

THE WASHINGTON HERALD

Published Every Morning in the Year by THE WASHINGTON HERALD COMPANY.

714 FIFTEENTH STREET NORTHWEST.

Entered as second-class matter, October 3, 1894, at the post-office at Washington, D. C., under act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

SCOTT C. BONE, Editor.

James H. Merrick, Treasurer; J. H. Galt, Assistant Treasurer; J. Harry Connelley, Auditor; Charles L. Cole, Managing Editor; J. Rowe Stewart, Advertising Manager; Charles C. Thompson, Mechanical Superintendent.

Telephone Main 5300. (Private Branch Exchange.)

The Washington Herald is delivered by carrier in the District of Columbia and at Alexandria, Va., at 5 cents per month, daily and Sunday, or at 25 cents per month without the Sunday issue.

Subscription Rates by Mail.

Daily and Sunday, 25 cents per month; Daily and Sunday, $3.00 per year; Daily, without Sunday, 15 cents per month; Daily, without Sunday, $1.80 per year.

No attention will be paid to anonymous contributions, and no communications to the editor will be printed except over the name of the writer.

Manuscripts offered for publication will be returned if unavailable, but stamps should be sent with the manuscript for that purpose.

All communications intended for this newspaper, whether for the daily or the Sunday issue, should be addressed to THE WASHINGTON HERALD.

NEW YORK Representative, SMITH-WILBERDING SPECIAL AGENCY, Tribune Building; Chicago Representative, CHARLES A. BARNARD, Bove Building.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 27, 1907.

New Light on Tariff Revision.

One of the main props of the standard argument against tariff revision... The tariff is a tax on the consumer... The tariff is a tax on the consumer... The tariff is a tax on the consumer...

Some of the Supply People, however, have seen a new light.

According to Mr. Miles, who uses lumber, steel, and leather, the steel and leather interests are willing to submit to revision of the schedules affecting their interests.

Washington School Scandal Again.

The board of education as constituted by the law last passed is a failure... The board of education as constituted by the law last passed is a failure...

The Importance of Administration.

Gov. Hughes, in one of his recent speeches, adverted to a topic upon which this paper commented some months ago... The importance of administration as compared with legislation.

Natural Check to Immigration.

The slowing down of industrial enterprise due to the money stringency will have the not unwelcome effect of minimizing the importance of the immigration problem, at least for the present.

Needless Encouragement.

The Philadelphia Record publishes a poem which begins: "Sleep on, sleep on, fair city." The Record need not worry.

Or More Chesty.

From the New York Evening Post. Now that it is possible to make use of the telephone while holding the receiver against one's chest, heart to heart talks over the wire should prove more persuasive than they usually are.

A Crying Need.

From the Kansas City Star. Sixty dogs, valued at $25,000, perished in a fire in New York this week.

Movement Unmasked.

From the Charleston News and Courier. The proposition that Washington be made a prohibition town is merely a ruse to make St. Louis the National Capital.

Presidency Seeking Hughes.

From the Brooklyn Eagle. The Presidency never sought Cleveland or Tilden or McKinley more plainly than it is seeking Hughes.

and finds therein ample scope for administrative abilities that, when possessed by our public officials, are too often devoted to building up a party machine and directing the movements of a partisan organization, instead of to bettering the public service.

There is not a State or a municipality in the country that cannot improve upon its administration by the selection of executives of proved fitness and integrity.

There still remain a few things a king may do that our American Presidents dare not undertake.

Santa Claus is Robust and Strong! Says the Nashville American:

"Christmas is coming on apace! Yes, and Santa is on a kink."

Oh, no! He isn't on a crutch, anything of the kind, and he never will be.

Seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars of gold from Japan has been received in San Francisco.

When Congress meets next Monday, Rhode Island will be represented by one Senator only.

Perhaps it isn't altogether fair at this time to laugh at that Irish-Indian girl's picture.

What we want to know is, how is the South to manage with denatured mince pie on Thanksgiving and at Christmas.

A Georgia town has prohibited bowling alleys. There is no use arguing the matter.

We dislike to rub anything in on a counting-room, but we refer the Norfolk Landmark, never to be forgotten.

Through woe and weal, through pomp and pride; Through troubles of our business life.

