions. He says: "I have been in the Salvation Army for twenty years and am proud of the organization for I am in a position to know the efficient work it has done. The article quoted in The Herald makes me ashamed of my kind either by irregularities in accounts. Now, although I cannot claim to be a scholar, at least I believe myself to be practical, and not the kind of man who would be chosen by 'blindfammers' as an easy victim. Neither am I dishonest, nor would I countenance the society for a moment if I thought it dishonest. The reports of the Salvation Army are printed regularly in the War Cry, and are open to all.

The Associated Charities have become antagonistic to us, and we have not been treated differently from others when asking to know the business of the Salvation Army. The industrial branch of our organization does not accept cash contributions; neither have we made any appeal to the generosity of the citizens of the city, but we go from door to door and take anything that is not wanted. It can hardly say so much for the organization which criticizes us, for I rarely ever pick up a paper in which is an appeal for aid and not featured. A my industrial Home, twenty-five men are constantly clothed, lodged, fed, and given employment and wages, all of which is done by selling waste paper and old clothes. My books are always open to anybody who wishes to see them in good faith, and I will be only too happy to exhibit them to free our organization from this unfounded criticism."
