

FEDERAL AMERICAN BANKING CORPORATION

OF WASHINGTON, D. C.

Minimum Capital, $100,000. (Capital to Be Increased to at Least $500,000.) Shares, $10 Par Value.

Subscription Books now open at the Bank Building, northwest corner 12th and G Streets. James J. Collins, formerly of National Bank of Washington, Manager of Subscriptions.

THE INCORPORATORS of the Federal American Banking Corporation of Washington, D. C.—a corporation now in the process of organization to do a general banking business along new lines, under the authority and supervision of the Comptroller of the Currency of the United States—announce that the success of the institution is assured, and that the SUBSCRIPTION BOOKS ARE NOW OPEN.

The officers and directors of the corporation are to be selected from the subscribers to the capital stock and will be successful and conservative business men of the National Capital. It is not the purpose of this corporation to in any way antagonize existing conditions with reference to the savings banks or trust companies of Washington.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

The stock may be subscribed for on terms of all cash or 10 per cent or more of the subscription cash, and 10 per cent or more per month, with interest at the rate of 5 per cent per annum. At least ten days' notice will be given all subscribers before the first payment will be required to be made.

Five shares can be subscribed for on terms of $5 cash and $5 per month; 10 shares on terms of $10 cash and $10 per month; 25 shares on terms of $25 cash and $25 per month; 50 shares on terms of $50 cash and $50 per month; 100 shares on terms of $100 cash and $100 per month. Deferred payments bear interest at 5 per cent.

Subscriptions will be received for any number of shares, from one to one thousand shares. It is desired to secure subscriptions in small blocks. A glance at the price list of the various bank stocks of the city will demonstrate the wisdom of purchasing Washington City bank stocks. This is a rare opportunity to secure stock at par in small blocks in a Washington bank.

It is confidently believed that the Federal American Banking Corporation in devoting all its energies, under Federal supervision, to the development of a great general banking business, along new lines, is abreast of the most advanced thought and has before it a field of great promise, much of which is as yet unoccupied in the National Capital.

Washington is the gateway to the South. It is growing at a rate not appreciated by its citizens, and as long as the national government lives the city will prosper, and with it its financial institutions.

Washington has long been recognized as the social and political center of the United States, and is destined to be one of the great financial centers of this country. The Capital City lies at the very threshold of the undeveloped South and is possessed of possibilities that this generation cannot estimate.

R. A. PINKERTON DEAD

Head of Detective Agency Expires Aboard Liner.

BEGAN CAREER IN CIVIL WAR

Worked with Father, Then in Charge of Government Secret Service, in Department of Gulf—Was Fifty-nine Years of Age—Began Work as Soon as He Left School.

New York, Aug. 17.—William Pinkerton will probably leave on the first steamer for England to bring back the body of his brother, Robert Allan, head of the great Pinkerton detective agency, whose death aboard the steamer Bremen last Monday, was reported to-day from Plymouth.

Mr. Pinkerton was on his way to Europe, intending to visit Germany for his health, and was accompanied by Mr. Florrie Sullivan.

William Pinkerton is now en route to this city from the West to take charge of arrangements for the funeral and will arrive to-morrow.

The deceased was born in Dundee, Ill., in 1848, was married on March 6, 1872, to Miss Anna E. Hughes, in Austin, Ill., and is survived by his wife, a son, Allan, and two daughters, Miss Mary Pinkerton and Mrs. Lewis Mills Gibb, formerly Miss Anna Pinkerton, whose home is at 303 Garfield place, Brooklyn. The entire family is now at Bay Shore, L. I., where Mr. Pinkerton established a beautiful country home some years ago.

Was Youngest Son.

Robert Allan Pinkerton was the youngest son of Allan Pinkerton, the founder of the Pinkerton detective agency, who was at the head of the Federal Secret Service during the civil war and whose able work not only thwarted a well organized plot to kill President Lincoln while the latter was en route from Illinois to Washington to be inaugurated, but was of such material assistance to the government throughout the war as to win for him the repeated thanks and praise of President Lincoln, Secretaries Stanton and Chase, and other high government officials.

Takes Charge in East.

A short time afterward the father was stricken with paralysis, and through his faculties remained clear and unimpaired and he retained a general oversight of the business until the time of his death, in 1884, the general management passed into the hands of the two sons, William A. taking charge of the Western department of the work, with headquarters in Chicago, and Robert A. becoming the head of the Eastern department, with offices in New York City.

Under the management of the two brothers, the business of the agency in-

Denied Order to Exhume Body of Man Insured for $600,000.

Topeka, Kans., Aug. 17.—Judge Smith McPherson, of the United States District Court, to-day filed a decision denying the application of the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York for an order to exhume the body of the late Lucius H. Perkins, of Lawrence, Kans. Perkins died in June last after a fall from the top of his residence.

