

LAST TRIBUTE PAID TO MRS. MCKINLEY

Distinguished Men Attend Funeral at Canton.

SERVICE IS VERY SIMPLE

Remains Placed Beside Those of Her Husband.

President Roosevelt, Vice President Fairbanks, and Secretary of State Root Ride to Cemetery in Same Carriage—Unusual Precaution Is Taken to Guard Chief Executive, President Makes Brief Address.

Canton, Ohio, May 29.—The most distinguished men in the nation attended the funeral of Mrs. Ida Saxton McKinley in Canton to-day, and stood at the grave in the cemetery where the body was laid beside the remains of her martyred husband.

Simple as was the funeral ceremony, there was much more impressive—the woman who lay dead—and the men and women gathered around her coffin recalled scenes and incidents that have formed the history of the nation for the last decade.

The service was held at the North Market street residence of the McKinleys, where William McKinley lived for the best years of his life, when not in Washington, and from the porch of which he delivered his notable campaign addresses, which immediately preceded his election to the Presidency.

Not since the funeral of Mrs. Benjamin Harrison has so large a number of men eminent in the affairs of the nation been gathered at the funeral of any woman.

Among the number who paid a last tribute to the memory of Mrs. McKinley were President Roosevelt and Vice President Fairbanks, four members of the Cabinet, two of whom were also Ministers of the late President McKinley; Senator Knox, of Pennsylvania, Attorney General of the McKinley Cabinet; former Postmaster General Gary, Supreme Court Justice and former Secretary of State W. R. Day; Gov. Harris, of Ohio; Senator Dick, and many other distinguished persons.

The present Cabinet members in attendance were Secretary of State Root, Secretary of the Treasury Cortelyou, Secretary of the Interior Garfield, and Secretary of Agriculture Wilson.

President Reached Canton. The train bearing President Roosevelt and the members of the Cabinet party arrived in Canton at 12:45 o'clock, and Secretary Cortelyou, who came to Canton before Mrs. McKinley's death, met them at the station.

The President and his party proceeded to the home of Justice Day, where Vice President Fairbanks had been a guest since his arrival here yesterday, there to await the hour of the funeral, which was 3 o'clock. At that hour the President joined in the procession to the McKinley home and sat beside the Vice President and with the members of the Cabinet in the same room with the relatives of the deceased during the ceremony.

The day was beautifully clear, the weather warm, and doors and windows in the house where the funeral was held were opened. The apartment in which the coffin was placed and the rooms immediately adjoining were crowded with wreaths, baskets, and vases of flowers, and later in the day were taken to the cemetery by wagonloads.

Service Extremely Simple. The funeral service was extremely simple. It was conducted by the Rev. Dr. E. O. Buxton, the present pastor, and Rev. Dr. Holmes, the former pastor, of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, where Mr. and Mrs. McKinley worshipped during their lifetime.

"Nearer, My God, to Thee" and "Lead, Kindly Light," both favorite hymns of the late President McKinley, and the funeral service of the Methodist Church was read.

In the procession to the cemetery the carriage of President Roosevelt immediately preceded those of the relatives, and in the same vehicle with him rode Vice President Fairbanks, Secretary Root, the next in order respectively in the Presidential succession.

The burial was in West Lawn Cemetery, where the massive pile of masonry which forms the monument to the memory of President McKinley is now in course of construction.

This monument is near completion, and it was a matter of regretful comment to-day that Mrs. McKinley had not lived to see its dedication in September next. The remains of Mrs. McKinley were placed beside those of her lamented husband in the receiving vault. Here an impressive incident occurred, for immediately after the reading of the burial service President Roosevelt and Secretary Root, unaccompanied by any other members of the party, entered the vault and gazed for a moment on the bier of McKinley.

President Continues Journey. After the reading of the burial service at the cemetery, President Roosevelt returned immediately to his private car, and in about an hour continued his journey to Indianapolis.

The appearance of Canton's streets to-day indicated that the entire population of the little city was out of doors. A great crowd of men, women, and children occupied every inch of ground in the immediate neighborhood of the McKinley home, and thousands of people, many of whom came from adjoining towns, lined the sidewalks between the house and the cemetery.

There was an anarchist scare in Canton shortly before the arrival of President Roosevelt. It was rumored that Michael Czizog, brother of the assassin of President McKinley, had come over from his home in Cleveland, and as the story became generally known there was a good deal of excitement among the town people.

A secret service man made an investigation, and found that Czizog is in Newcastle, Pa., where he goes on every Decoration Day, to place flowers on the grave of his wife.

President Carefully Guarded. At the same time it was observed that unusual precautions were taken to guard President Roosevelt while he drove from the railroad station to Judge Day's house, and from the McKinley residence to the cemetery. A secret service man walked at either door of the President's carriage, and several mounted police rode beside Liquor Men at Atlantic City Released Because Law Is Lax.