The paragraph reformation advocated by the Richmond Times-Dispatch and the New York Mail has our hearty endorsement.

A man thinks it very unseemly for Mr. Justice Brewer to "butt in" on Mr. Roosevelt's affairs.

Perhaps, however, it might not be unfair to confess that the real Texas comes up to the extravagant pretensions of the Houston Post.

A number of Chicago married women have resolved that they will not kiss their respective husbands when there is to be detected any odor of strong drink about them.

The worst objection the average man has to clearing-house certificates is that they show no more disposition to grow on trees than real money does.

The Armour Packing Company has announced "another decline in the price of meat," which is a startling piece of news.

Because the captain wouldn't let a certain Florida football player kick whenever he wanted to kick, he has kicked entirely out of the traces and broken up the team.

A brass key weighing about an ounce was found in a Delaware chicken's gizzard recently.

As long as raw cotton is quoted at 19 cents, Southern farmers seem determined to make it as rare as possible, also.

The kind of jingoism with which we challenge attention in our Western attitude toward everybody east of us means that they shall not go hungry if we can have our way.

The slowing down of industrial enterprise due to the money stringency will have the not unwelcome effect of minimizing the importance of the immigration problem.

The Philadelphia Record publishes a poem which begins: "Sleep on, sleep on, fair city."

From the New York Evening Post. Now that it is possible to make use of the telephone while holding the receiver against one's chest, heart to heart talks over the wire should prove more persuasive than they usually are.

From the Kansas City Star. Sixty dogs, valued at $25,000, perished in a fire in New York this week.

From the Charleston News and Courier. The proposition that Washington be made a prohibition town is merely a ruse to make St. Louis the National Capital.

From the Brooklyn Eagle. The Presidency never sought Cleveland or Tilden or McKinley more plainly than it is seeking Hughes.

A LITTLE NONSENSE.

THE THANKSGIVING TRIP. Fillet stop will be Pumpkintown.

All aboard! Here we travel. Let the iron horse pound the gravel.

Railroad bridge! At Grand Ridge! Better slack up speed a trifle!

Let us stop, too! Toot, toot, toot! Toot us stop on route.

Yonder looms the Pickett steep. Hurry, get aboard, good people!

All brakes down! It's Trucktown. In on time, as I'm a sinner!

And methought the air grew denser. Incessant from an unseen censer!

"Naw," responded a practical person. "Gasoline from a buzzbang that just passed."

Building a Play. "Are you the man that wrote this soap ad?"

"I am." "Original with you?" "Quite."

"What'll you take for the dramatic rights?" "I think I'll go into the meat business," declared the real estate man.

"What do you know about the meat business?" "I've figured out the principles of the game. You buy an unimproved cow and subdivide it."

I'll not to thee. My woes rehearse. What'er they be. They might be worse.

"What do you get out of life?" demanded the carper. "What I put into it, plus a fair interest," answered the thoughtful man.

"The sweet to hear the watchdog's honest bark." "That's a queer expression. Ain't all barks honest?"

"Not all. I've heard some at the seashore that were not in the best of faith."

Now the poet goes his way, peddling poetry day by day. "And," added the bard, "those of you who have trouble in disposing of gilt-edged securities can imagine what the poor poet is up against."

THE QUERY "Does an exposition pay?" meets always with the immediate and enthusiastic reply: "Indirectly, yes; directly and financially, never."

Through woe and weal, through pomp and pride; Through troubles of our business life.

The paragraph reformation advocated by the Richmond Times-Dispatch and the New York Mail has our hearty endorsement.

A man thinks it very unseemly for Mr. Justice Brewer to "butt in" on Mr. Roosevelt's affairs.

Perhaps, however, it might not be unfair to confess that the real Texas comes up to the extravagant pretensions of the Houston Post.

A number of Chicago married women have resolved that they will not kiss their respective husbands when there is to be detected any odor of strong drink about them.

The worst objection the average man has to clearing-house certificates is that they show no more disposition to grow on trees than real money does.

The Armour Packing Company has announced "another decline in the price of meat," which is a startling piece of news.

Because the captain wouldn't let a certain Florida football player kick whenever he wanted to kick, he has kicked entirely out of the traces and broken up the team.

A brass key weighing about an ounce was found in a Delaware chicken's gizzard recently.