In December, 1906, Perkins had taken out a policy for $100,000 in the Mutual Life Company. After his death the company refused to pay the highest amount of the policy, and filed a petition asking the court for an order to exhume the body and to allow an analysis to be made of the contents of the stomach, indicating that Perkins had died from poisoning. The heirs of Perkins filed a demurrer to the bill of complaint.

Judge McPherson in his decision filed to-day denies the application of the complainant for an order to exhume the body, sustains the demurrer of the heirs, and orders that the insurance company pay the costs of the suit.

Mr. Perkins at the time of his death held policies in various companies aggregating $600,000. Several of these companies have already paid the face value of these policies.

Former Senator Warner Miller Discusses Political Situation.

Believes Republican Nomination for President Lies Between Taft, Fairbanks, and Cannon.

Utica, Aug. 17.—Former United States Senator Warner Miller does not believe that President Roosevelt will be re-nominated by the Republican National Convention next year. The ex-Senator, in an extended interview to be published in the Utica Tribune to-morrow, has this to say regarding the Presidential situation:

"Speaking in regard to the candidate to be nominated by the Republican party next year, some complaint is heard that New York usurps more than her share of Presidents."

"The same complaint was made at the formation of our government concerning Virginia. Arthur and Roosevelt were elected Vice Presidents, Virginia and Ohio were the birthplaces of Grant, Garfield, and McKinley. Now, the Republican party has not been too avoculous, but has sought for the best candidates available. The control is now west of the Alleghenies. Should New York receive the nomination it will be by courtesy."

"Bryan will probably run on the Democratic ticket, but he will be snarled under again. There will be no fight in the Democratic nomination, for who is there sufficiently capable to wrest the leadership from the Nebraska? There is some talk among the Republicans for Hughes for President, but he is doing excellent work as governor, and his work there is not completed."

WIFE SUES BIG GAMBLER.

Seeks Divorce from John Strossider, a New Yorker.

New York, Aug. 17.—Some sensational developments are promised when the suit for divorce instituted to-day by Mrs. John Strossider against her husband, a millionaire gambler, comes to trial.

Mrs. Strossider says she has forgiven her husband for many indiscretions. Strossider is the man who was accused several years ago of fitting up a fake gambling house and swindling Dr. John A. Harris out of $12,500. Later, it was charged, Harris, under threat of sending Strossider to prison, induced his wife to transfer to him property on Long Island. He was tried on a charge of extortion, but acquitted.

FACTORY GIRLS IN PANIC.

Fight Each Other in Effort to Escape from Burning Building.

New York, Aug. 17.—Five exciting rescues, a panic among 200 girls, many of whom were injured, and the loss of property, valued at $500,000, marked a fire which began in the J. H. Paddock Cork Works, in Brooklyn, to-day, and spread to adjoining structures.

The 200 girls employed in the cork works were terror stricken when they saw the flames rising about them, and made efforts to escape, scrambling over one another in a wild panic of fright. Helen and Agnes Madden, caught in the crush, fainted. Firemen made their way into the building, found both unconscious, and carried them out. Two other women and a man, overcome by smoke, were also rescued.

The fire also damaged the establishment of the New York Coffee Roasting Company, the Nassau Coffee Company, and the Nassau Machine Company. Severe damage was done the plant of the De Haven Manufacturing Company, on which $150,000 insurance was carried.

Steamboats Celebrate One Hundredth Anniversary.

Robert Fulton Monument Association Goes Over Course of Clermont's Experimental Trip.

New York, Aug. 17.—With a roar like thunder, more than 5,000 great steam whistles sounded about New York and Brooklyn from exactly 1 o'clock this afternoon until five minutes after, in commemoration of the 100th anniversary of the use of steam for navigation.

Just 100 years ago Robert Fulton started on his first voyage up the Hudson River in the Clermont, marking the beginning of the great steamboat industry.

It is estimated that in the first minute of the whistling to-day that more steam was expended than was made in the boilers of the Clermont during the life of the great inventor.

The Robert Fulton Monument Association made a trip up the river to-day, following the course taken by Fulton on his experimental trip.

WRONG BODY BURIED.

Man Mourned as Dead Assures Relatives He Still Lives.

Fall River, Mass., Aug. 17.—The relatives of James Gaffney, of this city, were astounded to-day to learn that the body of a man they had buried in St. Patrick's cemetery, here, Wednesday last was not Gaffney at all, and that Gaffney is alive and well, in Cohoes, N. Y. The body which was buried as his, was a double for Gaffney, even to a tattoo mark "J. G." on the right arm.

Gaffney talked over the long distance telephone from Cohoes to Fall River, to-day, and satisfied his mother and sister that they had not buried him. The question now is, who was the man they buried?