Atlantic City, N. J., May 29.—Upholding the lawyers for the Atlantic City liquor men in their claim that there is no law in New Jersey making it a crime to sell whisky to children, County Judge E. A. Higbee this afternoon refused to hold in jail the five saloon keepers, headed by Councilman John Donnelly, who were yesterday indicted by the grand jury for the alleged offense.

The action of the court followed a squabble between a half dozen defending lawyers on one side and District Attorney William H. Harrison on the other, in the courtroom, at May's Landing.

The men were released on their own recognizance to appear if sufficient law should be found to warrant their being tried.

QUEEN MAUD IN RUNAWAY.

Horses Plunge Into Fountain and One of the Animals Drowns.

Paris, May 29.—Queen Maud, of Norway, had a narrow escape from death or serious accident at Versailles to-day while paying an official visit to the historic park, when the horses drawing her carriage bolted.

Before the maddened animals could be controlled they had leaped into a fountain which stood at the entrance. Queen Maud was able to alight, suffering only from the shock caused by the fright.

A postilion, who was jostled from the carriage, sustained a fractured arm, and one of the horses drowned in the deep fountain.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 29.—Gen. Baron Kuroki, the Japanese war hero, arrived here to-day and was given a public welcome. He and Gen. Arthur MacArthur were introduced by Mayor Sherburn H. Becker to a large crowd that gathered in front of the city hall.

Before Gen. Kuroki and his party started back to Chicago on the 4 o'clock train this afternoon they visited the Soldiers' Home, where the Japanese soldier saw how the United States cares for its dependent fighting men.

Consul Matsukubara Says Attack in San Francisco Was Exhibition of Race Prejudice.

San Francisco, Cal., May 29.—Japanese Consul Matsukubara to-day talked for the first time about the attack on the Japanese restaurants, and gave out a statement. He declares the attack was an exhibition of race prejudice and he intimates that the Japanese government has made a strong representation on the subject of these attacks, at his request and advice, through diplomatic channels at Washington.

It is considered almost certain that the Japanese government will ask an indemnity to repay the losses of the local Japanese. The committee who have suffered as a result of the violence.

FIND NEW FORM OF REBATE.

Interstate Commerce Commissioners Investigating Railroad's Bonuses.

Information has come to the Interstate Commerce Commission to the effect that, through the giving of commissions or bonuses as compensation to those soliciting or routing freight and passenger traffic, railroads in certain sections of the country have been resorting to a form of rebate. In order to remedy this, the payment of commissions is necessary to put a stop to abuses thereof, and to learn to what extent this practice has become prevalent the commission will call representatives of many of the railroads before it at an early date.

FATALITY HURT ON WAR SHIP.

Boatswain's Mate Griffin and Seaman Kinley Injured in Accident.

Norfolk, Va., May 29.—The breaking or misplacing of a dipin aboard the battleship Virginia at the Norfolk Navy Yard this morning will likely result in the death of Boatswain's Mate John Griffin and Ordinary Seaman Kinley, who were seriously injured.

The crew of the ship was at drill clearing the ship for action, and the dipin proved false and the wooden topmast telescoped into the mast too suddenly, the steel cross-bar on it catching the men under it.

Two Killed in Week. San Francisco, Cal., May 29.—The third wreck on the Southern Pacific Coast Line occurred early this morning near Salinas when the Sunset Express, from this city, was derailed. The engineer, James Bybee, and Milton Henry, a striking carman of "Frisco," were killed, and Fireman Richards was badly scalded. The railroad officials have discovered no cause for the accident.

EMPLOYERS UPHELD

Arbitrator Oyster Wants Mechanics to Resume Work.

ONLY MEANS FOR SETTLEMENT

Long and Bitter Contest May Soon End If Workmen Abide by Decision—Will Meet to Consider Verdict of Conference Committee—Details of the Disagreement.

Capt. James F. Oyster, acting as chairman and umpire of the joint conference committee of fifteen representatives of the newly organized Employers' Association of the building trades, and fifteen representatives of the building trades mechanics, after three meetings to discuss the matter, one of them lasting until 2 o'clock in the morning, threw his vote to the employers' side, thus defeating the contents of the men for recognition of a closed shop in Washington.

It is believed that all the men out on strike on the new Metropolitan Club building, at Seventeenth and H streets northwest, and on the row of houses on Park road, near Seventh street, may return to work in a few days and the matter be arbitrated.

The fight has been a long and bitter one, and the trades have refused to arbitrate the matter, claiming that the master plumbers had not lived up to the award handed down by the board arbitrating the differences between them resulting from the lockout of all the men last August.