As long as raw cotton is quoted at 19 cents, Southern farmers seem determined to make it as rare as possible, also.

The kind of jingoism with which we challenge attention in our Western attitude toward everybody east of us means that they shall not go hungry if we can have our way.

The slowing down of industrial enterprise due to the money stringency will have the not unwelcome effect of minimizing the importance of the immigration problem.

The Philadelphia Record publishes a poem which begins: "Sleep on, sleep on, fair city."

From the New York Evening Post. Now that it is possible to make use of the telephone while holding the receiver against one's chest, heart to heart talks over the wire should prove more persuasive than they usually are.

From the Kansas City Star. Sixty dogs, valued at $25,000, perished in a fire in New York this week.

From the Charleston News and Courier. The proposition that Washington be made a prohibition town is merely a ruse to make St. Louis the National Capital.

From the Brooklyn Eagle. The Presidency never sought Cleveland or Tilden or McKinley more plainly than it is seeking Hughes.

EXPOSITIONS.

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

The Jamestown Exposition, which closes this week, is another milestone that marks the progress of the nation along the many lines of industrial and artistic endeavor.

The ever-restless Phenicians visited the Mediterranean countries each year, and fairs always marked their coming.

The first world's fair was that held in the Crystal Palace, London, in 1851, but the first real international exposition was that at Philadelphia in 1876.

The Centennial of the United States, as head of the executive branch of the government, has a perfect right to adopt a policy and to carry out that policy to the full extent of his powers.

The President of the United States, as head of the executive branch of the government, has a perfect right to adopt a policy and to carry out that policy to the full extent of his powers.

The President of the United States, as head of the executive branch of the government, has a perfect right to adopt a policy and to carry out that policy to the full extent of his powers.

The President of the United States, as head of the executive branch of the government, has a perfect right to adopt a policy and to carry out that policy to the full extent of his powers.

The President of the United States, as head of the executive branch of the government, has a perfect right to adopt a policy and to carry out that policy to the full extent of his powers.

The President of the United States, as head of the executive branch of the government, has a perfect right to adopt a policy and to carry out that policy to the full extent of his powers.

The President of the United States, as head of the executive branch of the government, has a perfect right to adopt a policy and to carry out that policy to the full extent of his powers.

The President of the United States, as head of the executive branch of the government, has a perfect right to adopt a policy and to carry out that policy to the full extent of his powers.

The President of the United States, as head of the executive branch of the government, has a perfect right to adopt a policy and to carry out that policy to the full extent of his powers.

The President of the United States, as head of the executive branch of the government, has a perfect right to adopt a policy and to carry out that policy to the full extent of his powers.

The President of the United States, as head of the executive branch of the government, has a perfect right to adopt a policy and to carry out that policy to the full extent of his powers.

The President of the United States, as head of the executive branch of the government, has a perfect right to adopt a policy and to carry out that policy to the full extent of his powers.

The President of the United States, as head of the executive branch of the government, has a perfect right to adopt a policy and to carry out that policy to the full extent of his powers.

The President of the United States, as head of the executive branch of the government, has a perfect right to adopt a policy and to carry out that policy to the full extent of his powers.

The President of the United States, as head of the executive branch of the government, has a perfect right to adopt a policy and to carry out that policy to the full extent of his powers.

The President of the United States, as head of the executive branch of the government, has a perfect right to adopt a policy and to carry out that policy to the full extent of his powers.

The President of the United States, as head of the executive branch of the government, has a perfect right to adopt a policy and to carry out that policy to the full extent of his powers.

The President of the United States, as head of the executive branch of the government, has a perfect right to adopt a policy and to carry out that policy to the full extent of his powers.

The President of the United States, as head of the executive branch of the government, has a perfect right to adopt a policy and to carry out that policy to the full extent of his powers.

The President of the United States, as head of the executive branch of the government, has a perfect right to adopt a policy and to carry out that policy to the full extent of his powers.

The President of the United States, as head of the executive branch of the government, has a perfect right to adopt a policy and to carry out that policy to the full extent of his powers.

The President of the United States, as head of the executive branch of the government, has a perfect right to adopt a policy and to carry out that policy to the full extent of his powers.

The President of the United States, as head of the executive branch of the government, has a perfect right to adopt a policy and to carry out that policy to the full extent of his powers.

PRESIDENTIAL POLITICS.

