ATLANTIC CITY NEWS

Mr. Harriman Flits About in Mysterious Manner.

CHANGES INNS AND VANISHES

Golfers Closed Three Days' Tourney Yesterday—Car Builders Announce 5,000 Delegates to Next Convention, Trolley to Build to Cape May, Washingtonians at the Resort.

Atlantic City, May 4.—E. H. Harriman, railroad magnate, and the man whom the Interstate Commerce Commission wants to answer a few important questions, was one of the mysterious visitors. His health was said to be impaired, and he came to the shore for the benefit to be derived from the salt air, but when he came, James M. Beck, who is his private confidant, was ratiocinating in the sea breezes. There is no information that he came on a consultation expedition, but that was inferred by some of his friends here. The fact is, Mr. Harriman tried to hoodwink every one as to his whereabouts. First he registered at the Hotel Brighton, where he had engaged half a floor for himself and party, and asked no price. He spent his money with the liberality of a prince while he occupied the quarters just for a day. Then he threw up his engagement and moved with his baggage and a party of six to the Marlborough-Blenheim. There he had a suite that did not cost him less than $1,000 a week but he only occupied it for a day and disappeared.

When he went is a mystery which puzzled hoteliers here, which was interested in his eccentric movements. They were all willing to risk the chance of pleasing him in his idiosyncrasies of changing hotels every twenty-four hours, for it is established here, as elsewhere, that when a room is rented for a week, and the renter decides to throw up the contract, the week's bill is to be paid. Mr. Harriman was a princely host in his habits of eating and drinking. He had the habits of all clerks and others when information was sought as to what he was doing and why he changed abodes with the rise of every sun. Harriman may have been ill, but that is not officially known. He came and disappeared in a mysterious way.

Golfers have held the resort captive. To-day they wound up a three days' tourney on the Country Club's links. Good weather opened the contest, which was scheduled to start whether there was sunshine or a snowstorm. The plaud of the golfer was one of the interesting features of the boardwalk. Golf caps, too, appeared. Some of the enthusiasts were their marks of Scotch veneration in the dining-rooms of the hotels, especially the ladies. The course has been one of the best of fashionable society. Hundreds have gone daily to watch the players exert themselves to win the handsome prizes which were offered as trophies. To-day the finals were played, and they drew a big gallery of spectators.

Now they talk of driving the Atlantic City trolley line to Cape May. The Cape is forty miles down the coast, but the distance does not seem to deter the promoters, who are to-day linking Atlantic City with Ocean City, located on the opposite side of Great Egg Harbor Inlet. This five minutes will be required to make the trolley journey to Ocean City over the new route which is being laid, but that is not one-fifth of the distance to Cape May. The railroad builders, however, claim that in time they will push right along until all the resorts below Atlantic City will be connected by trolley lines. They, however, are conservative about setting dates when the through connections will be in operation. Atlantic City is anxious to have more excursion routes for the entertainment of visitors, and it would be delighted to link the trolley routes above its line through to the lower resort.

President A. T. Bell has received information from the secretary of the Car Builders' Association to warn the resort Board of the organization, which is the history of the organization. The car builders met here last spring. They refused to come here because they feared Atlantic City would not be able to accommodate the large numbers of members and their followers that they would attend the convention. When they arrived they were astounded because the organization was lost in the multitude of people, and the "grouch" was raised that instead of being too small the resort was too big for the convention. But they recovered from their first shock of surprise. They have sent word to look out for 5,000 people when they call the roll.

The Sunday closing movement, which agitated the resort last week, is still a live topic, but there are few who think that it will result, as planned by the reformers, in the permanent closing of everything. The majority express the opinion that in a short time the old order of things will prevail