This arbitration award has been the basis of the entire fight.

The Building Trades supported the journeyman plumbers in their contention that the fifth and sixth clauses provided the closed shop under the old contract, and to enforce this they declared a strike on all buildings where nonunion plumbers were employed.

Support Master Plumbers. The master builders supported the master plumbers, and conditions became more unsettled when all the employers of building trades mechanics formed an organization, and promised to settle the matter, provided the strikers returned to work.

In this the trades replied that they had been dealing with the Master Builders' Association, who had contracted with them to see that the master plumbers lived up to the award, and could not recognize the employers' association in the controversy.

After the withdrawal of the bricklayers from the Building Trades Council, and a change in the executive committee, the trades receded from their position and agreed to stand by the findings of the joint conference committee, with Capt. Oyster as referee. The committee was composed of the board of governors of the Employers' Association and the executive committee of the Building Trades.

Every question considered by this committee was fought bitterly, and on every vote taken the result was invariably 15 to 15. Several propositions were advanced by both sides, and finally was appointed to devise ways and means was appointed.

It is not known if it was the report of this committee that was adopted. The resolution passed, and the findings adopted are long, it is understood, containing in all over 2,500 words. This statement will be made public tomorrow.

It is probable that the question of returning the men on strike to work will be presented to the full Building Trades Council at its next meeting.

The decision, it is understood, is in favor of the roofers. The work of putting on the roof will be commenced immediately.

Accompanied by Mrs. Hale, the Senator arrived in Baltimore yesterday morning and immediately went to the hospital, where he is under the professional care of Dr. Hugh H. Young.

Senator Hale has been ill for some time, and recently his condition became serious. At the advice of his family physician he came to Baltimore, and Dr. Young performed an operation on him this morning. While the Senator's condition is serious, Dr. Young has hopes for his recovery.

CUMMINS OUT FOR SENATE

Governor Dismisses Political Calm of Iowa.

Formally Announces that He Will Endeavor to Supplant William Boyd Allison.

Des Moines, Iowa, May 29.—The political calm which has existed in Iowa since last year when the Cummins-Perkins gubernatorial fight ended in victory for the former was suddenly ended to-day by the formal announcement of Gov. A. B. Cummins that he will make a fight for the seat which has been occupied by United States Senator William B. Allison. The anti-Cummins faction leaders were sending telegrams throughout the State to trusted lieutenants to be ready for the fight in opposition to the Cummins Senatorial candidacy.

Senator Allison has never intimated that he would not be a candidate for re-election to the position which he has held as long as most people in the State can remember, and it is expected that he will now again rally the loyal followers which he has had for so many years. Even should Senator Allison, who will be eighty years old when his term expires, in March, 1909, retire from the race, it would be utterly impossible to bring the Allison following to the support of the Cummins candidacy.

By his bitter attacks on the tariff question, Cummins has alienated the Republican protectionists, while a letter he once wrote, indorsing the free and unlimited coinage of silver, is constantly hobbling up to cause him embarrassment among the conservative financial interests of the State.

If, for any cause, Senator Allison should be eliminated from the race, it is believed that ex-Congressman John F. Lacy would at once enter the field as the candidate of the anti-Cummins, or "stand-pat," element. Lacy is a strong tariff man, and has a fine civil war record, and is popular with the masses, and his friends insist, would be an ideal candidate to pit against Cummins.

For the first time Iowa will have a primary nomination election next year. Voters will then indicate their preference for United States Senator.

CUYAHOGA FOR TAFT

County Indorses Secretary; Others Will Follow.

COMMITTEE IS UNANIMOUS

Candidate Passes Through Cincinnati on His Way to St. Louis, Where He Delivers a Speech to-day—Cabinet Officer Suffering from a Severe Cold—Travels Unattended.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 29.—The Republican central committee of Cuyahoga County, of which Cleveland is the county seat, unanimously indorsed Secretary of War Taft for the Presidency at a meeting to-night.

Prominent Republicans who were present predicted that other county committees would take similar action and that within a few months every county in the State would have declared for Taft.

Cincinnati, Ohio, May 29.—Secretary of War Taft passed through here to-day on his way to St. Louis, remaining in his car the few minutes he was in the city. His brother, Charles P. Taft, and several newspaper men were admitted to an audience with the Secretary.

Asked regarding a reported "conference" in Washington recently, the Secretary said:

"It was a quiet and informal little dinner party. But some correspondents in Washington who are gifted with most marvelous powers of vision saw in it a great political pow-wow."

Mr. Taft is suffering from a severe cold, which threatened at one time to interfere with his address at St. Louis. Consequently, on the advice of his physician, he is proceeding directly to the West instead of stopping over a night in Cincinnati. He will return June 2, and will remain a few hours. He came from Washington unattended.