Independent Press Opinion on His Attempt at Party Domination.

From the Indianapolis News. Gen. Grant was as honest, wise, and patriotic as President Roosevelt, and had rendered far greater service to the country.

He who trusts that the President will himself see that he ought to broaden the scope of his order. Thus he will demonstrate his own belief in popular as distinguished from bureaucratic government.

The President of the United States, as head of the executive branch of the government, has a perfect right to adopt a policy and to carry out that policy to the full extent of his powers.

The President of the United States, as head of the executive branch of the government, has a perfect right to adopt a policy and to carry out that policy to the full extent of his powers.

The President of the United States, as head of the executive branch of the government, has a perfect right to adopt a policy and to carry out that policy to the full extent of his powers.

The President of the United States, as head of the executive branch of the government, has a perfect right to adopt a policy and to carry out that policy to the full extent of his powers.

The President of the United States, as head of the executive branch of the government, has a perfect right to adopt a policy and to carry out that policy to the full extent of his powers.

The President of the United States, as head of the executive branch of the government, has a perfect right to adopt a policy and to carry out that policy to the full extent of his powers.

The President of the United States, as head of the executive branch of the government, has a perfect right to adopt a policy and to carry out that policy to the full extent of his powers.

The President of the United States, as head of the executive branch of the government, has a perfect right to adopt a policy and to carry out that policy to the full extent of his powers.

The President of the United States, as head of the executive branch of the government, has a perfect right to adopt a policy and to carry out that policy to the full extent of his powers.

The President of the United States, as head of the executive branch of the government, has a perfect right to adopt a policy and to carry out that policy to the full extent of his powers.

The President of the United States, as head of the executive branch of the government, has a perfect right to adopt a policy and to carry out that policy to the full extent of his powers.

The President of the United States, as head of the executive branch of the government, has a perfect right to adopt a policy and to carry out that policy to the full extent of his powers.

The President of the United States, as head of the executive branch of the government, has a perfect right to adopt a policy and to carry out that policy to the full extent of his powers.

The President of the United States, as head of the executive branch of the government, has a perfect right to adopt a policy and to carry out that policy to the full extent of his powers.

The President of the United States, as head of the executive branch of the government, has a perfect right to adopt a policy and to carry out that policy to the full extent of his powers.

The President of the United States, as head of the executive branch of the government, has a perfect right to adopt a policy and to carry out that policy to the full extent of his powers.

The President of the United States, as head of the executive branch of the government, has a perfect right to adopt a policy and to carry out that policy to the full extent of his powers.

The President of the United States, as head of the executive branch of the government, has a perfect right to adopt a policy and to carry out that policy to the full extent of his powers.

The President of the United States, as head of the executive branch of the government, has a perfect right to adopt a policy and to carry out that policy to the full extent of his powers.

The President of the United States, as head of the executive branch of the government, has a perfect right to adopt a policy and to carry out that policy to the full extent of his powers.

The President of the United States, as head of the executive branch of the government, has a perfect right to adopt a policy and to carry out that policy to the full extent of his powers.

The President of the United States, as head of the executive branch of the government, has a perfect right to adopt a policy and to carry out that policy to the full extent of his powers.

The President of the United States, as head of the executive branch of the government, has a perfect right to adopt a policy and to carry out that policy to the full extent of his powers.

The President of the United States, as head of the executive branch of the government, has a perfect right to adopt a policy and to carry out that policy to the full extent of his powers.

AT THE HOTELS.

The Illinois delegation will be for Speaker Joe Cannon without a doubt," said Judge Peter S. Grosscup.

The country is in a state of confusion, and far as national politics are concerned, it is hard to say who will become the Republican nominee.

Judge Grosscup says he does not feel qualified to say who will be the favorite of the Republican party.

It is also a mistake to say, "The nation will have more money per capita than we have ever had."

This new statute will show the "aloneness" of Lincoln. I know of no word that will exactly convey my meaning other than that it is not isolation.

This new statute will show the "aloneness" of Lincoln. I know of no word that will exactly convey my meaning other than that it is not isolation.

This new statute will show the "aloneness" of Lincoln. I know of no word that will exactly convey my meaning other than that it is not isolation.

This new statute will show the "aloneness" of Lincoln. I know of no word that will exactly convey my meaning other than that it is not isolation.