He expressed great regret that he was unable to attend the funeral of Mrs. William McKinley at Canton.

TOWN OF SEIM ON WHEELS.

Residents Will Locate on Railroad, Twelve Miles from Present Site.

Bellfleur, S. Dak., May 29.—The town of Seim, in the northeastern portion of this county, is preparing to take up its post-office, its business, and most of its buildings and move bodily twelve miles to the new town site on the extension of the Milwaukee Railroad, which has reached that far with its Pacific Coast extension.

The newspaper, bank, business houses, and most of the residences have made all arrangements, and the moving will begin immediately. The new location's special advantage is the railroad.

If old Seim was to continue as a town, it would have the new Seim on the railroad to fight, and the citizens last week took a vote on the subject and decided to move. The hitherto prosperous town will go to swell the already large list of Western towns that have been killed by the railroads.

HARRIMAN'S SECRETARY FREE.

Sentence Suspended on Man Who Sold Letter Accusing President.

New York, May 29.—Frank W. Hill, formerly secretary to Edward H. Harriman, who sold the famous "Where do I stand?" letter, written by Mr. Harriman to Sidney Webster, accusing President Roosevelt, pleaded guilty in the Court of Special Sessions to-day to violating section 942 of the Penal Code, which prohibits the making public of private documents by employees.

Presiding Justice Zeller, on the recommendation of Assistant District Attorney Krotel and at the request of Mr. Harriman, suspended sentence.

Hill, whose appearance indicated that he had suffered severely from the disgrace attending his arrest, came into court accompanied by his counsel.

Justice Zeller, after a conference with his colleagues, announced that sentence would be suspended.

RUEF TO BE A WITNESS.

Deposed Boss Will Testify Against Mayor Schmitt at Trial.

San Francisco, May 29.—From proceedings in the trial of Mayor Schmitt to-day it is plain Ruef will be used as a witness against his former partner in graft. Ruef himself appeared in court for sentence, but at the suggestion of Prosecutor Henry sentence was deferred for two weeks. Then, in questioning by the defense, Ruef testified:

"Would the fact that Ruef confessed prejudice you against his testimony, should he appear as a witness in this trial?"

Taking these things together, it is plain Ruef will be used as a witness. Ruef sat near Mayor Schmitt in Judge Dunne's courtroom to-day, but neither recognized the other. Both looked nervous and self-conscious, and Schmitt appeared relieved when Ruef left court.

DEFENDS PROPERTY RIGHTS.

Judge William J. Wallace Attacks Tendency of Recent Legislation.

New York, May 29.—In paying a high tribute to the ability, integrity and fairness of the Federal judiciary, former Circuit Court Judge William J. Wallace, who recently retired of his own motion, attacked the present-day tendency to destroy property rights by legislation at the dinner given in his honor to-night at the Waldor by the bar of the State of New York.

About 45 members and a few guests sat down to the banquet in the grand ballroom. Ex-Judge Alton B. Parker was the toastmaster. He spoke highly of Judge Wallace as a judge and lawyer.

RIDGELY TALKS TO BANKERS

Comptroller of Currency Guest of Honor at Dinner in Detroit.

Detroit, May 29.—William Barrett Ridgely, comptroller of the currency, addressed the Detroit Bankers' Club at a dinner to-night.

Mr. Ridgely declared at the outset that the workingman is more dependent on good banking and currency laws and on a stable currency system than the rich man. He said, in part:

"It would be highly advisable, in my opinion, as a means of minimizing the disturbance of the money market, and business affairs generally, to keep the funds on deposit in the banks, and only withdraw them to the Treasury to replenish the funds there for expenditures after they have actually been made. This would keep the money in circulation, and reduce to a minimum the disturbance we now complain of so much, caused by the withdrawal of funds from circulation, to be locked up in the Treasury vaults."

"One of the main causes of the annual fall stringency is that at the time the money goes to the West and South, the customs revenue, the Vares, and the Treasury takes large amounts of money from the money centers just as the other demand is made. If it were understood that this cause of disturbance was to be removed, it would do as much to relieve the strain of crop-moving as any special steps the Treasury could take to relieve the stringency after it had begun to appear."

"The chief advantage in adopting the policy thus advocated in the management of the government finances would be that it could be steadily adhered to as a fixed policy for the future and its withdrawal. The business world would know positively what the department would do, and could make its calculations accordingly. It would substitute a definite plan, on the correct principle of the least possible interference with business of all kinds, for the present method of taking more or less money out of circulation without reference to conditions, to be returned only by special action, after more or less harm has been done by these withdrawals."

"It may not be wise to adopt this policy at once, but this is the correct principle, and one which should ultimately be applied. This may be considered radical, but it is right, and it is better to be radically right than conservatively wrong."