This new statute will show the "aloneness" of Lincoln. I know of no word that will exactly convey my meaning other than that it is not isolation.

This new statute will show the "aloneness" of Lincoln. I know of no word that will exactly convey my meaning other than that it is not isolation.

This new statute will show the "aloneness" of Lincoln. I know of no word that will exactly convey my meaning other than that it is not isolation.

This new statute will show the "aloneness" of Lincoln. I know of no word that will exactly convey my meaning other than that it is not isolation.

This new statute will show the "aloneness" of Lincoln. I know of no word that will exactly convey my meaning other than that it is not isolation.

This new statute will show the "aloneness" of Lincoln. I know of no word that will exactly convey my meaning other than that it is not isolation.

This new statute will show the "aloneness" of Lincoln. I know of no word that will exactly convey my meaning other than that it is not isolation.

This new statute will show the "aloneness" of Lincoln. I know of no word that will exactly convey my meaning other than that it is not isolation.

This new statute will show the "aloneness" of Lincoln. I know of no word that will exactly convey my meaning other than that it is not isolation.

This new statute will show the "aloneness" of Lincoln. I know of no word that will exactly convey my meaning other than that it is not isolation.

This new statute will show the "aloneness" of Lincoln. I know of no word that will exactly convey my meaning other than that it is not isolation.

This new statute will show the "aloneness" of Lincoln. I know of no word that will exactly convey my meaning other than that it is not isolation.

This new statute will show the "aloneness" of Lincoln. I know of no word that will exactly convey my meaning other than that it is not isolation.

This new statute will show the "aloneness" of Lincoln. I know of no word that will exactly convey my meaning other than that it is not isolation.

This new statute will show the "aloneness" of Lincoln. I know of no word that will exactly convey my meaning other than that it is not isolation.

This new statute will show the "aloneness" of Lincoln. I know of no word that will exactly convey my meaning other than that it is not isolation.

This new statute will show the "aloneness" of Lincoln. I know of no word that will exactly convey my meaning other than that it is not isolation.

This new statute will show the "aloneness" of Lincoln. I know of no word that will exactly convey my meaning other than that it is not isolation.

This new statute will show the "aloneness" of Lincoln. I know of no word that will exactly convey my meaning other than that it is not isolation.

UNDER UNWRITTEN LAW.

Safeguards of Civilization Destroyed by Recent Rulings.

From American Medicine. The recent acquittal of Judge Lovin (in Virginia) is of tremendous medico-legal importance.

The recent acquittal of Judge Lovin (in Virginia) is of tremendous medico-legal importance.

The recent acquittal of Judge Lovin (in Virginia) is of tremendous medico-legal importance.

The recent acquittal of Judge Lovin (in Virginia) is of tremendous medico-legal importance.

The recent acquittal of Judge Lovin (in Virginia) is of tremendous medico-legal importance.

The recent acquittal of Judge Lovin (in Virginia) is of tremendous medico-legal importance.

The recent acquittal of Judge Lovin (in Virginia) is of tremendous medico-legal importance.

The recent acquittal of Judge Lovin (in Virginia) is of tremendous medico-legal importance.

The recent acquittal of Judge Lovin (in Virginia) is of tremendous medico-legal importance.

The recent acquittal of Judge Lovin (in Virginia) is of tremendous medico-legal importance.

The recent acquittal of Judge Lovin (in Virginia) is of tremendous medico-legal importance.

The recent acquittal of Judge Lovin (in Virginia) is of tremendous medico-legal importance.

The recent acquittal of Judge Lovin (in Virginia) is of tremendous medico-legal importance.

The recent acquittal of Judge Lovin (in Virginia) is of tremendous medico-legal importance.

The recent acquittal of Judge Lovin (in Virginia) is of tremendous medico-legal importance.

The recent acquittal of Judge Lovin (in Virginia) is of tremendous medico-legal importance.

The recent acquittal of Judge Lovin (in Virginia) is of tremendous medico-legal importance.

The recent acquittal of Judge Lovin (in Virginia) is of tremendous medico-legal importance.

The recent acquittal of Judge Lovin (in Virginia) is of tremendous medico-legal importance.

The recent acquittal of Judge Lovin (in Virginia) is of tremendous medico-legal importance.

The